Space Sweethearts To Be Wed Sunday

MOSCOW (UPI)—Cosmonette Valentina Tereshkova and her sweetheart in space, Andrian Nikolayev, will be married in Moscow Sunday, it was announced officially today.

The foreign ministry, confirming a story that has been an open secret here for days, said the nuptials will be followed by a party in the official House of Receptions in Lenin Hills.

Western reporters were invited to the celebration but the wedding, in one of Moscow's two "palaces of marriage," was declared off-limits to them. However, the ceremony was expected to be televised throughout the Soviet Union.

LABOR LEADERS EDITORS FOR DAY

Just about a year ago, leading Victoria businessmen took over The Times as "Editors for a Day."

The experience proved such a valuable exchange of ideas—both for the businessmen and Times staffers—that it was decided to repeat the performance.

This year, 13 labor leaders have been invited to do the job. Headed by Alf Toone, who is also secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council, they have all accepted.

Here is the "Toone Team" for next Tuesday, Nov. 5:

Managing Editor—Alf Toone.
Guest Editorial—Alf Toone.
News Editor—William Richardson.
City Editor—Murray Drew.
Wire Editor—J. A. Driscoll.
Sports Editor—Vince Butler.
Women's Editor—Mrs. E. Ritchie.
City Hall Reporter—W. G. Gauld.
Police Reporter—J. Moffat.
Legislative Reporter—T. H. Smith.
TV Columnist—J. Galloway.
Movie Columnist—R. Milliken.
Cartoonist—J. Burt.
Photographer—J. Nicol.

News editor Bill Richardson and wife editor J. A. Driscoll have been instructed to report for duty at 6:30 a.m., the regular starting time for Times staffers in checking the early wires. Richardson starts with a slight edge over his colleagues—as an officer of the Victoria Typographical Union, he is a senior employee of Victoria Press Ltd., and thoroughly familiar with the routine.

Special writers have been given complete freedom to "say their piece" in signed columns. Reporters on legislative, city hall and police "beats" will be accompanied by Times writers, who will "show them the ropes" and be available for assistance, if needed.

The Labor team will work right up to copy deadline of 12:30, when they will be hosted at a luncheon by Times publisher Stuart Keate, returning to the plant in time to start the press for regular editions at 2 p.m.

Watch Tuesday night's Times—when Victoria's top labor officials become "Editors for a Day!"

New Craft Forerunner Of Platforms in Space

MOTORIST GETS OWN BACK

BURTON - ON - TRENT, England (AP)—Police Constable Edward Routledge told a motorist he would be reported for parking on the wrong side of the highway at night without lights.

As the policeman rode away on his bicycle, the motorist, Norman Long, noticed that the policeman's rear light wasn't working. So he reported the officer.

Both turned up in court Friday.

The motorist was fined £5 ($15) the policeman £2.

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said today that the new space ship Polyot-1 is the forerunner of vehicles which may be used for building a moon-shot launching platform in space.

Tass news agency quoted Professor Vladimir Dobromirav, a mechanical engineer, as saying that with the perfection of the Polyot space ships "it will be possible to create such space-ships which will solve the task of cosmonauts meeting in outer space."

"Such meetings will be necessary in the future, for building big orbital space stations and for manned flights to the moon and other planets," he added.

The new Soviet spacecraft was launched Friday. It is unmanned.

Compared with the Polyot-1, the manoeuvrability of earlier Sputniks and manned space-ships was limited, he said.

U.S. REACTION TO COUP

New Gov't Expected To Heal Buddhist Rift

UN PROBE EXPECTED TO STOP

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Diplomatic sources indicated today the UN fact-finding mission that was sent to South Viet Nam will drop its investigations.

The seven-nation mission was sent to Saigon 12 days ago, after it was invited to the southeast Asian nation by President Ngo Dinh Diem to investigate charges of discrimination against Buddhists.

Canadians Safe

LONDON (Reuters)—The British embassy in Saigon has informed the foreign office here that all Canadian and British subjects in Saigon are safe, an authoritative source said today.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expects the new government in South Viet Nam to heal the rift with the country's Buddhist majority and speedily resume the war against the Communist guerrillas.

Officials here believe the revolutionary committee of generals that ousted the Diem regime has the widespread popular support necessary for success of the U.S.-backed war effort.

They contend the removal of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, resulted from a conclusion by the Vietnamese army leadership that the Viet Cong could not be defeated under the Roman Catholic-oriented Diem government.

It was noted here that political prisoners, students and Buddhist monks and nuns, imprisoned under Diem and Nhu, were quickly released by the military leaders. This is expected to go far in winning public support for the military regime.

Russians Blame U.S.

LONDON (Reuters)—Moscow radio said today the coup in South Viet Nam showed the bankruptcy of Washington's policy aimed at using its puppet to make the South Vietnamese people submit to American rule.

It said the U.S. wanted to get rid of President Ngo Dinh Diem to give them the chance to blame him for the crimes he committed in South Viet Nam at their orders and with their direct complicity.

"There are grounds for believing that the Central Intelligence Agency has had a hand in the Saigon coup," it added. "The handwriting is too familiar."

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Three persons were thrown out of their car when it hit the guard rail of Black Creek Bridge, one-half mile east of Jordan River, shortly after 10 this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Van Hemert of Jordan River and their five-year-old daughter Kim were thrown 50 feet down an embankment.

'Knocking' Heard From Disaster Mine

LENEXE (Reuters)—A faint "knocking" sound was heard today near a shaft being drilled for drainage work at the flooded Mathilde mine, where three West German miners were rescued Friday.

Mine officials said there was practically no chance that more miners had survived the disaster, which killed 40 men.

But microphones and torches would be lowered as a precaution, they added.

The knocking was heard when the shaft, which is being drilled about 900 yards from the spot where the three miners were rescued Friday, was about 290 feet deep.

Experts said the knocking could have been caused by falling stones or a cable coming in touch with the drill.

Fled Palace Through Tunnel

By NEIL SHEEHAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Highly reliable military sources said today rebel troops assassinated President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu shortly after a perfectly executed military coup ended their eight-year rule in a 17-hour revolution.

End of the Diem regime touched off celebrations by joyous mobs who surged through the streets carrying rebel troops on their shoulders.

Students freed by the military roamed the city in an orgy of hatred, burning, looting and pillaging buildings and business establishments owned by the Ngo family.

Saigon Radio said Diem and his brother, husband and out-spoken Madame Nhu, committed suicide while being transported to jail in an armored personnel carrier.

But highly reliable informants said they were slain by the men who captured them in a Roman Catholic church in the suburb of Cholon across the Saigon River.

It was believed both Ngo brothers escaped from the besieged presidential palace in Saigon in the pre-dawn hours today through a secret tunnel shortly before assaulting marines overran and captured the building.

The informants said leaders of the coup received information late in the morning that Diem was in the church in Cholon. The coup leaders did not know that Nhu was with him but dispatched armored personnel carriers and a company of troops.

'Coup In Classic Military Style'

The troops found the Ngo brothers sitting in the church and ordered them into one of the armored carriers. On the way to military headquarters in Saigon an order was given and the soldiers inside the armored vehicle shot them to death.

When the troop carrier reached military headquarters the men were found inside dead.

The coup executed in classic military style was led by pro-Western Maj.-Gen. Duong Van Minh, a widely respected military leader described by American officials as "someone we could get along with." Former Vice-President Nguyen Ngoc Tho was named provisional president.

The military group is expected to announce the participation of anti-Communists who are not only anti-Communist but pro-Western in their thinking. One is Vu Van Mau, who resigned as foreign minister last August when the Diem government cracked down on Buddhist monks and nuns and has been living in exile in India.

Mau is a Buddhist, as is Gen. Duong Van Minh.

The new government in a series of communiques pledged itself to devote its energies to prosecuting the war against the communist Viet Cong alongside the U.S. military advisers. It promised freedom of religion and a return to civilian rule "when the situation permits."

Although Saigon swarmed with troops and the presidential palace was a shattered ruin, the city appeared to be returning to normal.

Saigon Radio began playing Benny Goodman, rock 'n' roll, hula music and twist songs banned by Mme. Nhu as unpatriotic. A mixed chorus gave forth with a rousing new song which began with the words: "Destroy dictatorship and feudalism."

International airlines said they were resuming operations.

Climaxed Six Months of Crises

The coup against Diem followed six months of religious and political crisis marked by wholesale arrests of Buddhists and students by the predominantly Roman Catholic Diem regime and highlighted by the ritual protest suicides of seven Buddhists by fire.

It began shortly after noon Friday when three battalions of marines aided by army units from the nearby Quang Trung military camp seized key points in Saigon, overpowered some of the special forces troops loyal to Diem and captured navy headquarters.

It ended at 6:42 a.m. today after a four-hour siege of the palace where Diem and Nhu were reported hiding out in bunkers in the basement.

The series of events leading up to Diem and Nhu's capitulation was swift and carried out with precision. The marines seized the key points and leaders of the coup broadcast an appeal to Diem to step down and avoid bloodshed.

The appeal went unheeded. As military leaders swung over to the side of the insurgents Minh began the task of systematically wiping out the last resistance—mostly members of the special forces group trained by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The rebels brought up 10 M24 tanks and razed the presidential guard barracks, and the guard quickly surrendered. At 3 a.m. the marines attacked the palace itself with the attackers facing the defenders at a distance of only 80 yards.

The defenders had armor but the rebels had more. Artillery and mortar fire rained on the palace grounds from 3 a.m. till 4 a.m. as the fighting gradually intensified. At 4:35 the rebels cut loose with all they had.

Tanks rolled forward and fired shells into the palace at a furious rate. Marines followed.

MRS. NHU Stay In U.S.? 'Never'

(Times News Service)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Mme. Nho Dinh Nhu said today that assassination of her husband and brother-in-law was a "dirty crime and nothing less than murder." She promised to return to South Viet Nam.

Mme. Nhu attacked the United States in a prepared statement read as she sat in the lobby of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel before attending mass on All Souls Day.

"If those reports of the treasonable death of the Nhu family are true," she said, "it will only be the beginning of the story in Viet Nam."

Friday, she snapped "never!" to a reporter's question as to whether she would seek asylum in the United States if the coup was successful.

"I cannot stay in a country whose government stabbed me in the back," she said.

BLAMES U.S.

She blamed the coup on U.S. intervention.

Messages of condolence on the overthrow of her brother-in-law's government poured into the hotel switchboard all day.

Her original travel plans were to leave Los Angeles early next week for Tokyo, Hong Kong and Saigon, the final leg of her five-week round-the-world tour.

Amid early reports of the coup, an aide said she would probably stick to her travel plans, at least as far as Tokyo. "But when the report of the deaths reached her, the aide said, 'this changes the picture entirely.'"

Eye Surgery

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu secretly underwent plastic surgery Thursday to remove eye wrinkles. The Evening Outlook says.

Another source said, however, the surgery was to remove a cyst from an eyelid.

Desert War Flares Again But Who Pulled Trigger?

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

ALGIERS (AP)—The Algerian defence ministry said desert fighting was continuing today despite the midnight cease-fire Algeria and Morocco had agreed upon. Each side accused the other of violating the cease-fire agreement.

The Moroccan accused the Algerians of lobbing mortar and cannon shells at the Figuig oasis in the early morning hours.

"My men observed the cease-fire until attacked," Moroccan Col. Mohammed Hadda reported from the besieged oasis on the Moroccan side of the border. He said his men evicted the Algerians from the oasis Friday.

Algeria said Morocco launched an attack on the village of Beni

Ounif, near the oasis, Friday and its artillery and planes kept up the attack for about two hours midnight.

The Algerian Army information service at Colomb Bechar said Algerian troops ceased fire at midnight. It said Moroccan forces resumed fighting today after a two-hour lull and the Algerians retaliated an hour later.

'Useful' Documents

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police have found "some very useful" documents in their raid at offices of the Seafarers' International Union, federal prosecutor Jean Marchessault said today.

Saigon: History has a very tough way o' catchin' up with folks.

Killer Hired, State to Charge

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Lurid details of the pistol-whipping and stabbing of 34-year-old Carol Thompson will be outlined by prosecutor William B. Randall to a jury of six men and six women—plus two alternates—Monday when the state opens its case to prove that T. Eugene Thompson engineered his wife's death.

Randall will charge that the dapper, tow-headed lawyer who has a net worth of $115,000, plotted his wife's death so that he could collect more than $1,000,000 insurance on her life in case of accident—but that a killer's plans to make it appear as a drowning in her bathtub went awry.

The cautious, rugged-faced Randall, on the basis of earlier

ADULT EDUCATION BRIEF COMPLETED

Education Minister Leslie Peterson is expected to receive Victoria's adult education brief Monday, ending more than seven months of research preparation by school trustees and advisers.

The 10-page document prepared under direction of Greater Victoria School Board education committee with help from business, industrial, labor and educational leaders in the community, backs the argument for an adult education centre.

Trustees envisage an academic-vocational type of institution designed to fill local adult education requirements and needs of industry.

The education department has tentative plans for a regional vocational school here, which trustees feel may offer only limited courses of a general nature.

'SPURS' CHALLENGE

Greaves' Goal Wins Thriller

LONDON (AP)—Jimmy Greaves grabbed a vital goal today—his 17th of the season—and put Tottenham Hotspur in a strong position in the race for the English soccer championship.

The former Milan star scored nine minutes from the end to give the Spurs a 1-0 win over Fulham at London's White Hart Lane stadium.

Sheffield United, held to a 2-2 tie by Arsenal at Sheffield, clung to first place in the standings with 22 points from 16 games. But the Spurs are breathing down Sheffield's necks with 21 points from 15 games.

Manchester United, Everton and Arsenal share third place with 19 points each.

A crowd of 42,000 saw the Spurs step up the pressure against Fulham after a scoreless first half. Fulham's defence held out until Greaves popped up in the goalmouth to nudge home the vital goal in the 81st minute.

It was Tottenham's first win in five games.

Centre-forward Joe Baker, former star of Torino of Italy, was the man who foiled Sheffield United. Eight minutes from the end he drove a low shot into the Sheffield net to give Arsenal a 2-2 tie.

It was the second time Arsenal had tied the score. Inside-left Tony Wagstaff twice sent Sheffield into the lead but inside-right Geoff Strong put Arsenal into a 1-1 tie at half-time.

Everton, reigning champions, kept on the heels of the leaders thanks to a fine goal by Welsh international inside-left Roy Vernon for a 1-1 tie with Blackpool.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, cheered on by a 30,000 crowd, checked Manchester United's championship bid with a 2-0 win. Wolves' goals were scored

Thugs Attack, Rob Housewife

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police Friday night launched a city-wide search for two men who invaded an east-end home, beat a 67-year-old woman into unconsciousness and fled with more than $1,000 and three piggybanks.

Woman Admits $207 Fraud

A smartly dressed young woman pleaded guilty in city magistrate's court Friday to obtaining a total of $207 worth of merchandise from T. Eaton Co. by means of worthless cheques.

Sharon McKenzie, 660 Admirals, was remanded to Nov. 8 for probation report and sentence by Magistrate William Ostler.

She asked that similar charges pending against her in Vancouver should be dealt with at that time also.

Detective Norman Bath testified that Miss McKenzie bought women's and children's clothing from Eaton's and paid for them by worthless cheques.

She took the merchandise to Vancouver and sold it there.

Police said the housewife was alone in the East Seventh-avenue house at the time of the robbery, was taken to hospital for examination of head injuries and a possible broken jaw.

Police said they had yet to learn all the facts of the assault because the woman lost her voice from shock. She was lying on a sofa in the living room when police arrived, called by a neighbor who saw her stagger out of the house.

Officers said Mrs. Wood apparently was attacked and knocked unconscious in a bedroom and later staggered out of the house.

She told them $1,000 had been taken, apparently from her purse. The three piggybanks were believed to contain about $10 each.

Police said the housewife had been methodically searched.

Irate Mother Wants City Fireworks Ban

An irate mother Friday demanded city council ban fireworks so she wouldn't have to fight with her two sons.

A Gosworth Avenue woman said council should relieve parents of the difficult job of restraining children from buying the fireworks.

She said one of her boys has not been allowed to buy fireworks for three years as punishment for buying them too early, but this has resulted in recurring quarrels within the family each Halloween because other children can buy them.

"I am tired of fighting with them about this every year. I know if something was done that my home and other homes could enjoy Halloween like it should be enjoyed and I would have peace in this house."

"Could you not pass a law that the parents must buy them with a permit if they want their children to have them, the same as Port Alberni, or ban them altogether," she wrote.

A second letter on the subject saw Ralph Dent, 210 Michigan, accusing aldermen of being "criminally responsible" for all firecracker injuries because fireworks were not outlawed except under permit.

The battle was static for a while with armor duelling at close range and rebel tanks blasting the palace with 14-millimeter cannon. The rebels brought up more mortars and fired at the palace from point-blank range.

At 6:42 a.m. cannon and recoilless rifles blasted two holes through the palace walls and marines stormed the building, only to be pinned down by snipers and machine-gunners who ignored Diem's capitulation order.

Marines screaming wildly rushed forward and cleared the

Suicide Doubt Because of Religion

(In Washington, Nguyen Duy Lien who resigned as ambassador because of Diem's religious repression, and former first minister Ngo Ton Dat expressed doubt at the suicide reports because Diem and Nhu were Roman Catholics to whom suicide is forbidden. Other Vietnamese sources in Washington did not discount suicide because they were "proud men and they may have felt that their disgrace was more difficult to bear than any sanctions imposed by their religion.")

A spokesman of the new military government had just announced the two men would be tried by the courts since they did not heed the revolutionaries' call to resign and avoid further bloodshed.

Despite the ferocity of the fighting rebel casualties were extremely light. There were eight known dead and 20 wounded, according to Maj. Gen. Le Van Kim. He would not estimate losses for pro-Diem forces but they were thought to be considerably higher.

Three of Minh's fellow junta members called a news conference to dispel rumors that they might take a "neutralist" line in dealing with the war.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

At the UBC fall congregation Friday, I had a chance to chat with James Baldwin, the powerful Negro novelist who was in Vancouver to receive an honorary Doctor of Letters degree from the university.

"I suppose this honorary-degree business is getting to be pretty old hat with you," I suggested, having in mind Baldwin's eloquent pleas for his race in the current U.S. revolution.

"No," he replied, "this is my very first. That is why I was overwhelmed and delighted that such recognition could come from Canada."

Although he was not down as congregation speaker, Baldwin was invited to say a few words after receiving his degree by UBC president John Macdonald.

To an audience of 2,500, Baldwin said quietly: "I like to think that I am receiving this degree—my first—for my grandfather, my grandmother, my nieces and nephews, and all the other people involved in the struggle for liberty."

"Together we must learn that the most important thing in the world is the human spirit. In time we will learn to live together."

Baldwin, a very likeable person, was accorded an ovation.

Courtney Haddock thinks that some kind of a long-distance record for ship-to-shore telephone calls was achieved over the weekend.

He had as guest on his boat David Wild, managing director of the famous Royal Paragon china of England. As they were cruising around Satellite Channel, Wild was so enthusiastic about the ocean vistas he said: "I'll have to tell my wife about this!"

Haddock, always eager to promote the glories of B.C., replied: "Why not tell her now?"

So, a call was placed on the ship's telephone to London.

"It was a pretty unearthly hour of the morning, over there," says Courtney, "but the call came through clear as a bell. David got a big kick out of it."

Haddock, of course, is something of an expert on china himself, having bought for Woodward's for many years overseas. He'd like to forget the time he lectured in Victoria on the subject and, to demonstrate the strength of the British product, dropped it on the floor. To the delight of a large audience of women, it smashed in a thousand pieces!

Rebel Mowat is back from a holiday trip to San Francisco, Las Vegas and Lake Tahoe with a lot of happy memories—and a story of how he walked off with a dice game at Vegas.

Reb tentatively approached a gaming table and plunked down a few two-spots, which rapidly disappeared. On one roll of the cubes, a single die went off the table and disappeared. A thorough search of the area failed to uncover it.

There was considerable consternation. A new die was introduced, but before it was rolled a customer called for an examination. The boss man came over, tested the die and pronounced them okay.

Rebel was puzzled by this incident for some time and wondered whether he'd been conned. The mystery was solved some time later when he felt something near his ankles, looked down—and found the missing die nestled in the cuff of his trousers!

A fast switch at the official opening of the new Greater Victoria Juvenile Detention Home Tuesday would do credit to the best sleight-of-hand magician.

Prior to the arrival of dignitaries taking part in the ceremony, there were several books on a table in the boys and girls' reading room.

The book on top of the pile was "Prologue to the Gallows," by Paul McGuire. During the officially conducted tour it had disappeared, replaced by Frances Armstrong's "A Girl's Loyalty."

Mrs. Mabel Orr Brooks used to play the piano almost every day at Victoria's Silver Theatre Centre.

Now, recovering from an illness in Clovelly Nursing Home, 1196 Clovelly Terrace, she sends greetings to old friends and hopes she will be back at the piano in the New Year.

"I loved playing the piano for them," she says, "and they seemed to appreciate my efforts."

In addition to her ability at the keyboard, Mrs. Brooks is a free-lance writer and has contributed to many Canadian publications.

We've received some telephone calls suggesting that the unidentified hospital recently blamed for having a high infant mortality rate was a Victoria hospital.

Don't you believe it. Dr. Ralph E. Adams, St. Joseph's medical director, made it clear that the situation he condemned did not occur in Victoria.

And Royal Jubilee's Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson states: "Our infant mortality rate is well below the provincial average."

Dr. Adams had stated in Vancouver that babies who could have lived died at a B.C. hospital because of staff shortages. His claim is under investigation by the B.C. health department.

'Most Famous Hostess' Elsa Maxwell Dies

By ROBERT HOLTON

NEW YORK (AP)—Elsa Maxwell, 80, the hostess to royalty, whose humble beginning and physical appearance made hers the most unlikely modern-day climb to the top of the international social ladder, died Friday night.

Miss Maxwell died of a heart ailment in New York hospital only a few days after she was taken there partially lame and a semi-invalid.

Almost to the end the rolly-polly, somewhat gravel-voiced Miss Maxwell lived her life to the hilt, having made her last public appearance at the April in Paris Ball in a Manhattan hotel only last week.

She was brought to the ball in a wheelchair. She wrote of her friends in the gossipy newspaper column for the New York Journal-American.

FAMILY POOR

She once was told that her family was too poor to warrant her being invited to a party in California.

"I made up my mind I would give great parties all over the world," she later recalled—and she did.

"Do good and have fun," was the way she once summed up her life.

And she prescribed the wording of her epitaph some years later in these words:

"If I knew, I were to die tomorrow, I'd want my epitaph to be 'I die happy' for I was born gay, and my life has been glorious."

ious, transcendently magical, full of glamor . . .

She told an interviewer that she had directed in a will that she be cremated and her ashes strewn into the Adriatic Sea.

In her lifetime, Miss Maxwell hobnobbed with history-makers such as Hitler, Mussolini, Sir Winston Churchill, Charles de Gaulle and thousands of great but lesser figures of world prominence.

She has no known relatives.

FEUDED WITH DUKE

Her famous feuds included one with the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. It later was patched up and they reconciled.

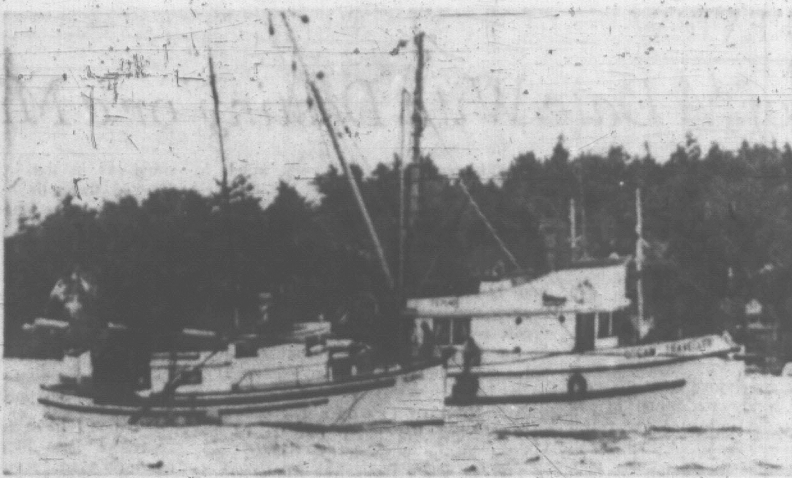

"I am recognized as the arbiter of international society and the most famous hostess in the world," she once remarked. "I have entertained more royalty than any other untitled hostess."

The daughter of an insurance man, Miss Maxwell was born in Keokuk, Iowa, and moved with her family to San Francisco, where she grew up.

She never was graduated from high school but underwent additional education from her father who had an aversion to schools. She served as a pianist in a nickelodeon, a vaudeville accompanist, partner in a Paris night club, consultant to a dressmaker and a nationally-known lecturer.

She said she never married because she never "liked the idea of sex."

"I married the world, the world is my husband," she once said.

LISTING troller Ted Mac is towed into Cadboro Bay Friday afternoon by dragger Ocean Traveller. The troller lost mast and rigging in gale near Chatham Island, needed three boats to help her home.

Disabled 40-Foot Troller Towed to Safety in Gale

Gales ripped the mast and rigging off a 40-foot troller Friday afternoon near Chatham Island, leaving her helpless until towed into the safety of Cadboro Bay.

Lines trailing in the water fouled the propeller of the Tedmac, skippered by Bob McBay.

Another troller, the El Toro, got a line on her and began a tow, but the cleat holding the line broke and the line was lost.

Ocean Traveller, a dragger, moved in to help the Tedmac but was unable to get close enough because of the heavy swell.

A Royal Canadian Navy diving tender in the area, YMT 10, was diverted from a search for the Oriole long enough to provide a windbreak so the Ocean Traveller could get the smaller vessel under tow.

FEARED SINKING

Search for the Oriole began Friday morning after a woman reported seeing a three-masted sailing vessel in trouble near Chatham Island.

When it disappeared, she thought it had sunk.

The navy sent out two helicopters, a tracker aircraft, the deep-sea tug Clifton and the YMT 10 to search for the vessel, eventually located in Swartz Bay unharmed.

Radio difficulties had kept her out of contact for several hours.

'Old Barbers Just Working To Kill Time'

Mayfair barber Al Principe said today Victoria barbers are being forced to remain closed Wednesdays because of a few old barbers who are just working because they want something to do.

Mr. Principe will appear in court Tuesday to face a charge of opening Wednesdays in defiance of the city's bylaw.

He said it would be financial suicide to operate on a four-day week.

"The shopping centre closes Monday and the bylaw compels barber shops to close Wednesday."

He said he had petitioned city barbers and a majority of 27 shopowners had favored Monday closing.

BALANCE DIVIDED

The other 25 were split—some wanted to receive union guidance, and others wanted optional closing.

"One old man said he wanted to stay closed Wednesday to give himself a break in the middle of the week."

"He said he just works for something to do. That's the kind of person who's keeping us closed."

At a Barbers' Union meeting Thursday night, delegates voted against Monday closing.

Mr. Principe claimed a second motion, seeking optional closing, was approved 51 to 1.

Union secretary Walter Singer refused to confirm this. He said the union will engage a lawyer to meet with Mr. Principe "to see if we can come to an amiable solution."

Mr. Principe will go ahead with plans to present his petition for optional closing to city council following his court appearance.

Mr. Principe spearheaded a campaign in Vancouver which ended in 1959 when the Union local agreed to a five-day week with optional closing.

Mystery Disease Hits Andes Town

LA PAZ, Bolivia (Reuters)

Bolivian and foreign medical experts are trying to combat a mystery illness which has claimed at least 200 lives.

The epidemic began four years ago in northeastern Bolivia, a tropical region with a rich economic potential. About 650 persons have been stricken by the disease.

Although the illness has not been definitely identified, doctors suspect it is "black typhoid" or "hemorrhagic fever."

It struck mainly at inhabitants of San Joaquin, a town of 200,000 persons in the province of Beni. Officials say they are still helpless to prevent the spread of the disease, although the death toll since May has been reduced.

Three medical specialists, helping in the fight, contracted the disease. They were flown to the United States and recovered after lengthy treatment.

When the epidemic first broke out, Bolivian health authorities considered there was a simple solution and took the usual medical steps. Nevertheless, it worsened, causing many people to flee to the Brazilian border.

VIRUS ISOLATED

North American and Bolivian scientists, realizing the grave problem, worked together. Laboratory workers and virus experts arrived with drugs, medicines and research equipment of the latest design.

One specialist was able to isolate the virus, taking it from an arm of a patient. Experts then launched a search for the virus carrier which could be a wild or domestic animal, a sheep-tick or a tropical fly.

New Deal in South Viet Nam?

THE UNITED STATES IS EXPECTED soon to recognize the provisional government set up in South Viet Nam. Few in the south-east Asian state appear to have supported the Ngo Dinh Diem regime except the palace guards and special units controlled by the president's brother, strongman Ngo Dinh Nhu.

The United States denies having incited or supported the revolution that toppled the long-criticized ruling family in Saigon. It is almost impossible, however, that the generals who staged the revolt could have planned it in total secrecy from the United States. And their weapons would, of course, consist almost entirely of arms sent by the United States for use in fighting the Communists.

But even if informed, in one way or another, of the planned revolt, the United States would not be committed to aid the regime. Ngo Dinh Nhu had frequently ordered the United States to keep out of South Viet Nam's domestic affairs; his sister, visiting on this continent, has been even more outspoken.

The generals, therefore, have been free to launch their coup when they felt they were strong enough to succeed. The 70 per cent of the 14 million population who are Buddhists must be strongly behind them.

But the new power situation in Saigon will not in itself solve the country's main problem of getting rid of the Communist invaders and fifth-columnists. The Diem regime was active in prosecuting the war, although differing from the American advisers on methods. The question remains: how will the new government act to wage the war more successfully? Will the country be stronger or weaker than before?

Although there is talk of elections to be held within a few months, much will depend on who emerges as the national leader after the country has for so long been under the absolutism of the Nhuss. The history of military coups is not a happy one; far too often it is a case of one strongman replacing another.

It may be expected, however, that the United States will renew efforts to rid the country of its Communist military danger, and support the new government in all democratic moves towards stability.

For the people themselves, almost any development would seem to have been for the better. At least, under the new administration, there may be less likelihood of their interests being overlooked.

Too Much Spread

WHATEVER AGRICULTURE Minister Hays meant when he said in the Commons recently that the Canadian butter surplus problem is now "under control" he certainly didn't mean that the cost of the subsidy program is under control or that the program makes any more sense now than it did when it was introduced.

The government is still buying up surplus butter at 64 cents a pound, selling back what it can to jobbers at 52 cents a pound and placing the rest in storage where some of it is eventually sold abroad in the form of solid butter or butter oil at somewhere around 25 cents a pound.

Presumably Mr. Hays meant that supply and demand for butter are now balancing out and that government stocks are no longer increasing as they did, say, between October 1, 1962, and the same date this year when goods in storage increased from 153,417,000 pounds to 166,599,000 pounds. The fact remains, however, that Canadians produce more butter than they consume and the only way to dispose of the surplus is to sell it at a loss of about 39 cents a pound in foreign markets—when it can be sold at all, which is seldom.

Ever since the war years Canada has been plagued by surplus butter production and, since 1957, the problem has been further aggravated by the fact that production increases have been matched by consumption declines, thus widening the gap between what is produced and what can be sold. Sooner or later the surplus problem must be solved and the only solution in sight would seem to be a progressive lowering of the subsidy in order to cut back production.

Obviously this cannot be done at one blow without causing considerable hardship for producers who have been encouraged by the government support price to increase output. But a start should be made immediately before the surplus stock begins to increase again, as it well could with the recent action of the Ontario government in permitting the sale in that province of colored margarine.

Six Dollars for Every 10 Needed

YESTERDAY THE UNITED APPEAL had collected a little more than six dollars for every 10 dollars it needs. Because of the shortfall, the campaign is being continued into overtime and the chairman of the drive, Mr. John Wallace, says he is not pessimistic. If, however, the objective of $400,000 is not reached by November 15, a critical situation will arise.

The figures show that once again Greater Victoria is dragging its feet. Unless giving is stimulated, both in the number of contributions and in the size of them, there is a strong chance that the capital of British Columbia will add further to an unsavory record by failing to match other comparable cities.

If enough money is not gathered, then highly valuable, in some cases essential, services will have to be curtailed. And abandonment of the United Appeal as a means of collecting could become a distinct possibility.

Those who have yet to give, and those who have failed to give enough might contemplate such eventualities—the needy who are denied help, and the return to a multiplicity of public appeals.

It is a sad and disturbing prospect.

A Good Better Business Bureau

THE VANCOUVER ISLAND Better Business Bureau, which successfully completed its first year this week, has proved to be a valuable addition to this community.

Although the Bureau began operation in an air of some skepticism on the part of merchants and other interests as to the need for such an organization, the response of the general public in the first few months was enough to convince the skeptics and convert most of them to enthusiastic boosters.

A non-profit organization, the Better Business Bureau helps protect the public against fraudulent selling and unethical business practices. It also protects the member business firms, who subscribe to its principles, against the erosion of public confidence in business which results when fraud goes unchecked.

Although the Island Bureau is the youngest of the more than 130 Better Business Bureaus across Canada, its growth has been rapid. There are now 500 member firms on the roll and the aim for the second year of operation is to double that number.

Victoria and Island residents, who now have an organization to turn to when in need of information about products or services, will wish the Bureau every success as it begins its second year.

Municipal Fireworks

BEFORE NEXT HALLOWEEN the municipal councils of Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay should take a good hard look at their regulations governing the sale and use of fireworks.

It is quite evident to everyone living in those areas that the present regulations—prohibiting sale of fireworks and their use except on October 31—are quite useless so long as fireworks can be sold in Victoria city for the week prior to Halloween.

The present regulations are unfair to the merchants of the municipalities who are denied the largest part of the revenue from the fireworks business. Even worse, since the police forces in the municipalities are unable, apparently, to enforce the regulation forbidding the setting off of fireworks except on Halloween, the law itself is made a mockery.

Most of the young people who were setting off firecrackers from dawn to midnight in the three municipalities prior to Halloween, as well as their parents, were quite aware of the fact that they were violating the law. This is a state of affairs which should not be allowed to continue.

The regulations should be enforced or they should be repealed. Bad law can be worse than no law at all.

BOOK REVIEW

Man of 'A Date With Destiny' or a Mind He Can't Make Up

by STUART KEATE

RENEGADE IN POWER, The Diefenbaker Years, by Peter C. Newman. Toronto: McClelland and Stewart, 411 pp., $7.50.

PETER C. NEWMAN has written a book about John Diefenbaker which will undoubtedly be one of the most talked-about volumes of the year.

Indeed, with the Tory leadership a subject of lively conjecture over the next few months, it is not too much to say that this book could influence the result of party voting.

It provides much ammunition for both sides. Election returns in April demonstrated that Canada is widely divided in its opinion of the former prime minister. Millions dislike him cordially. Others accept him as a leader who has (as he said) "a date with destiny."

Newman, the able Ottawa editor of Maclean's magazine, states that he has "no fixed political affiliation," and concedes that he is "catching history on the run" by producing this document while

Mr. Diefenbaker is still very much in the news.

The book, published only today, has already been widely criticized (by Howard Green, and others) as a damning indictment of The Diefenbaker Years. Yet Newman is sternly critical of the old Liberal regime, and gives Mr. Diefenbaker full credit for the April campaigning which, in the face of severe internal ruptures, salvaged a healthy segment of the Tory party.

Mr. Newman traces Diefenbaker's career from the early defeats of the hungry 30s up through the heady years of 1957-'58, when the prime minister was accorded the greatest mandate in Canadian political history and people flocked from miles around just to touch the hem of his coat.

The next five years, in Newman's view, constituted a major phenomenon and tragedy. The nub of the author's argument is that, while he had the right instincts, Mr. Diefenbaker lacked the courage to follow through and collapsed through sheer inability to make up his mind—as in the Cuban crisis, when he delayed three days before deciding that we were on the side of the United States.

As disaffection grew into dissent, and finally distaste, Mr. Diefenbaker became more and more remote, cloaking himself in the habit of a mystic who believed he had a unique empathy with "the average Canadian." When George Hees broke with his leader on defence policy, and his campaign of anti-Americanism, Diefenbaker snapped:

"I don't have to listen to you. You represent Bay Street. I represent the common man."

Thus the "renegade" in Newman's title, Diefenbaker, the prairie radical, had taken the Tory party a million light years away from its traditional image as the party of high finance, of privilege and protection. Despite huge welfare payments and huge subsidies, the country could not escape a grave unemployment problem which no amount of oratory could cure.

The continuing series of deficits (and the Coyne affair) finally broke Donald Fleming, whom Diefenbaker had once named as his heir. The Mountie crisis over reinforcements for Newfoundland resulted in a disenchanted Davie Fulton, whom Newman praises as one of the greatest Justice ministers in Canadian history. McCutcheon, Bell, Halpenny and others are represented as rebels who lacked the ultimate resolve to complete the coup d'état instigated by Hees, Harkness and Seigny.

All this is fascinating stuff, because Diefenbaker himself is one of the most fascinating personality studies in contemporary political history. Some of Newman's judgments may be too sweeping (was Bill Hamilton really the greatest Post-Master in Canadian history; what about Sir William Mulock?); and some too harsh. But, like the good reporter he is, Newman names names, times, dates and places.

In short, this is the record, and it will be very hard to rebut. We imagine Mr. Diefenbaker will give it a good try.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

THE Salmon are beginning to run in Goldstream river, and with the wonderful fall coloring in the woods it is worth going to see.

The water is running high in the stream and it has now made several side channels which have caused beautiful little islands and bays.

There are places where you can see miniature waterfalls, and where the channel narrows or an old log stems the flow there are miniature rapids.

As the stream widens out in several places the rush of water spreads to form quiet pools that are clear and clean.

In some of the back eddies where the water is over-shadowed you will see a few salmon resting. They are waiting for the time when they must breast the swifter current, or perhaps for the dark of the night.

If you are quiet and stay still you will be sure to see one or two of the great Blue Herons standing in the shallows waiting for a small fish or perhaps a frog to come within reach. If you disturb them they will take to the air softly, their blue-grey forms blending with the grey of the sky.

There are several little Water Ouselets or "Dippers" that work this stream. This little bird is never still: always hobbling up and down, moving from a rock to the water, ever dipping his sharp little beak in search of food. Perhaps you will be lucky enough to see him dart under the water and walk along the bottom of the stream.

FROM AMSTERDAM

I HAVE had a lot to say about Dutch seventeenth century art, which may for all I know bore you rigid, but I would not want you to get the impression that there is nothing to be seen in Holland painted after 1669.

In Amsterdam, for instance, there is the Municipal Museum. (The Dutch don't say "municipal" like you and me; they say "stedelijk." Comical, isn't it?) If the Stedelijk Museum is not a swinging contemporary gallery, then Dr. Willem Sandberg, its energetic director, has been grossly labelled by many Amsterdam citizens, who have written outraged letters to the newspapers about the goings-on there.

From the outside the Stedelijk looks anything but "with it." Viewed from Museumplein, the grand open space that it shares with the Rijksmuseum, it is a fine specimen of 1890-ish municipal architecture; but the side which faces Paulus Potter Straat you will find a new annex, a gleaming box of glass and concrete, and this is the first clue to the up-to-the-minute painting and sculpture to be found inside.

The new wing, all this summer, has housed a survey-exhibition entitled "150 Years of Dutch Art." The poster for it was a striking one that caught your eye wherever you went in Holland: it carried the beaming ginger brows and staring eyes of Van Gogh, extracted from one of the last self-portraits. And of course Van Gogh was royally represented in the show by a dozen great paintings and half a roomful of drawings and watercolors.

However, since there was also an exhibition devoted exclusively to the work of this disturbed genius on the top floor of the museum, he tended to be seen downstairs more clearly in his specifically Dutch context; upstairs he appeared rather as a landmark, a portent and an innovator.

As if these two shows were not enough to feed the hordes of visitors, Dr. Sandberg also put on a small show of work by the Dutch group called "De Stijl," which displayed their far-reaching influence on the artistic, architectural and typographical fields.

It was none of this that caused the offence taken by the angry correspondents. Even the most conservative Amsterdam admirer of Willem Kalf or Paulus Potter has by now learned to live with the worldwide fame of Vincent van Gogh; he has even accepted, if he does not share, the international praise of Mondrian and "De Stijl."

But when it comes to the Cobra group, then it is really time to write to the Editor demanding that Sandberg be hanged, drawn and quartered—or anyway fired.

The Cobra group takes its name, as you may know, from the cities of Copenhagen, Brussels and Amsterdam, from which the members are drawn. Its most famous member is the Dutchman Karel Appel, a man who flings paint on, or near, the canvas with an expressionist fury that makes Van Gogh look like a genteel watercolorist, and Kokoschka appear in the unusual light of a follower of Alfred Munnings.

The group as a whole favors very thick, stridently colored paint laid on as if by a Mixmaster; the objects and people that can dimly be discerned in the middle of this polychromatic taffy-pull are drawn, if that is the word, in a childish, a consciously infantile manner derived not, as one might expect, from children so much as from the work of the Frenchman Jean Dubuffet.

As if that were not bad enough, Willem Sandberg has also encouraged and championed several young sculptors whose work can hardly be said to mollify the protestants. Some of this work will be familiar to those who visited the art exhibit at the Seattle World's Fair, for the simple reason that Sandberg was responsible for selecting the un-American art activities of the last decade on view there.

Where Seattle had only one Tinguely, the Stedelijk has two; but neither, I am afraid, is up to the inspired Olsen-and-Johnson level of the machine at Seattle. Do you wonder they write to the papers?

Japanese Foreign Policy—Cautious Move to Flexibility

(Mr. Manor is on a short study journey to Japan and Hong Kong)

THREE years ago Prof. Hugh Seton-Watson predicted in his book Neither War Nor Peace that Japan would gradually increase its independence in foreign policy. Is this change coming now?

A brief survey of Japanese official opinion shows that Japan would like to follow British flexibility in dealing with the Communist East. But the Japanese realize that such flexibility is possible solely because Britain is firmly anchored within the Atlantic alliance. Japan, on the other hand, despite her strong ties with the United States, still does not seem to feel sufficiently secure for too many essays in flexibility.

Moreover, the country is seriously alarmed at the danger of a shift in the very delicate balance of power in Asia, a balance which, so far, has prevented Communist China's efforts to seize all of southern Asia.

To the Japanese the Sino-Soviet rift is definite, and the chasm so deep that, in their opinion, it can never be bridged again. They see the Soviet bloc split into two parts, the "monolithic" part which includes the Soviet Union and its satellites including Outer Mongolia—the first secretary of the Communist party of Outer Mongolia spends more time in Moscow than in Ulan Bator; an official remarked—and the "disunited" side led by China.

China's own satellites are by no means as firmly attached to Peking as are Moscow's satellites to Russia. Both North Viet Nam and North Korea, although now siding with Peking, are being wooed by Russia and could easily be enticed away from Peking's embraces.

Whatever the outcome in North Viet Nam, the Japanese do not think much of the French-propounded thesis that all of Viet Nam could be reunited under North Viet Nam's Communist chief, Ho Chi Minh, who might then "do a Tito," and pursue a policy of neutralism.

The Japanese believe that such a turn of events would be highly unlikely, and that Ho Chi Minh would remain a Communist, whether attached to Peking or to Moscow. Therefore, a reunification of Viet Nam under Communist sway, whatever its hue, would definitely upset the balance of power in southern Asia.

In this respect Japan also views as highly dangerous—because affecting the present balance of power—all proposals for nuclear-free zones in Asia, as now touted by the Soviet Union.

Japan is watching events in Viet Nam very closely. It has a strong representation in Saigon, but at the moment the official policy is to follow the U.S. lead. "It is too early to judge," said an official in a comment one hears all too frequently in Japanese official circles.

At home, the Communist menace, propagated more by the left wing of the Socialist party than by the rather small Communist party, has been equally affected by the Sino-Soviet split. The Japanese Communist party is siding with Peking, and there is little doubt that China will use every sentimental trick in its arsenal to woo the Japanese intelligentsia into its orbit.

There exists in Japan a universal admiration for the Chinese culture, from which Japanese culture is mainly derived, and there is an ambivalent attitude towards the rise of China as a great Asian power.

Trade has been resumed again, but as is assiduously pointed out, only through private channels and with no political strings attached. Officials entertain little illusion about the prospects of this trade; Communist China no longer is the China of old, which used to provide such a ready market for Japanese industries. "Even our businessmen are beginning to understand this," a senior official remarked wryly.

The Soviet Union has been watching the Chinese trade advances, and has not been idle. There have been Soviet inquiries for both heavy machinery and for products of light industry, but the Japanese are not deceived; they fully realize that the new interest of the Communist bloc—or should one say properly bloc?—in Japan's economy is propelled by motives which certainly are not purely economic.

Within eight years the Japan-U.S. security pact comes up for revision, and both China and the Soviet Union are already jockeying for position to be able to exert pressure on Japan so that the pact be changed or, if possible, abrogated, and Japan drawn closer towards the one or the other of the Communist orbits.

New Zealand News

I was very disappointed not to see an article from New Zealand by Mr. Pott which has been appearing weekly in your paper for the past month. We have been very interested as we have friends down there and have even thought of going down there ourselves. It told so much about what to expect when one arrived. Very well done and thank you for printing it. Do hope it just arrived too late for last Saturday's edition.

In Age of Abundance

Dr. Adler states that communism as an ideal dates back to Plato. He is not far from hitting the mark.

Communism (common ownership) has generally existed as an alternative to slavery during recorded history, about ten thousand years, or one half of one per cent of the time man has prevailed on earth as humans, but Communism (for Socialism) as a science became known only in 1848 as explained by Marx and Engels.

Prehistoric man lived a primitive communal life. He could not survive outside his community alone. Then three stages of private property developed: chattel slavery, then feudalism and now capitalism. All were necessary in the social development to reach our present state. Now there is the wherewithal around us for unlimited abundance for all mankind, and it is only a political barrier keeping the whole of society from having a world worthwhile.

...REPORTING

OTTAWA—Trade Minister Mitchell Sharp said in Winnipeg this week that "we have a market for every bushel of wheat we can move through export positions." And this amazing statement is 100 per cent accurate.

We've never had such a seller's market, thanks to the drought that baked the wheat fields of the Ukraine and the new wheat lands in the eastern part of the Soviet Union.

The wheat board has sold or has commitments to sell 550 million bushels to be shipped by July 31. The previous record was 408 million bushels exported in the late 20s.

The sale to the Soviet Union alone in this crop year is 239 million bushels of wheat and flour equivalent. And, Sharp told me in an interview, "we've known for some time that we could sell more wheat to Russia, but we don't want to commit Canada to an extent that might prejudice the interests of our regular customers."

But there is still a real chance that by the year's end, July 31, we will have been able to offer, and the Russians will have bought, more than this 239 million bushels. The only limitation, as Sharp said in Winnipeg, is our ability to deliver.

Of our biggest-ever crop of 719 million bushels we are selling 550 million bushels abroad. We need 150 million bushels for domestic consumption and for seed next spring. But we also have a carryover from the 1962 crop year of 491 million bushels. That plus the unallocated 19 million bushels from this year's harvest means we still have 510 million bushels available for export; if we can get it to seaports.

Right now it's "go" at prairie points, with average daily loadings of 2,000 cars, to meet present export commitments and domestic needs. But there's scant profit in plugging the rail lines east at a rate faster than the grain can be reloaded aboard grain ships.

In the former record export year, 1928-29, Canada shipped 60 million bushels through U.S. ports, and Sharp told me his officials have been studying the possibility of shipping through U.S. ports again to ease the congestion in Canada. But they are not convinced the idea is practical, on two grounds: (1) the congestion in Canada extends all the way back to the sidings, the country elevators and the farms, and (2) if the U.S. and Russia agree on Soviet purchase of $250 millions worth of U.S. wheat, American facilities will be taxed too. Some experts estimate the U.S. will set an all-time export record of nearly one billion bushels this year.

At this writing the Soviet-U.S. wheat deal is hung up on President Kennedy's insistence that the wheat be carried in U.S. ships, at substantially higher cost to the Russians. The justification for this is that the sale is government-subsidized; the U.S. treasury will pay the farmer upwards of 60 cents a bushel on all wheat sold to Russia.

The U.S. grain trade is beginning to get the wind up, fearing the loss of the sale, and there have been suggestions among New York traders that Canada take over part or all of the semi-jelled U.S. contract, shipping wheat in bond to U.S. ports for loading in foreign bottoms and—wifish thought—paying the U.S. traders a nice handling charge. In Ottawa they laugh at the idea.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Hemophilia

Hemophilia (a tendency for boys to bleed badly) used to be a hopeless disease. Even 30 years ago, the few hemophiliacs who managed to reach the age of 20 were likely to be bedridden, or in a wheelchair, because of the severe hemorrhages that had almost destroyed their knee joints or the muscles in their legs. Today, with the help of many transfusions, there is much more hope for the hemophilic lad; and if needs be, he can even be operated on.

Hemophilia rarely affects a woman, but it can strike down one or two of her boys. In recent years a few women bleeders have been found, and today we know that they bleed because there is a male component in their body cells. The tendency to bleeding has been disastrous to certain descendants of Queen Victoria. One of her daughters married the king of Spain, and another married the Russian czar, and several of the sons that resulted from these marriages were invalids.

In ancient Egypt they had perhaps more sense than we people have today, because then, when a woman had a son who bled to death from a minor wound, she was forbidden by law to have any more children. Also, I read that Jewish teachers, about 400 AD, warned people against permitting circumcision on a boy if some of his brothers or male cousins had bled to death.

Today, we know that there are two forms of hemophilia: (1) the A form, which is due to a lack of a factor called IX; (2) the B form is called the "Christmas disease," because one of the first patients was a certain Mr. Christmas.

About one man in 10,000 is a hemophiliac. Fortunately, some of these persons have the disease in a mild form. The strain to parents—both emotional and financial—is terrible. I was just reading that a boy, during one period of hospitalization, required 522 transfusions of blood! When such a boy is bleeding from an accidentally produced wound, it generally is not sewed up, but a "pressure dressing" is left on it for from four to six days. Help may be obtained from the use of powdered thrombin (which favors clotting). In the case of a nose bleed, the bleeding point—if it can be seen—is covered with a small "Gelfoam pack," soaked in a solution of thrombin.

It is very dangerous when the person bleeds into the tissues of his mouth, or his throat. Then much blood plasma (the liquid part of the blood) must be given if he is to be saved.

There may be bleeding into the abdominal cavity, or into the urinary bladder, or into one or both kidneys.

When blood comes out under pressure into a joint, the pain can be terrible. Usually it is well to put a plaster cast around the joint, so as to cut down on the motion in it. Even worse than bleeding into a joint is bleeding into the muscles of the extremities. The eventual scarring that results can produce bad contractures and deformities.

A blood expert can often tell a man or a woman in a hemophilic family what chance he or she has of transmitting the defect. Because in the past, most hemophiliacs died before they were 20, much of the tendency to the disease died out. Dr. Armand J. Quick said a while ago that it is interesting to note that of the numerous descendants of Queen Victoria now living, none is a bleeder, and probably there won't be any more hemophiliacs in that family unless the tendency comes in again by a marriage. If I were a bleeder I certainly would not have children.

SYNOPSIS—Snow flurries over higher ground and showers elsewhere are expected in the interior today as a flow of moist cool air continues. Much the same weather will exist along the coast but will give way to more rain this afternoon and evening as still another storm moves in from the Pacific. The rain will spread inland Sunday morning. Skies will clear briefly behind the storm with more rain beginning along the coast Sunday afternoon.

Extra Holiday For Government

B.C. government employees will get an extra day's holiday at Christmastime.

Civil Service Commission chairman Dr. H. M. Morrison said Friday the cabinet has proclaimed Friday, Dec. 27, a holiday.

This means civil servants will quit work at 5 p.m. on Dec. 24, a Tuesday, and won't have to return until the following Monday morning, December 30.

Dr. Morrison said some employees who have to work on the 27th to provide vital services will be given a day off later.

BENNETT MUM ON SUBJECT OF 'VITAL' OTTAWA PARLEY

Premier Bennett will go to Ottawa Nov. 25 for what he has called the most important conference since Confederation. But he will not say why it is so vital.

He said in August the federal-provincial conference was one of the reasons he called the Sept. 30 provincial election. He said today the government has prepared a number of briefs, but one concerns pensions.

Mr. Bennett said he will not announce the contents until the conference begins.

'RECORD GETTING CRACKED'

Dief Keeps Up Assault On June Federal Budget

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP).—A prickly piece of unfinished business from the June 13 budget—income tax changes—still sits on the Commons table.

The House chewed again at the income tax bill Friday for nearly four hours—the sixth day it has spent on the measure.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker launched another broadside at Finance Minister Gordon and his budget, charging Canada's international position "has been degraded as never before" because of budget "tinkering."

After that attack, shrugged off by Mr. Gordon as "replaying a record that is getting cracked," some progress was made in approving about half of the 28 complex sections of the tax measure.

Discussion was adjourned, probably until the latter part of next week, just as the Commons was preparing to vote on a Conservative amendment aimed at altering the application of the government's plan of tax incentives for depressed, slow-growth areas.

BURST OF SPEED

The House put on a spurt of speed in the evening and passed the $17,800,000 spending budget of the forestry department in three hours. It was the second of the 22 government departments to have its 1963-64 estimates fully passed. The other is the trade department.

During the estimates debate only about 50 MPs were in the Commons chamber.

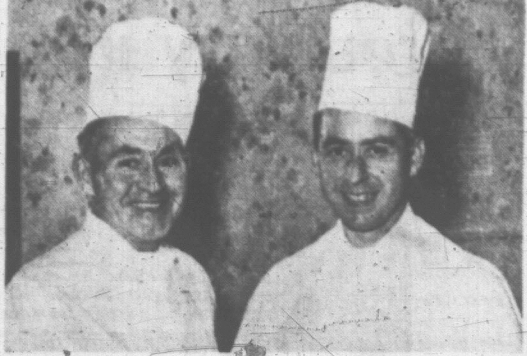

Mr. Diefenbaker's speech attacked two aspects of the June 13 budget affecting foreign investment. One would increase the rate of withholding tax on profits of foreign-controlled subsidiaries which don't give Canadian investors the opportunity of a minority 25-per-cent ownership. The other—withdrawn June 19 by Mr. Gordon—would have put a 30-per-cent "take-over" tax on block purchases of stock in Canadian firms by foreigners.

The opposition leader said the budget had alienated business, shaken confidence and disrupted stock markets.

27 Women, Tots Slain

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Police said a gang of Uganda tribesmen massacred 27 women and children and four men in a Kenya village near the Uganda-Kenya border this week. The tribesmen, thought to be of the Dodoth Cam Topoth and Kurumjong tribes, were said to have attacked a Turkana tribal village while the village's warriors were at a stock auction several miles away.

Mr. Louis Erb, left, welcomes his new partner, Mr. Alfred Utz, at the Continental-Pastries — Victoria's finest cake shop.

Mr. Utz, native of Switzerland, served his apprenticeship there before coming to Vancouver where he spent five years as pastry cook at the Bon Ton Pastry Shop. He plans on introducing new European specialties to the list of quality products at Continental. Come in and try them.

Creativity in Clay and Perception in a Director's Choice

The ceramic art of Zoltan Kisk presents us with novel shapes and forms of such elegant simplicity, with such ingenious sculptural pleasures that one wishes he had adequate time for greater production.

The few pieces in his joint exhibition with Thomas Kakinuma at the Art-Williamson Gallery of Greater Victoria are elegant statements of much beauty, proportional beauty, unadorned glazes and those other commendable qualities of touch which the contemporary potter so often overlooks.

This is perhaps a weakness in Thomas Kakinuma's pottery. We have no desire to handle these metallic glazes which, in some examples, are so obtrusive they manage to obliterate any pleasure derived from the sculptural quality, a marked feature in Kakinuma's work as a rule, but in this exhibition, swamped.

His wall panels (if this is the correct description?) are fidgety annoyances which we might expect to find in some not too discriminating gift shoppe. Mr. Kakinuma is wasting his time and ours with these toy arrangements, not particularly well arranged.

It will be difficult for a visitor to this exhibition to reconcile such contradictions of approach as exist between the eloquence of "The Dove and the Vase," and the contrasting vulgarity of the panels.

Mr. Kakinuma is one of our most able and inventive potters, and it is therefore a pity to see him in this exhibition presented in such a mixed light.

Another artist exhibiting at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria is the Read Islander, Mrs. Bessie Fry Symons. Her work is slight, but refreshingly free of guile and really quite charming. She would appear to be completely absorbed with the beauty of the visible world and does not step beyond bounds of reality.

Her exhibition is concentrated upon the scenery and atmosphere of the West Coast and with such unaffected love of nature it would be out of place to seek an argument.

Mrs. Fry Symons, whether in Read Island or in Jasper, Alberta, conveys the pleasurable mood of the moment and, in turn, gives pleasure to herself and friends.

In close proximity to the above exhibition is a room of watercolors, tempera and gouache paintings from the Gallery's permanent collection. This includes a recent acquisition "Tiger Lilies" by Emily Sartain, and an early watercolor "Grey Log" by Bruno Bobak, not far removed in mood from William D. West's "Ten Mile Point."

Bruno Bobak, now residing in New Brunswick, is to be seen in the Director's Choice exhibition, at present on view in the Ker Wing of the Gallery, and the comparison between the early and the recent Bobak style, in two different media, will be of special interest to art students.

Director's Choice, as its name suggests, is the final purchase selection resulting from a visit to Eastern Canada by Colin Graham, and although it has been placed on view in the Gallery without fanfare, in its way it is probably one of the more significant exhibitions to be held in Victoria for some time.

Armed with a matching grant from the Canada Council to funds generously made available by the Women's Committee Purchase Fund and the Leon and Theda Koerner Foundation, Colin Graham combed Eastern Canada for what he considered to be representative works by living Eastern Canadian artists.

The range of selection is considerable, including as it does one of the best drawings by Harold Town that I have seen, "Tintoretto Drawing from the Model" and a superb autographic print by the same artist.

"At the Window," an oil painting by John Fox, introduces us to an artist of much sensitivity.

John Fox, whose work I knew only through black-and-white reproduction, has many of the rich color qualities which one finds in Vuillard and Bonnard, and which were to be found in certain English artists of the New English Art Club during its peak. I look forward to seeing more work by John Fox out here in the West.

The Goodridge Roberts, a wet, rain saturated landscape, and the small but special Arthur Lismer sketch "Hillside, Bedford, Nova Scotia," confirm that our director chose well and that the reward of the Canada Council's matching grant far exceeds its monetary value.

In the Ker wing also are various recent gifts to the permanent collection and several special works loaned from private sources in Greater Victoria.

I commend to your attention, and well worth a visit to see, the Ruysdael and Jan Both paintings loaned by Dr. M. N. Sherman, plus two Italian paintings attributed to Ghirlandajo and Scivone, generously loaned by Major H. C. Holmes and Miss A. H. J. Toppin.

In the field of contemporary graphics, you will find good prints by Roger Bissiere, Otto Eglaui and Renzo Vespianni of France, Germany and Italy respectively. Nearer to home, a delicate woodcut by D. E. Alexander, an American artist and a fine lithograph by Maxwell Bates, ARCA entitled "Character."

A painting by Maxwell Bates in the University of Victoria's collection has been on display at the University for the past two weeks, coinciding rather nicely with this week's opening of this artist's one-man show at Ego Interiors, Fort Street.

The figurative section, from Nov. 1 to 14, and the non-figurative from Nov. 16-30 inclusive will comprise "paintings never seen in Victoria."

Problem

THE BENDER, by Paul Scott. British Book Service, 254 pp. $4.50.

Very different from the earlier novels of Paul Scott, with their Far East settings, is this tale of ne'er-do-well George Spruce, set in contemporary London.

Dependent on his annual small income, which is just enough to cover his needs, George is suddenly shocked to have his brother demand repayment of a long overdue loan.

Faced with the need to choose between continuing his accustomed way of life or facing his problems like a man, George finds that the struggle is not as lonely as he had feared.—D.W.H.

Paperback Shakespeare Attractive, Stimulating

Reviewed by Grant McOrmond

The new Signet Classic Shakespeare Series under the editorship of Sylvan Barnet of Tufts University represents a successful attempt to produce an edition of Shakespeare that will appeal to both the student and the general reader. Barnet himself has edited Macbeth; Kenneth Muir, of Liverpool University, is the editor of Richard II; Frank Kermode of Manchester University edited The Winter's Tale; Alvin Kernan of Yale did Othello; and Russell Fraser of Yale did King Lear.

While none of these editors possesses the stature among Shakespearean scholars of John Dover Wilson or George Lyman Kittredge, their presence as editors suggests that an attempt was made to use both American and English scholarship in the preparation of this new edition.

Unfortunately, in each volume is repeated the "prelatory remarks" which attempt to give a brief sketch of Shakespeare's Elizabethan theatre, and a brief history of Shakespeare's texts.

These notes are too brief and general to be of much value, and their repetition in each volume results in the exclusion of valuable and interesting historical and critical information.

SIGNET CLASSICS, 1963. The Tragedy of Macbeth, ed., Sylvan Barnet. The Tragedy of King Lear, ed., Russell Fraser. The Tragedy of Othello, ed., Alvin Kernan. The Tragedy of King Richard II, ed., Kenneth Muir. The Winter's Tale, ed., Frank Kermode.

However, the attempt made in this edition to include background material and representative critical essays constitutes a most valuable feature.

For instance, the edition of Richard II contains a generous selection from Holinshed's Chronicles, perhaps the main source of the play, though regrettably it fails to give the relevant background material to be found in the works of Edward Hall and Samuel Daniel.

The critical essays in the volume include Walter Pater's "Shakespeare's English Kings," Richard D. Altick's "Symbolic Imagery in Richard II," and Derek Traversi's discussion of Richard from his work,

Shakespeare from "Richard II" to "Henry V."

These essays give a good sampling of critical opinion concerning the play, although the omission of E. M. W. Tillyard's essay from his Shakespeare's History Plays and of L. F. Dean's essay, "Richard II: The State and Image of the Theatre," with its emphasis on the ritualistic element in Shakespearean drama, is to be regretted.

Such errors of omission, however, are inevitable, Shakespearean criticism being what it is.

It is amazing that the editors have found it possible to include, in a volume retailing for 50 cents, essays on King Lear by Samuel Johnson, A. C. Bradley, Harley Granville Barker, and Harry Levin; or with the text of Othello, essays by Thomas Rymer, Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Maynard Mack, and Robert B. Heilman.

The Signet Classic Shakespeare Series has much to recommend it to the general reader. It is at once inexpensive, attractive, sound, and stimulating.

If the next five plays to appear—(As You Like It, Hamlet, Julius Caesar, A Midsummer Night's Dream and Troilus and Cressida) are as well edited as the first five, the success of the entire series seems to be assured.

Dynamic Jacobean Perceptively Seen

FRANCIS BACON, THE TEMPER OF A MAN, by Catherine Drinker Bowen. Toronto, Little, Brown, 1963. 236 pp., 9 pp. of illustrations. $7.25.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

Mrs. Bowen's dismissal in a single sentence of the idea that Bacon wrote the plays of Shakespeare indicates a common-sense approach to her unusually interesting subject.

A reading of this fine biography leaves one deeply impressed with the remarkable qualities of a dynamic Elizabethan and Jacobean figure (1561-1626).

Mrs. Bowen calls him "a Renaissance man, as many-sided as da Vinci." ("I have taken all knowledge to be my province," said Bacon once). Mrs. Bowen writes of Bacon's philosophic and scientific speculations, his literary achievements, his social background, and his education.

The principal thread throughout the book is, however, Francis Bacon's political career, a subject in itself of distinctive interest and value.

The author traces Bacon's activities from the days when he was an M.P. (from 1584), through his slow rise to power, to the day in 1621 when he was Viscount St. Albans and Lord Chancellor of England.

It was then that a shrewd and restless House of Commons accused him and convicted him of taking bribes.

Mrs. Bowen does not, of course, deny Bacon's guilt, but demonstrates convincingly that his financial manipulations were not much more than commonplace for his times, and that Bacon was a scapegoat for a mass of parliamentary resentments, centering on King James, his minion, the Duke of Buckingham, and Bacon, as chief administrative officer.

The book is lively and informative, a true exposition of its title; it never becomes tedious with an overload of historical detail, but gives a perceptive and sympathetic insight into the life of the central figure and into his times.

Objective Wide-Range View Offered in Official War History

Reviewed by Capt. R. H. Roy

It has taken the British a long time to produce their official history of the campaigns in North-West Europe after D Day, but the wait has been worthwhile. This, the first of two volumes, covers the period from D Day to the end of August, 1944.

It is an excellent book which will be thoroughly enjoyed by the veteran, the armchair general, the historian, and all those interested in military affairs.

The authors have had available to them all the pertinent official records of the war—not only the British and Commonwealth, but a select number of Allied documents, dispatches, reports, etc., as well.

Furthermore, they have also had the advantage of being able to refer to the numerous books and articles, official and otherwise, published before their own volume went to press.

Also, aside from the above, the authors have had access to German material, official and public, written and verbal, which permits them not only to write a thorough history, but one in which the enemy's intentions, hopes and frustrations can be balanced against that of the Allies.

Day of Vindication For Famed Explorer

STEFANSSON: AMBASSADOR OF THE NORTH, by D. M. LeBourdais, Montreal, Harvest House Limited, May 1963. 294 pages. $2.50 (paperback), $4.50 (cloth).

Reviewed by H. Sugimoto

In the midst of the gathering interest in our northern regions in the second half of the twentieth century, this biography of one of the most eminent and colorful of our explorers and anthropologists is a very timely production.

Written by one who was personally acquainted with Stefansson, the work consists in large measure of a sympathetic interpretation of the aims and motives which drove this explorer ever onward to face the uncertainties of an unknown land of ice and snow.

Of physical dangers, there were many: Stefansson met them all as a challenge to the ingenuity of man. But what he found to be the most exasperating were the difficulties brought on by the jealousies and hostilities of erstwhile friends and influential officials.

The official attitude in the later period of Arctic exploration was ranged against Stefansson's proposals and was ultimately to work to Canada's detriment by retarding the country's development northward.

This is the section of Stefansson's experiences in which the author excels in weaving for us an account of the intimate interrelationships among the interested groups which time and again thwarted Stefansson's final efforts.

The North as we know it contains forty per cent of the whole of Canada, and it is in this region that Stefansson maintained that Canada's future lay. And it is here too that Stefansson set out and successfully proved to the world that man could live off the land.

After describing Stefansson's feelings in these words: "As he saw it, fresh from a dozen years in the North, the Arctic sea is not at the end of the earth, but must by means of the aeroplane and the submarine—become in time a polar Mediterranean," LeBourdais proceeds to convince us that Stefansson was not only a realist but a prophet also. He tells us that Stefansson wanted to claim all the Arctic islands for Canada in anticipation of the great age that he had felt certain was soon to come.

Taking into consideration that Stefansson also realized the mineral potential of the Arctic lands, the reader can readily see how well this explorer foretold the age of oil exploration, of modern trans-polar flights criss-crossing the top of the world, and of atomic submarines ferreting out the depths along the Northwest Passage.

The day of Stefansson's vindication has finally arrived.

Mr. LeBourdais is the author of such other books as Canada's Century, Nation of the North, Canada and the Atomic Revolution, and Metals and Men.

LARGEST FORMICA MURAL ever produced expresses the Canadian World's Fair theme, "Man and His World." The work of artist Ron Havard, right, it is rendered in 36 separate panels of Formica and is located at the entrance stairwell of Montreal's Grand Motor Hotel. The design is an allegorical portrayal of the fair theme, tracing various stages of man's origin. Mr. Havard is pointing out to deputy general manager of Canadian World Exhibition Corporation, Guy Beaudry. It measures 40 feet by 18 feet.

inet, and Woodford Garrigus, oboe. Various combinations of the voice and instruments will be used in a program that ranges through a superb selection of German, French and English music. Included is a group of songs by Capt. J. M. Gayfer of Victoria.

Star-Studded Program Next for Vic Symphony

A trio of concerts fairly bristling with distinguished guest artists will occupy Victoria Symphony Orchestra and its patrons next weekend.

Featured in programs at the Royal Theatre Sunday and Tuesday, Nov. 10 and 12, and at Sansha Hall, Sidney, on the holiday night, Monday, will be guest conductor Geoffrey Hobday, duo pianists Morisset and Bouchard, and raconteur Sebastian Cabot.

The last named, whose appearance depended on the demands of TV and film commitments, now appears almost certain to be present. His role will be that of narrator for the delightful Ogden Nash verses accompanying Saint Saeus' "Carnival of Animals."

British-born, international conductor, Geoffrey Hobday, has been remarkably successful in the fields of symphony, opera and oratorio.

He has conducted orchestras in France, Monaco, Italy, the United States and Great Britain. He directed the Spring Music Festivals of 1951-52-53 in Nice and was four years in Monte Carlo where he conducted the Orchestre National de l'Opera de Monte-Carlo.

In 1953 he came to the United States on the invitation of the Fort Worth Civic Opera to be its general director and conductor. In the following spring he became conductor of the Charleston Symphony Orchestra of West Virginia, which he has directed for several seasons.

While there, in 1961, he visited Rome, conducting the Santa Cecilia Orchestra in an outdoor concert and won warm praise from Rome's critics.

The duo piano team, who will play Poulenc's Concerto in D minor for two pianos and orchestra, are a Canadian husband-and-wife team who studied in Paris, have toured eastern Canada for Les Jeunesses Musicales and in 1957 were selected by Les Jeunesses Musicales of France for a tour of that country.

Revue Morisset and Victor Bouchard appear regularly on Canadian TV and radio broadcasts. They are parents of three young children.

Russian Cellist Opens An Exceptional Season

Major fine arts event of the coming week is undoubtedly the opening of the Famous Artists subscription series, Thursday night at the Royal.

In presenting the great Soviet cellist, Mstislav Rostropovich, on that date, the series is given a send-off of such prestige that it is unlikely to be excelled in 1963-64.

Rostropovich comes to America for the second time as part of a cultural exchange program with Soviet Union.

On his first visit to major American cities in 1956, he was unanimously acclaimed as one of the very few great cellists of our time.

Frankenstein of the San Francisco Chronicle called him "one of the most amazing cellists... a colossal technique, a fiery, temperamental, immensely exhilarating kind of musicianship."

Taubman of the N.Y. Times exclaimed in awe: "Brilliance of technique, singing tone, searching musicianship!"

And the New Yorker's Sargeant spoke of "A technique so formidable and accurate that one would have to go back to the cello playing of the late Emanuel Feuermann to find its equal!"

The 36-year-old cellist is the son and grandson of noted cellists and his mother was an excellent pianist. His career from childhood up was overflowing with promise and at 15 he began his concert life, appearing in the triple role of cellist, pianist and composer in a concert given by Soviet composers.

He was closely associated with both Shostakovich and Prokofiev, to such an extent that after the latter's death, he was able to finish Prokofiev's Concertino for Cello and Orchestra.

His Monitor and Capitol recordings include Shostakovich Sonatas with Shostakovich.

vich at the piano, Beethoven Trios with Emil Gilels and Leonid Kogan, and Dvorak and Rachmaninoff works as soloist with the Royal Philharmonic under Sir Adrian Boult and Sir Malcolm Sargent.

Next Thursday's concert, which will include works by Bach, Stravinsky, Kabalevsky and Benjamin Britten, sets the tone for an altogether exceptional celebrity season.

After Christmas, the great American actress, Cornelia Otis Skinner, will present an evening of superb entertainment.

Donald Bell, one of the finest baritone voices ever produced in Canada, Dorothy Kirsten, Metropolitan soprano and Gina Bachauer, noted Greek pianist, are scheduled to appear, and the series will conclude in April with the DeCormier Belafonte Folk Singers, an attraction that must be seen to be believed.

In February an extra will be added with the appearance of the fabulous Jose Greco Spanish Ballet, for which season ticket holders will be given the first choice of seats.

The versatility of this year's series and its uniformly excellent quality make the package deal one of the finest entertainment bargains ever offered Victorians.

Chilling Drama For Guild Fans Opens Thursday

Opening next Thursday at Langham Court Theatre, is Victoria Theatre Guild's second production for this season, an eerie, atmospheric thriller called "The Deadly Game."

A difficult play with an almost all-male cast, it concerns a group of storm-bound travelers in a remote mountain inn and the deadly means they adopt for passing the time.

Director is Bert Farr and in his cast are Bruce Banyard, Ken Bostock, John Drea, Robert Price, Gem Hewlett, Louis Rees and Barbara Grant.

The play will run from Nov. 7 through 9 and from Nov. 13 through 16, with the performance sponsored by a local organization on the 13th.

All seats are reserved and the box office opened today at Eaton's ticket bureau. Box office hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Symphony Fund Drive

VANCOUVER (CP) - The Vancouver Symphony, shut down because of a tangled dispute with musicians, announced Thursday it will call in professional fund-raisers to collect $1,000,000 for an endowment fund to keep the orchestra going.

The society said the fund, to be collected over five years, would allow long-term budgeting and eliminate the musicians' objections.

Musicians indicated they did not agree. They announced they would present a series of concerts if the society cancelled its present season.

LAWRENCE OF ARABIA

Odeon Theatre

My second viewing of the mighty "Lawrence" (the first was in Vancouver last March) confirms my opinion that this is one of the greatest films of all time.

The desert photography in itself is epic. There are moments when the screen stands open like the door of a huge furnace, and the viewer stares wide-eyed into the molten shimmer of white-hot sands into blank incandescent infinity.

It is a mind-battering experience, an encounter with the absolute, and after it much of the film seems merely human.

The actors, however, survive the impact. Peter O'Toole is tremendous as the enigmatic Lawrence—the hero of millions, a popinjay to the old military caste, a "lead and a boulder" to biographer Richard Aldington, the Sheikh Dinamit (Spirit of the Wind) to the Arabs, whom he led to victory over the detested Turks.

Sir Winston Churchill saw him as "one of the greatest beings alive in our time"—a man of vast ability who could write as magnificently as he fought.

Such men are of the stuff of legends and, since his death in 1933, scores of books have been written about him. Now as a movie colossus, directed by David Lean, "Lawrence" runs for three hours and 40 minutes.

It cost more than $30,000,000 to produce, employed 1,500 camels and horses, 5,000 extras and six star performers—Alec Guinness, Jose Ferrer, Anthony Quinn, Jack Hawkins, Claude Rains and Arthur Kennedy.

O'Toole was chosen for the title role because, being a comparative newcomer, his personality would not be confused with other film characters. And his rendering of the part is faithful to what we know of Lawrence through his fascinating "Seven Pillars of Wisdom."

Alec Guinness is suavely convincing as Prince Feisal and Quinn is magnificent as the violent Sheikh Auda abu Tayi—a great hairy camel of a man who shouts "I am a river to my people."

But it is O'Toole who dominates the screen with his professional skill, Irish charm and the good looks of a healthy young lion with a golden mane.

He catches the noble seriousness of Lawrence, his theatricality, his god-like arrogance, headlong courage, Celtic wit, humorless egotism, compulsive chastity and sensuous pleasure in pain.

Mention should also be made of Claude Rains as Dryden, General Allenby's devious political adviser.

Outstanding, too, is the charging dynamic music of Maurice Jarre—relieved by a haunting desert theme—interpreted by Sir Adrian Boult and the London Philharmonic Orchestra.

Special Hammer To Drive Nails

In putting nails into gypsum board, it is important that the hammer does not bruise the area surrounding the nail heads. You can buy special hammers, with slightly rounded faces, which make it easier to drive a nail close to the board without making a bruise.

At left, the work island containing sink and dish washer is convenient to any part of the room. Beneath, right, shallow store cupboards occupy two sides.

Multi-Purpose Work Island

By PAULINE GRAVES

Here's a kitchen that combines convenience with eye appeal, and one of the most efficient arrangements is the island in the centre of the room.

On the side opposite the built-in range, sink and dish washer are located, hidden from the rest of the kitchen and from the dining room beyond by the high snack counter. Pans and dishes can be stacked here during meal preparation, and yet the kitchen looks neat.

The snack counter, rimming the island, offers an easily served area for quick meals, and can be used as a relay station for dishes being served in the dining room.

Still a third function of the island is that of storing canned goods. Two of the island sides, the left side and the back, were constructed with shallow cupboards, a depth of six inches, just right for cans and packaged foods. When the doors are closed, the cupboards are invisible, yet it is a wonderful spot for reserve supplies.

Knotty pine walls and cabinets give the kitchen a provincial style to blend with the rest of the house, augmented by the rustic beams that cut across the ceiling.

Open cupboards have scalloped edges, and one kitchen shelf is of used brick, almost a staple for provincial designs. Pine stools line up around the snack counter and are useful, too, in aiding access to top shelves.

Problem Drawers Find Simple Cures

Furniture drawers, though basically simple, are subject to pesky disorders.

The most common complaint: sticking. Drawer pulls often become loose and, if not taken care of quickly, will cause marrying of the drawer's surface finish. With age, the joints of a drawer may loosen.

Those Sticking Drawers
The problem of a sticking drawer is most likely to occur in warm weather. Generally, drawers are made of soft wood and left unfinished. Moist air will cause the wood to swell. Drawers that work well all winter may do so only because the air is relatively dry.

Slight sticking can be cured at times with nothing more than the rubbing of paraffin or a lubricating stick over the sliding parts.

If this doesn't do it, sand the sliding parts until the drawer opens and closes smoothly. If there is severe rubbing and sanding won't correct it, you may have to plane these parts.

Do not remove too much wood.

Warm, dry air may cause the wood to shrink later on, and the drawer may then develop a wobble.

Don't force a drawer that is stuck. And don't fool with makeshift repairs. Get at the cause. Attack the problem by removing the back covering of the piece of furniture.

The backs of most bureaus are held on with screws or small nails.

You may be able to manoeuvre the drawer a little better from in back.

If it remains jammed, and if you can't remove contents through a partial opening, better call a carpenter to free the drawer. Applying heat to dry the drawer is a pretty risky business. Don't try it. (If you're the patient type—leave the drawer alone till it dries out, and then remove it for repairs).

You can help minimize future swelling of wood by giving the surface of the drawer a coat of shellac. Allow drawer to dry thoroughly before re-

Door Mirror Indispensable, Easy to Install

In bathroom or bedroom, a full length door mirror will provide insurance against walked-over shoes and exposed slip heels going undetected.

A handyman husband can install one easily. All he needs to do is measure the height and width of the door to guide in getting the correct mirror size.

Don't worry about the number of recessed panels which a door may have as a standard 60 inch high mirror will cover them all.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Large Spirea Family Fine Friend to Gardener

By JACK BEASTALL

Spiraeas are not what they used to be, mainly because their name was, in the past, used as the common name of a group properly known as astilbes (as-till-be).

The latter are herbaceous perennials of the Saxifrage family and have feathery trusses of tiny flowers, some kinds being forced into flower to sell as Easter plants in the more wintry sections of the continent. These are still commonly referred to as the Florists' Spiraeas.

In contrast, the true spiraeas (spi-ree-ah) are perennial shrubs of the rose family, of which one variety is known to many gardeners only by the name of Bridal Wreath. But this is only one of a large group of spring and summer flowering deciduous (leaf-losing) shrubs.

Some have been very popular with generations of gardeners because of their hardness and tolerance of a wide range of soils.

Most of the spiraeas are small to medium sized shrubs, as wide as they are high, although hybrids and horticultural forms have extended the group to include compact dwarfs, and some procumbent species are also known.

SOME HYBRIDS

The early flowering spiraeas are all white, the first to bloom being Spiraea thunbergi whose slender arching branches carry feathery light green leaves which turn orange to scarlet in fall.

Spiraea arguta is a hybrid between S. thunbergi and S. multiflora, resembling the former but more floriferous.

Spiraea trilobata is not often seen here but a hybrid between it and S. cantoniensis (of Canton) displaying the same three-lobed leaves is the popular S. vanhouttei. The bluish green of the leaves and the umbels, or clusters, of white flowers along the stems are well known to local gardeners.

With the addition of a few others, flowering is spread from early spring into late June, and pruning, when necessary, is done after flowering. Removal of the oldest stems at ground level will encourage new growths, and is a good way in which to rejuvenate old specimens.

It is in the late flowering group that we find colored blooms, mostly pink to red-pink, although S. albiflora (white-flowered) and the European prostrate species (S. decumbens) are exceptions.

Often seen in local gardens and seldom known to be a spiraea by the owners, are forms of S. bumalda, itself a hybrid between S. japonica (of Japan) and S. albiflora, and retaining the deep pink flowers of the variable Japanese species.

The two popular forms are Anthony Waterer, compact with pleasing foliage and crimson flowers, and Froebel, of taller growth and flowers the same color. The green-bronze foliage and flattish heads of the flowers always catch the eye of flower arrangers.

Much better blooms are to be had on these by pruning the shrubs quite drastically just before the leaf buds burst in spring. When this is done from the start the shrubs may be no more than three feet high after ten years of growth, and additional cutting for use indoors gives more young growth the following year.

Several dwarf forms have appeared in lists of recent years, those I have seen resembling S. bumalda in foliage and flowers. Whether these are horticultural forms of bumalda or related to the Asiatic S. bumalda, a dwarf itself, is not easy to determine.

EASILY GROWN

All the tall spiraeas list in the lower price group and therefore are well suited to the gardener with extensive property where shrubs are needed on a limited budget. They are all easy to grow, and care for themselves once established.

The early flowering group are good for informal hedges, or for screens, up to six feet in height. All one variety may be used, or they can be mixed for contrast for foliage and extended time of flowering.

The late flowering group is often used for low divisional hedges within the garden, best when held to between three and four feet in height. Planting time for all is during the next few weeks. A little bonemeal at the roots and a sunny position for best flowering, is all they need.

A good plant encyclopedia will list about 70 spiraeas native in the northern hemisphere to which can be added horticultural forms and hybrids to double its length.

For the record, Rock spiraea is Holodiscus discolor; False spiraea is Sobaria; Blue spiraea is Caryopteris incana, and the Florists' spiraea, as mentioned above, is Astilbe.

Heinous Crime Perpetrated By Hotels in New Zealand

Mr. Pott, a former Victorian now living in New Zealand, today continues his sensational reports on life "down under."

By SIDNEY POTT

The usual peace and quiet of the North and South Islands has been rocked by a crime. Even the New Zealand Herald has come out with an editorial describing the hotels in Invercargill—which is about as south as one can go on the south island—as nothing more than speakeasies. They have been selling bootleg eggs.

The Egg Marketing Authority has accused the owners of hotels of breaking regulations by selling hotel guests eggs produced at the hotel's farm. The hotel owners were asked by the authority to "discontinue the practice of transferring eggs from your farm to your hotels."

Reluctant to comply, the owners hired lawyers who replied: "We think that the reasonable interpretation of the regulations is that the provision of eggs with a meal is not a sale of eggs but rather a sale of the meal."

The lawyers went even farther and suggested the hotel owners ask in what way they were selling eggs. "This may produce an interesting and no doubt revealing answer."

The answer was as follows: "If you are not selling eggs in your hotels, the Authority would be interested to know exactly what you are doing with the eggs."

That is where the case rests at the moment. The final word on the matter at this stage was made by the New Zealand Herald:

"The Egg Marketing Authority perpetrates as many administrative absurdities as it distributes stale eggs."

Eggs in New Zealand, which is still primarily a farming country, are neither good nor inexpensive. Large size eggs sell for 68 cents per dozen and it is not surprising to find blood spots in one or two. The yolks are not always firm, indicating a stale product.

Stores seldom keep them under refrigeration. Usually the shopper sees them piled up in boxes on a shelf or in a great heap in a bowl.

The surprising thing too is you can purchase them singly at 6 cents each.

The laying birds are often to be seen by the hundreds scratching in the green fields while the more progressive poultrymen have adopted the North American cage system.

The fryer, as Victorians know it, is all-but unheard-of here. Mainly the poultry eaten are roasters. These are rather skimpy in meat on the breast, although the legs are quite well covered. The birds have been well processed and are sold in an attractive vacuum pack. The price is about 50 to 60 cents a pound. They usually weigh around the four-pound mark.

When we first arrived we had bread delivered. This was deposited at the gate in the mail box at some unearthly hour in the morning. As bread is delivered in an unwrapped state we were a little upset at the unhygienic manner in which it was left.

If you purchase an unwrapped loaf at a store you receive it just that way. Our own practice is to take along a bag and place the bread in that. On rare occasions a storekeeper will provide a piece of newspaper. Unwrapped bread sells for about 9 cents while there are wrapped loaves similar to those sold in Victoria for 16 cents. This makes the cost of wrapping rather exorbitant.

The other day, while traveling towards Auckland, we saw a half-ton stake truck with a large unpainted weatherbeaten crate on the deck. The crate was full of wrapped and unwrapped bread. We cannot see the B.C. health department—permitting such a state of affairs.

Flies in Auckland are a menace. While meat stores have wire fly screens, the majority of the houses do not. This appears a rather curious habit. Despite the screens, the meat stores still display far too many flies playing hopscotch over the meat. A rather unappetizing sight.

A week or so back we visited our daughter's school to listen to Sir Edmund Hillary talking about his recent visit to the Himalayas.

He is the president of Volunteer Service Abroad, which grapples with the problems besetting smaller Asian nations.

Sir Edmund showed us pictures of the back-breaking task of hauling building materials along mountain tracks to almost inaccessible spots in Nepal. There Hillary and his companions set to work building schools to enable the people in the mountains to learn to read and write their own language.

Fathers and sons attended the neat aluminum-roofed schools which have stood up well under heavy snowfalls. Lumber had to be cut out of the forests by hand and sawn into boards just as pioneers in B.C. were forced to do. Nepalese teachers were recruited as masters.

Sir Edmund was delighted with the progress made by the classes in the first school constructed the year previous.

The New Zealand government pays the travel expenses of the volunteers. Other than that they receive rations, grant for clothing, a field allowance and a very small grant upon completion of two years service.

Every now and again Victorians read about a new plan for the Fountain Circle to help ease the traffic tie-up. A long way away from Victoria in the South Pacific in a small suburb of Auckland called Panmure there is a similar problem.

Promptly at 4:30 each evening, except of course Saturday and Sunday which are the days of relaxation in Kiwi land, the traffic backs up about three-quarters of a mile as another "Fountain Circle" bottlenecks the traffic. The situation is almost identical.

Eyes on Esquimalt In Prep Boot Race

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

What is it like being an "ex-football coach?" Does the memory of dropped passes in the enemy zone haunt you?

Can you shake the habit of walking down dark streets to avoid alumni or club directors or arm-chair quarterbacks who want to tell you how to do your job?

LOU AGASE no scars

pros. Duffy Daugherty, the head coach at Michigan State, knew the people who owned the Oakland franchise in the American Football League.

"I had a dinner interview and the man more or less said I had the job. But he said he had promised to talk to one more fellow and he would phone me in two days.

'This Is Way a Man Should Live'

"In my hotel room that night I did some soul-searching. Believe me, I went deep. Finally about 2:30 a.m., wringing wet, I asked myself, 'What do I need this for?' The headlines? No."

"I'm callous to criticism. It's part of the job. But for my own selfishness should my family have to suffer?"

"In Toronto my wife had to take our 11-year-old daughter out of the stands one day. She couldn't stand the names they called me, the bad language.

"Two days later in a Toronto supermarket my wife was recognized. The abuse was so bad she left the cart and walked out.

"I suddenly thought to myself... 'What's the problem, Agase? You don't need this.' Then I climbed into bed and slept like a baby. Been sleeping that way ever since."

Lou Agase (as in "Agassiz"), brick-wall shoulders, brown eyes, was actually telling three stories. The story of the burdens that accompany the glorified coach; the story of his conscience; the story of a man's feeling for his family.

In a way, in his new job with a national housing and rental unit company, he's still trying to score—"we have some terrific rental units here looking for people to fill them."

"This is the way a man should live," he said. "If there's a beef about my work, I catch it from one man—my boss—alone, in his office. My family doesn't have to suffer for my mistakes.

You'd Find Cookie Where Fun Was

Agase bears no scars of the axe job done on him at Toronto. He didn't laugh at the Argo airlift born out of panic which has seen 109 players pass through the Toronto dressing room this season. He politely declined comment on the job done by his successor, Nobby Wilkowski. No knives. No Rabelaisian touches.

But he incisively put his finger on the fallible outlook of club directors and zealots.

"People tend to forget that a team should be judged on its performance over a span of games, not one game. Football is a game of fractions of inches, of a freak bounce."

Toronto people are classic examples of the mold. Before Agase, the Argos had not made the playoffs in five years. Under him they were eastern finalists twice. They lost in 1960 on a sleeper play; in 1961 defeat came in overtime.

In 1962 the Argos lost their first three games. In football, in many pro sports, tradition decrees that owners, managers and players do not contribute to the sin of losing. Only the coach. Only Agase.

Time passes. Disappointments fade. But memories linger on like vintage wine. Cookie Gilchrist fits in there. Cookie played hard on the field and held the unofficial broken field record after hours. Where the fun was, Cookie was.

He went to Buffalo and tore holes in enemy lines; at Toronto the knock against him was that he never delivered when the money was on the line.

"He was a live one," Agase said. "And a real football player."

Emperor Looked at the Sky All Day

"I remember once when Ottawa had a huge tackle, Tom Jones. Weighed nearly 300 pounds. They called him 'The Emperor.' We had tried a good boy against him but Jones was too much."

"I walked into the locker room one night and said, 'Cookie, I have a job for you. I want you... Aw forget it.'"

"What do you want me to do, coach?" Cookie asked. "Well, I said, 'we're having trouble with Jones and I thought you might be able to handle him, but...'"

"By this time, Cookie is screaming—'What you want me to do? Just tell me!'"

"I said 'I know you're a fullback, but if you could play that tackle spot against Jones...'"

"Cookie couldn't hold himself—I'll dump Mr. Jones on his backside."

"On the way of the game, everybody wanted to go over defensive formations with Cookie. I said no, leave him alone. Don't fog him up. Let his instincts take over."

"They did. Cookie had Jones looking at sky all day." Ottawa again, Gilchrist was warned that the Rough Riders would be looking for him.

"The tackle, end and guard will be coming at you," Agase warned.

"What do I do, coach?" Cookie asked.

"Repeat after me," said Agase. "Our Father, who are in heaven"

B.C.'s Big Horns Shipped to Idaho

Nineteen California Big Horn mountain sheep were trucked from B.C.'s Cariboo country to Idaho this week under the watchful eyes of B.C. game officials.

The animals were located by helicopter and captured under the supervision of Victoria-based game biologist Pat Martin.

They will be turned out on a protected range west of the Owyhee River in southern Idaho and will be cared for by the Idaho Fish and Game department. The animals have been extinct in Idaho since the turn of the century.

Population growth in U.S. range areas forced the animals north into B.C., which has the last sizable herds of Big Horns.

Win Over Bays Would Create Three-Way Tie

It's all up to the unheralded Esquimalt Dockers.

And the eyes of all Inter-High Senior Soccer League followers are upon the Dockers.

Dockers can create a three-way tie for second place with a victory over slumping Oak Bay when the league rings down the curtain Monday on regular season's play.

If Oak Bay wins or ties, then the green-shirted Bays move into the city championship final against Victoria High Tyees.

If Esquimalt wins Monday's match, to be played at Oak Bay, then three teams will finish the season in a second-place tie. A deadlock would be broken by a playoff series.

CLAREMONT IN TIE

Certainly, the Dockers will get plenty of cheering support from Claremont—the third team involved in the hunt for the all-important playoff berth.

Oak Bay, all but conceded second place a week ago, dropped a 1-0 decision to Claremont in midweek. The Claremont team then kept alive its slim hopes Friday night by playing to a 1-1 tie with the Tyees before a noisy turnout of about 750 fans, the largest of the season at Royal Athletic Park for a school match.

Esquimalt kept in the picture by nipping Mount Douglas 1-0 on a disputed goal by centre-forward Ken Squires.

ROUGH CONTEST

It was a rough-and-tumble affair. Both clubs played to win and one player, Gordon Strongman of Mount Douglas, was sent off for fouling a rival.

Esquimalt's winner came mid-way in the first half when Squires took a short pass in front of the Mount Doug goal. The defenders—felt Squires was offside but referee George Steele waved play on and Squires went in to score easily.

The second game, in contrast to the rough opener, was a soccer treat.

TYEES TIRED

Tyees started with a rush but the game ended with Claremont pressing the tired-looking Vic High squad.

Tyees served best by outside right Dave Evans, scored its goal in the final minute before the half. Inside Oscar Walda headed the ball into the corner of the goal after a pretty, three-man effort that featured the work of Evans, Don Frampton and Mike Graas.

Joe Milligan scored Claremont's goal three minutes after resumption of play. He beat two Tyees defenders before connecting on a 15-yard drive.

Next games: Monday—Esquimalt at Oak Bay; Mount Douglas at Mount View.

Uplands Pairing Retains Buttons

Uplands' Ted Williams and Bill Craven successfully defended the seniors' buttons by defeating Oak Bay challengers John Sturdy and Glen Coffey on the 14th green at Royal Colwood Golf Club Friday.

Gorge Vale's Ray Spouse and Fred Groomer toss out the next challenge.

Under-15 Round At Uplands Club

Regular under-15 round for women golfers will be played Monday at Uplands Golf Club. Post entries will be accepted.

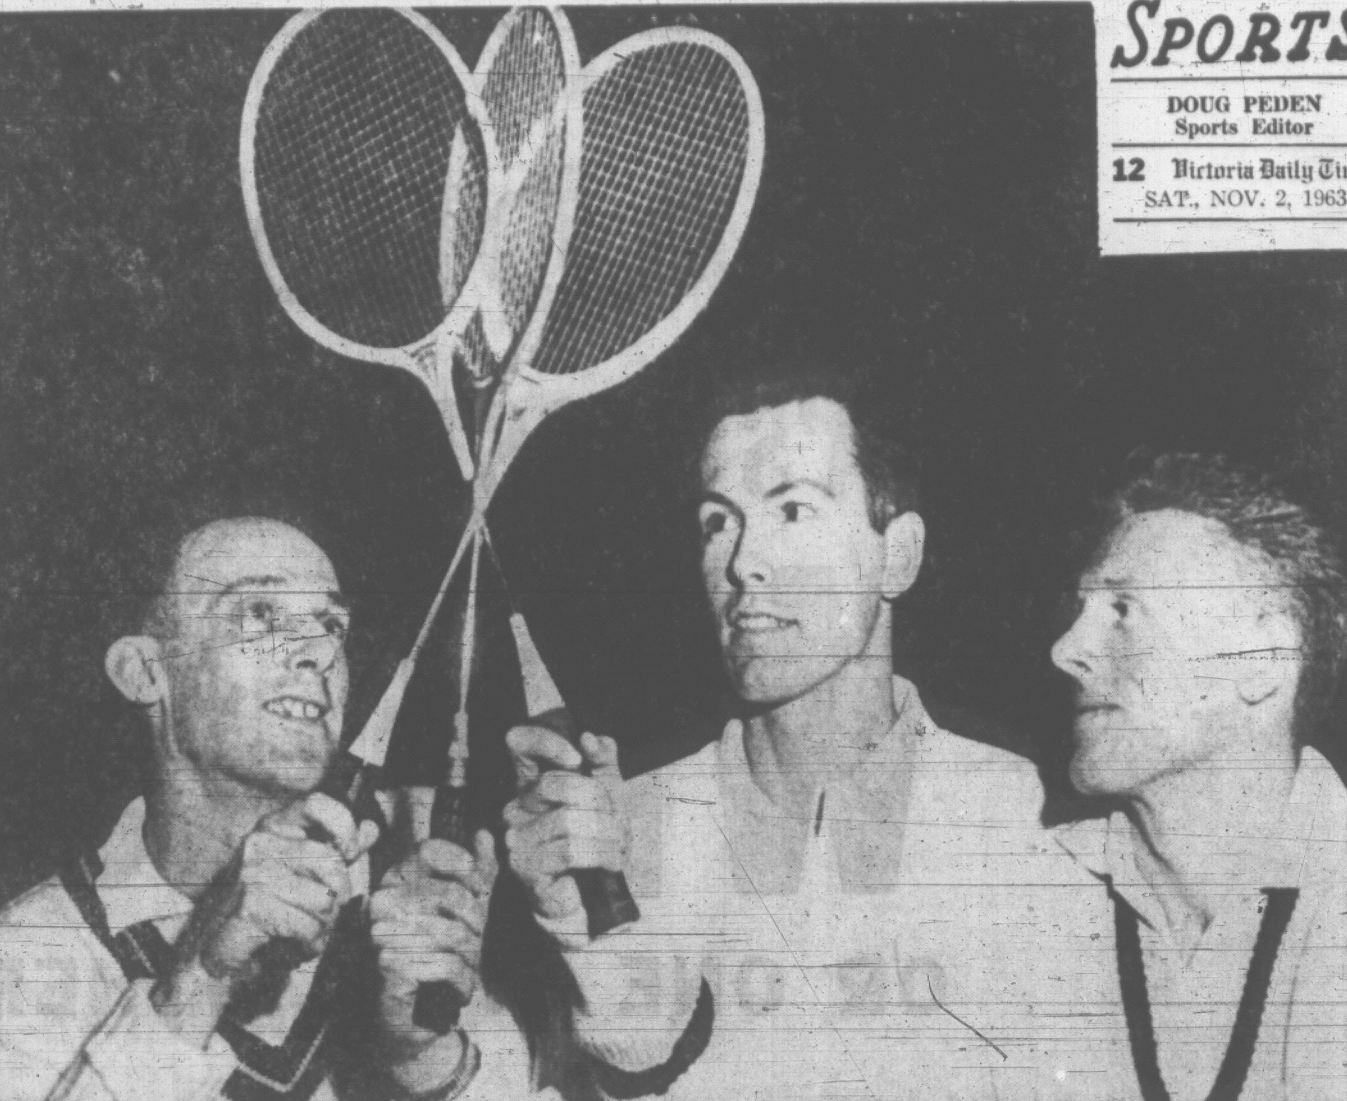

Starting times:

10 a.m.—Todd, Riley, Thirwell, 10:07—Stearns, Raymond, Sims, 10:14—Green, Saunders, Tribe, 10:21—Harris, Hubbard, Price, 10:28—Stilling, Keate, Locatelli, 10:35—Bliss, Godfrey, Chisholm, 10:42—Pumfrey, Smith, Whyte, 10:49—Fell, Barrell, Lovell, Liddell.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Fine three-game scratch series of 620 earned Barbara McNelly women's tenpin award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition. Barbara included single games of 212 and 231 in her winning effort at Mayfair Lanes.

AGAINST INDIA

Yanks Go Two Up In Davis Cup Play

BOMBAY, India (AP) — The United States took a 2-0 lead over India in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals today as Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston scored straight set victories in the opening two singles matches.

McKinley, the Wimbledon champion, defeated Premjit Lall 6-4, 6-3, 6-0 in the first match and Ralston then beat India's top-ranked player, Ramanathan Krishnan, 6-4, 6-1, 13-11 in the second match to give the United States a sweep of the opening singles.

The winner of the best-of-five series will qualify to meet Australia, holder of the Davis Cup, in the challenge round at Adelaide, Australia, Dec. 26-28. A victory in the doubles Sunday would clinch the interzone finals for the U.S. McKinley and Ralston will form the doubles team.

India's doubles combination still is undetermined. The final two singles matches

Noretko Finally Grabs First Road-Race Win

Persistence paid off Friday for Ray Noretko and the Navy runner steamed home in front in the annual Canadian Legion fall road races at Victoria High School.

Many times close to the lead, but never a winner in local distance races, Noretko captured Friday's four-mile open event in 18 minutes, 54 seconds.

Actually, the sailor had appeared ready to hit the winners' circle the previous week. But when he made a bid to take the lead while running second, a shoelace snapped and Ray had to settle for 12th place.

Laces were strong and carefully-knotted Friday and Noretko made no mistake as he beat defending champion John Cliff of Victoria University by six seconds. In third place was Esquimalt's Ken Blunt.

'HURT AWFULLY HARD'

EDMONTON (CP) — Eagle Keys of Edmonton Eskimos has replied to criticism levelled at him and the last-place Western Football Conference team he coaches.

Keys said he "personally deplored the situation of this nature," referring to a week which saw the wives of two Eskimo players criticize his ability and the formation of a six-man committee to conduct a thorough investigation of the club.

He said his wife and family suffered considerably during the weekend then added: "I guess it goes along with coaching when you have a losing season."

Eskimos have won only two of 13 games this year. Keys said comments relating

Hunt Flashes Power; Clips Manitoba Champ

Bob Hunt appears serious about earning a place on Canada's Thomas Cup team.

The Victoria and B.C. champion made it look that way at the Racquet Club Friday night as play started in the club's annual invitational badminton tournament, which is one of three trials for the national team.

Fourth-ranked men's singles player in the Dominion, Hunt was handling his racquet with the touch of a master when he tangled with Manitoba champion Dave Thomson in two matches.

In the singles, Hunt forced play all the way and turned back the Winnipeg ace by scores of 15-9, 15-1.

Hunt also teamed with Ed Hedley to chalk up a victory in doubles competition. The Victoria pair turned back the Winnipeg duo of Thomson and Larry Ladyman 15-6, 18-16.

YABLONSKI WINS

Three other prospects for berths on the Thomas Cup squad also chalked up wins Friday. Vancouver's Rolf Paterson downed Ivor Goodman, Victoria, 15-1, 15-1; Montreal's Ed Yablonski defeated John Sutherland, Vancouver, 15-3, 15-5, and veteran Bert Fergus of Vancouver defeated Victoria's Lloyd Park.

Yablonski and Jim Carnwath, Woodstock, Ont., rated among the favorites for the doubles crown, had a tough struggle before getting by a pair of former Victoria players now attending University of B.C.

Carnwath and Yablonski came from behind to down Mel McKenzie and Alex Barloev, 13-15, 15-5, 15-2.

Semifinals in major events are scheduled tonight and open finals will be played Sunday afternoon, starting at 1.

Here is tonight's draw: 7:00—Ladies singles semi-finals; veterans doubles finals; mixed doubles "B" division finals. 7:30—Men's singles "A" semi-finals. 8:00—Ladies doubles "A" semi-finals. 8:30—Men's doubles semi-finals "A". 9:00—Mixed doubles semi-finals "A".

Patriots Shock Favored Houston

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Patriots stunned favored Houston Oilers with an early 76-yard Babe Parilli to Larry Garon pass play, threw in Bob Suci's 98-yard pass interception run-back and went on to crush the Oilers 45-3 Friday night.

The result tied the teams for the Eastern Division lead in the American Football League, each with 5-4 records.

STARS MISS THE BOAT —PLAY AGAIN TONIGHT

Things are bound to be different tonight for Victoria Haida Chiefs.

Tuning up for the Inter-City Basketball League season, Chiefs booked two games at Central Junior High School this weekend with the touring Harlem Stars.

The first one was scheduled for 9 Friday night, but the Stars had missed a ferry connection and were forced to charter a small plane. It needed two trips to get the team to Victoria.

They finally had enough men to start the game about 10:15.

Manager Boyd Buie has promised the Stars will be at full strength tonight for a return clash at 8 and says they will toss in all their comedy routines. One thing the Chiefs hope will show a big change is the crowd count. Only about 100 fans turned up Friday.

One thing they hope will remain the same. Haidas won Friday's game, 77-61.

PLAY LIONS SUNDAY

Bombers Refuse To Ask Sympathy

By The Canadian Press
Winnipeg Blue Bombers, a fourth-place football club whatever happens this weekend, are not asking for sympathy.

Jim Ausley, their general manager, says they still have the personnel to win in the Western Football Conference. And meanwhile, a losing season has the city of Winnipeg all shook up.

"There's more football talk there than there's been for three years," Ausley told members of the press in Vancouver Friday night.

"Losing helped. Fans used to say, 'Why should I go to the game when I know who's going to win. All I have to do is read the paper and find out the score.'"

The team has drawn more fans this year than in 1962, when it finished first, always a happy sign for the bill-paying general manager.

And lessons are being learned about the Bomber organization itself, indicating changes will be required, Ausley said.

The Texas-born general manager preceded his team to Vancouver, where Winnipeg meets the conference-champion British Columbia Lions in a season finale Sunday afternoon.

The other windup match comes, tonight in Calgary,

LOCAL BRIEFS

Mayor R. B. Wilson Friday said he was pleased with results of a traffic count on the rebuilt and extended Rose Street route which showed it was shouldering a significant portion of southbound Douglas Street traffic.

The traffic count analysis completed today showed up to 9,000 cars are using Rose Street in a 24-hour period. The counters were set up at Topaz and Finlayson.

The volume included 5,500 cars southbound.

"That's as much as a southbound lane on Douglas carries just north of Burnside," said a traffic official. "It's a pretty high volume."

Editor of the Herbiologist magazine and international lecturer, Rev. John Shenton of London, England, will address three public meetings here next week as follows: Tuesday, Newstead Hall, 734 Fort, at 7:45 p.m., topic, "The Day That Will Change the World"; Wednesday, Loughheed's Hall, 1406 Douglas, at 3 p.m., "The Divine Charter for Abundant Health and Healing"; and Wednesday at Loughheed's Hall, 7:45 p.m., "God's Answer to World Chaos."

"Homework" will be topic of a panel discussion at the Gordon Head Elementary PTA meeting, Tuesday at 8 p.m., in the school auditorium. Members of the panel will be Mr. B. Anders, Dr. W. W. Kendrick, Mrs. M. Bell and William Harris. John Smith, member of the University of Victoria faculty will be moderator.

Capital City Yacht Club will hold its annual meeting Nov. 20 in the Elk's Hall, 732 Cormorant Street, starting at 8 p.m. A buffet supper will precede the meeting at 5:30 p.m.

The YM-YWCA Outdoor So-Ed Club will meet outside the YMCA at 1:30 on Sunday for a tour of Francis Nature Park. On Tuesday at 7:30 the club will meet for a visit to Gonzales Observatory.

Persons between the ages of 18 and 40 wishing to join the club may contact the president, Edward Lee, at EV 4-7867.

Deputy provincial secretary, L. J. Wallace will be guest speaker at a citizenship ceremony next Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Law Courts when 31 new Canadians will receive their citizenship certificates.

Five new pictures have been added to the picture loan collection of the Greater Victoria Art Gallery.

Three new pictures by Maxwell Bates and two by Herbert Siebner will be available Monday night at 7:30 when the picture loan opens at the Gallery.

Oak Bay has called for tenders for a retaining wall to improve Cadboro Bay Road.

The wall is to be 140 feet long and 20 feet high, and will be built north of Cedar Hill Cross Road to replace a bank made obsolete by road widening.

The Oak Bay-provincial road improvement project is to be in two stages, with this year's portion scheduled to be done before Christmas as part of the municipality's winter work program.

A man convicted of his second impaired driving charge was sentenced to 14 days in jail when he appeared in Saanich magistrate's court Thursday.

Gordon T. Parsons, 836 Vernon, refused in an earlier appearance to admit his previous conviction. However the record was proven in court Thursday.

The history and the method of Javanese art of Batik will be given by Louise Page at the Saanich Peninsula Art Centre meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in Hotel Sidney.

Dockers Back SIU
CHICAGO (AP) — Longshoremen unloading newsprint from the Mondoc, a Canadian freighter, walked off the job Friday when three pickets from the Seafarers' International Union appeared on a bridge nearby.

MAYOR W. C. MOORE
not beaten yet

Welfare Plan Given Setback

COURTENAY—Mayor W. C. Moore has run into a stumbling block in the operation of his work-for-welfare scheme.

The federal government 60-per-cent share of social assistance grants has been deducted from welfare cheques for three Courtenay men.

The B.C. welfare department, which issues the cheques, informed the city the grants were deducted because the three men did city work.

Under a federal agreement with the province, a welfare recipient is ineligible for Ottawa's share of welfare money if the men are employed.

FOR UNEMPLOYED
Federal grants only apply for men who are unemployed. The city, however, received the provincial government's 40-per-cent share.

Mayor Moore admitted today his scheme to make men work for welfare has received a setback as the result of the deductions of federal welfare grants.

"But we are not defeated yet," he said.

He said he would take the matter up with Provincial Secretary Wesley Black Tuesday in Victoria.

The welfare issue was raised last July by Mayor Moore when he refused to sign welfare cheques in future for men unless they agreed to work out their money.

Mayor Moore contends the federal regulations are "both fantastic and stupid."

He contends jobless men should be made to work for welfare money.

V.I. ROUNDUP

Inquest Planned On Girl's Death

DUNCAN—An inquest to determine the cause of death of a 17-year-old Indian girl will be held as soon as an autopsy has been performed, RCMP said today.

But police said they suspected no foul play in connection with the death of Linda Nora Tommy who was found dead in a refrigerator in her home at the nearby-Koksilah reserve Friday morning.

They said the girl apparently had been in the refrigerator for about nine hours. All the trays had been removed and were lying nearby.

The refrigerator was in use in the house at the time. Mrs. Floyd Tommy, the girl's sister-in-law, found the body when she opened the refrigerator in the morning.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Clara Charlie, a member of the Cowichan Indian Band, was visiting in Seattle at the time.

A provincial order-in-council passed Friday approves a grant of $3,500 to the Comox Valley Kiwanis Village Society of Courtenay toward construction of a home for the aged.

NANAIMO—Rates for ferry service operated by the highways department between here and Gabriola Island are going down for all but emergency customers.

A provincial order-in-council signed in Victoria Friday approves a reduction in commuter fares to 15 trips for $2 from 10 for $1.50. The charge for cars is dropping to 50 cents from 60 for each nine feet and to 16 tickets for $5 from 10 for $4.50.

But special emergency trips by the ferry will cost $20 instead of $10.

DUNCAN—New slate of officers for the Duncan Kiwanis Club include: Muride Robertson, president; Ray Thom, vice-president; Bill Burak, second vice-president, and Bob Corney, treasurer.

Directors are Sam Keeble, Don Dingwall, Sam Koffski, Ron Minette, Lyle Reid, Hall Mackenzie and Lindsay Loutel. The new executive will be installed on Jan. 11.

New Air Service

OSLO (Reuters)—The Scandinavian Airlines System today opened a twice-weekly air service between Copenhagen and Los Angeles via Montreal with DC-8 aircraft. It is the first air service between Scandinavia and Canada for years.

SALT SPRING NOTES

Property Sales Total $750,000

By ELSIE WORTHINGTON
GANGES—Real estate sales and home construction continue active on Salt Spring Island.

Property transactions totaling $750,000 have been recorded by Ganges provincial assessor's office since Jan. 1 of this year. Reports indicate that local construction firms have orders in hand which will provide work for at least a year ahead. A federal winter works grant is expected to add further impetus to the local building scene.

Mrs. W. D. Stephen, Ganges Hill, is the proud owner of a cattleya orchid with four six-inch blooms, brought to flowering stage in her living room for the third successive year.

The 36-hole handicap Schenker Cup competition at the local golf course was won by Archie McCowan with a score of 141, and followed by Jack Scott with 144 strokes. W. M. Mouat and Doug Parsons were close contenders.

Two Holsteins owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harkema of Fernwood Farms topped the list of Van-Isle (South) Producers. Records checked over a 305-day period showed six-year-old Walsholme Carnation Ida-Betty and four-year-old Saanich Nanette Ideal gave 19,344 pounds milk and 645 pounds butterfat and 15,102 pounds milk, 535 pounds fat, respectively. Nancy, four-year-old Holstein owned by Roger Hughes, Fulford, was also among the top producers.

Centennial Pageant Ends Observance

Centennial United's 77th anniversary services will conclude Sunday.

A pageant, "The Altar and the Fireside," will be presented Sunday morning with every department taking part. It commences with a bride and groom before the altar, moves to the establishment of a Christian home and the church's responsibility in the religious life of the children, and reaches its climax in a reception service for youth.

The evening service features "The Witnesses."

HOW to apply God's healing power to solve problems of everyday living will be the topic of a public lecture by Paul Stark Seeley of Portland in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Charles and Pandora Avenue, Thursday. Mr. Seeley has been prominent in the Christian Science movement for many years and has lectured all over the world. He has been president of the mother church in Boston and is a graduate of Harvard Law School.

FEATURED soloist in Crusade for Christ to be held in Central Junior High School, Nov. 10-17, will be Jimmie McDonald, outstanding baritone and recording artist. He has been soloist with many crusades across Canada conducted by evangelist E. Barry Moore of Crusade Evangelism of Canada. Mr. Moore will lead the Victoria crusade.

The Joy Of Good Living

I recall my mother singing this song as she did her housework, and it seemed to lighten her task:

Love's on the highway, love's on the byway,
Love's on the meadow, and love's on the mart,
And down every byway, where I've taken my way,
I've met love a smitten, for love's in my heart.

Corporate Profits Set High

NEW YORK (AP)—A tide of rosy third quarter corporate profit reports rolled across the business scene of the United States this week.

By one reckoning, earnings of more than 500 large corporations ran 15 per cent ahead of the 1962 September quarter, and stamped 1963 as a record high year—barring a cataclysmic reversal in the final two months.

Earnings were estimated at an annual rate of about $26,400,000,000 in the July-September period, well above the full-year record of $24,600,000,000 set in 1962.

Major contributions to the up-trend came from the steel industry, a weak sister last year, and from the automobile, airlines, chemical, electric-electronics groups and several others.

General Motors Corp., continuing to set a blazing pace, posted an historic earnings high for the first nine months with profits topping $1,000,000,000. However, Ford Motor Co. faltered a little.

The earnings surge had many ramifications, including important ones in Washington, where tax-cut and budget struggles inched along.

CUTS DEFICIT
Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon told the House of Representatives ways and means committee that healthy business profit helped swell federal tax collections and shrink budgetary deficit prospects.

Even so, the treasury official pleaded for a $6,000,000,000 increase in the U.S. national debt limit to $315,000,000,000 to accommodate seasonal fluctuations.

Dillon looked for expansion of the economy in the first half of 1964 whether taxes are cut or not, but said reductions would accelerate the rate.

A note of dissent to widespread optimism about future business prospects was struck by department and variety store proprietors. Polled by a trade group, less than half looked for better Christmas season sales this year than last.

The pessimists blamed this year's five fewer shopping days between the U.S. Thanksgiving holiday, Nov. 21, and Christmas, and an unseasonably warm autumn.

The booming auto industry had its busiest week since mid-1955 and produced nearly 184,000 cars. Thirty-one of 45 auto assembly plants worked Saturday overtime.

'Everyone's Finally Take Notice'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Popular opinion has finally been shaped into a demand for improved industrial relations, says George Wilkinson of Vancouver, vice-president of Marwell Construction Limited.

The federal government has been able to go ahead with trusteeship over maritime unions—an unprecedented step—because the "everyones" have made the Great Lakes problem their business, Mr. Wilkinson said.

Speaking Friday to the Vancouver Electric Club, he continued: "Consider the stinging, bitter rebuke of Mr. Justice Norris who...lashed the apathy of the Canadian public by saying in effect—'Good Lord, how long are the people of Canada going to sit idly by and tolerate this tragic situation?'"

"It is worthy of note that some 'Everyones' in the U.S. are sitting up and taking notice of the Canadian government attitude."

"While many sources are decrying trusteeship—and a worsening of Canada-U.S. relations as a result—there seems to be a growing sentiment expressed by editorials in many U.S. newspapers that the U.S. government might do well to follow Justice Norris' and the Canadian government's courageous leadership."

BORN OF NECESSITY
Unions were born of necessity and have become an integral and essential part of the economy, Mr. Wilkinson said. But it was not organized labor that was solely responsible for all the good legislation in the statute books.

"The fact is that everyone was responsible."

They just got tired of watching big bad management kicking the employees and the unions around and figured working people should get a better deal."

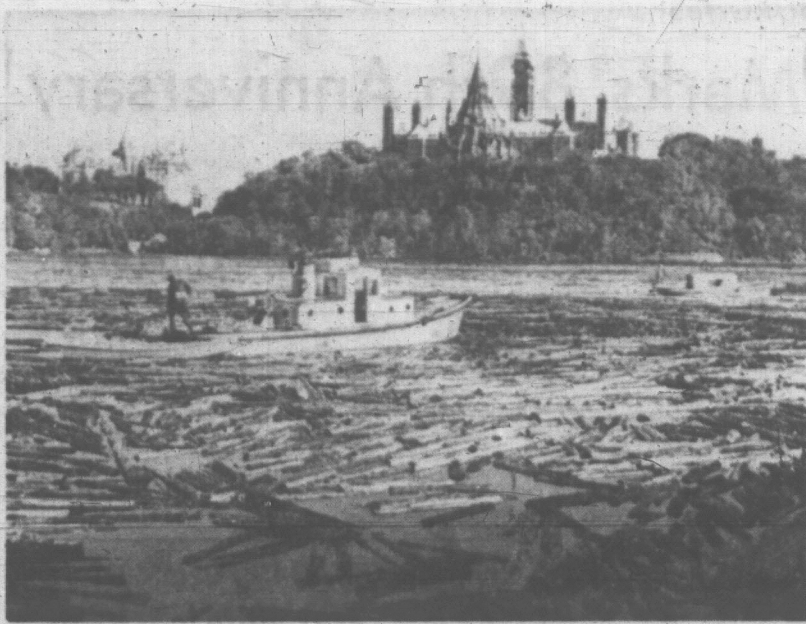

Management, in turn, is not laying enough emphasis on handicrafts and the basic trades...the only conclusion is that we want all chiefs and no Indians."

DIVIDENDS
Power Corp. of Canada, common 7% convertible Dec. 31, record Dec. 31, 1963 (previously paid 4% cents).

Consolidated Western Petroleum, common 5% convertible Nov. 30, record Oct. 31, 1963 (previously paid 4% cents).

Seaboard Lumber, common 4% convertible Dec. 31, record Nov. 30, 1963 (previously paid 3% cents).

Canada Southern, preferred 8.25% convertible Jan. 1, record Dec. 31, 1963 (previously paid 7% cents).

TUGBOATS MANOEUVRE pulpwood logs in Ottawa River with Parliament Buildings providing backdrop. Harvested in forests from B.C. to Newfoundland the crop increases steadily, and for 1963 will total some 16 million cords. Pulp and paper industry is Canada's leading producer and exporter. It provides more than one-sixth of the world's total pulp and paper requirements.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Economic Co-Operation With Japan to Increase

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Much greater activity in the field of joint ventures and economic co-operation between Japan and Canada are foreseen by Shunichi Azuma, executive director of the Japan Trade Centre in Toronto, who paid his first visit to Toronto this week.

Right now Japanese participation in mining ventures in B.C. is responsible for about 2,400 jobs in that industry with great activity in copper mining but also substantially in iron ore, nickel and coal. But Mr. Azuma believes this is only a beginning and that future expansion of Japanese participation in Canada will come in the field of secondary industry.

The Japanese trade official pointed out that with high-speed marine transportation between B.C. and Japan, this province will become the hub of Japanese-Canadian economic relations.

He also made it clear that Japan is concerned with expanding Japanese sales in Canada, particularly in the fields of production machinery, construction equipment and other heavy goods.

Coincidental with Mr. Azuma's visit to Toronto, it was announced that a contract for increased deliveries of Alberta and B.C. coking coal to Japanese steel mills is expected to be signed within the next few days.

Involved in the negotiations are Coleman Collieries of Alberta and Crownstee Pass Coal Co. Ltd. of Fernie.

It is believed that the new contract will be somewhat larger than the current 600,000-ton yearly deal which runs through March 31 next year and it will probably be a three-year contract.

The Japanese market is expected to play a part in development plans of another big B.C. copper property, Grandeur Mines Ltd., north of Stewart.

Final draft of the Grandeur feasibility report is now completed and is expected to be forwarded to shareholders shortly. It will give, in the words of president John Dryburgh, "our best opinion as to the size, routes and all the rest of it."

An idea of the capital requirements of the program, but not methods of financing, will also be included in the report.

First public offering of shares of Rainbow Mines Ltd., which has a copper-silver prospect on Pooley Island, is expected next week.

The company is offering 200,000 shares at 50 cents per share. Authorized capital is 3,000,000 shares of no par value of which 1,153,716 are issued and held in escrow. Promoters of the company received 750,000 in consideration of the Pooley Island property and 403,716 were sold to net the treasury $33,643.

Rainbow Mines has laid out a minimum program of six holes to test part of the well-defined zone containing good grade copper-silver mineralization, according to president William Howden of Vancouver. Consulting engineer J. P. Elwell, in an August report, stated assays from one sample in a trench ran 2.8 ounces silver and 2.9 per cent copper.

The company now has 36 claims on the island which is in Griffin Passage about 35 miles northwest of Ocean Falls.

A report from Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. Ltd. states that raising has opened a repetition of the high-grade placerment ore body discovered recently at the 2,850-foot level with a full four-foot face. The report states this second discovery is most encouraging as it is an "up dip." The original discovery on the 2,850 level is said to be as good as any replacement zone found in the 30-year history of the mine with 182 feet of vein having an average width of two feet and grading between one and five ounces gold.

Where to now? was the question being asked by observers at the end of the week as Canadian stock market continued to mark time.

Monday through Thursday all sections of the Toronto market backtracked steadily, although there was a brief flurry of excitement near the close Thursday.

Shareholders Vote Windup of B.C. Power

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 100 shareholders crowded into a hotel room here Friday and agreed to finally liquidate what was left of one of Canada's largest private utility holding companies.

They voted to petition the provincial supreme court to wind up the affairs of British Columbia Power Corporation, holding company of B.C. Electric Company.

BCE, expropriated in a surprise move by the Social Credit government in 1961, had run a complex power generating and distribution system, public transit systems and even a railroad.

All now are incorporated in the government-owned B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, which recently reached a final out-of-court settlement following lengthy court actions over price to be paid shareholders for BCE assets.

Final rites for the company took barely an hour. Shareholders then returned home to wait for final settlement cheques.

Distribution of the estimated $25.38 for each of the 4,700,000 outstanding common shares is expected to begin next month.

In two resolutions that were virtually unopposed, shareholders agreed to petition the court to wind up the affairs of B.C. Power and agreed to appoint a liquidator.

Albernis Fifth On Income List

You may feel, come the Ides of March, that you're paying the highest income tax in Canada.

But as you fill out the forms next spring, you can console yourself with the thought that income taxes in 21 other Canadian cities are — on the average — higher.

And in fact, some of your high tax-paying compatriots live as close as Port Alberni and Nanaimo.

Victoria's average annual income, the revenue department revealed today, was $4,396 in 1961, the most recent year for which figures are available.

Nanaimo's was $4,516, and Alberni-Port Alberni's was $4,697, to make the twin cities the most highly paid area in B.C.

VANCOUVER NEXT

Vancouver-West Vancouver, next highest, had $4,650 as its annual average.

Other nearby cities with incomes higher than Victoria's were New Westminster, $4,435, and Prince George, $4,409.

Almost all the 21 cities with higher incomes were industrialized centres, leaving Victoria one of the highest paid residential cities in Canada.

Here are Canada's 64 highest paid cities, in order:

1. Sarnia $5,087; 2. Sault Ste. Marie $4,916; 3. Sudbury-Copper Cliff $4,782; 4. Ottawa $4,726; 5. Alberni - Port Alberni $4,697; 6. Vancouver-West Vancouver $4,650; 7. Toronto $4,646; 8. Hamilton $4,643; 9. Calgary $4,625; 10. Oshawa $4,619;
11. St. Catharines $4,590; 12. Windsor $4,577; 13. Montreal $4,550; 14. Shawinigan $4,544; 15. Nanaimo $4,516; 16. Peterborough $4,471; 17. Chicoutimi $4,445; 18. Niagara Falls $4,444; 19. New Westminster $4,435; 20. Prince George $4,409; 21. Brockville $4,405; 22. Victoria $4,396; 23. Welland $4,382; Belleville $4,382 (tied); 25. Edmonton $4,352; 26. North Bay $4,349; 27. Port William-Port Arthur $4,343; 28. Woodstock $4,308; 29. Chatham $4,307; 30. Brampton $4,301;

DOCTORS LEAD IN EARNINGS

OTTAWA (CP) — Medical doctors were Canada's highest income earners in 1961, with average earnings of $17,000.

There were more big-money earners in 1961 than ever before: 602 Canadians topped $100,000 in the year, compared with 459 in 1960.

The revenue department gave Canadians these glimpses into the financial affairs of their fellow taxpayers Friday in its annual green book of taxation statistics.

The figures on average incomes covered only persons earning enough to pay income taxes, the federal government's biggest source of revenue.

Altogether, a total 4,507,767 taxpayers in 1961 had average incomes of $4,348 and paid an average tax of $424. This compared with average incomes of $4,232 and average taxes of $406 in 1960.

TOP LIST AGAIN

It was the fourth straight year that doctors and surgeons ranked as the highest income class. Lawyers and notaries, third in 1960, moved up to second place with average incomes of $15,718, followed by engineers and architects at an average $14,692.

After doctors, lawyers and engineers, the report ranked dentists as the fourth highest income-earning group with average earnings of $12,337. Accountants were fifth at $11,267.

Average 1961 incomes of other occupational investors $6,320, entertainers and artists $5,862; salesmen $5,812, and business proprietors $5,278.

EMPLOYEES AVERAGE $4,132

The largest group of taxpayers—3,947,599 persons listed as "employees"—had average incomes of $4,132. Taxpaying farmers averaged $4,355 and fishermen $4,289.

Top group among employees were teachers and professors at an average $4,570, followed by federal government employees at $4,390, municipal government employees at $4,272 and employees of business enterprises at $4,183.

Council Passes Hall Plans

City council Friday approved working drawings for the City Hall renovation and addition projects and ordered a call for tenders.

Only Ald. M. H. Mooney—maintaining council should consider construction of a completely new City Hall building—did not vote approval. However, because he voted neither for nor against, the decision will be recorded as without dissent.

Council was told the new two-storey addition, where administrative offices, aldermen's quarters and the council chamber will be located, would provide prestige accommodation.

The old City Hall building where most of the departmental staffs will be located, would provide good office accommodation, architect Robert Siddall said.

He added the old hall would have new floors, walls and partitions, lowered ceiling, improved ventilation and heating, replaced wiring and plumbing and a resurfaced roof.

After studying the working drawings, council received and filed 12 answers made by city manager Dennis Young to questions formally posed by Ald. Mooney at last week's regular meeting expressing doubts about the civic precinct project.

Ald. Mooney tried but failed to have the questions and replies referred to the civic precinct committee "for their guidance."

His motion was rejected after committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone and Mayor R. B. Wilson insisted that all of the points raised by Ald. Mooney already had been considered.

But Ald. Toone hastened to say the committee was not afraid of questions and he urged all aldermen to ask questions about the centennial square whenever they wanted answers.

Among Ald. Mooney's questions had been a suggestion that the renovated City Hall was expected to have a life-span of only 25 years, "so why do we not plan renovations that will last 100 years?"

Mr. Young's answer was that the renovation was designed to "preserve an historic landmark of architectural value" and provide modernized office accommodation at half the cost of a new building.

"There is no suggestion that the useful life of the renovated building is to be limited to 25 years and we have been assured that this is to be a permanent structure capable of serving the city for as long as is felt necessary," he said.

Ald. Mooney also asked if the roof was in such bad repair, the last time it was fixed, that workmen had to cement canvas over it to hold nails.

"Over the years extensive repairs have been found necessary to various areas of the roof and . . . it is expected that an entirely sound and satisfactory roof surface will result from the renovation work," was Mr. Young's reply.

The final question was actually a statement that former mayor Percy Scurrell and council of the day had agreed the old City Hall had to be torn down and a completely new building erected.

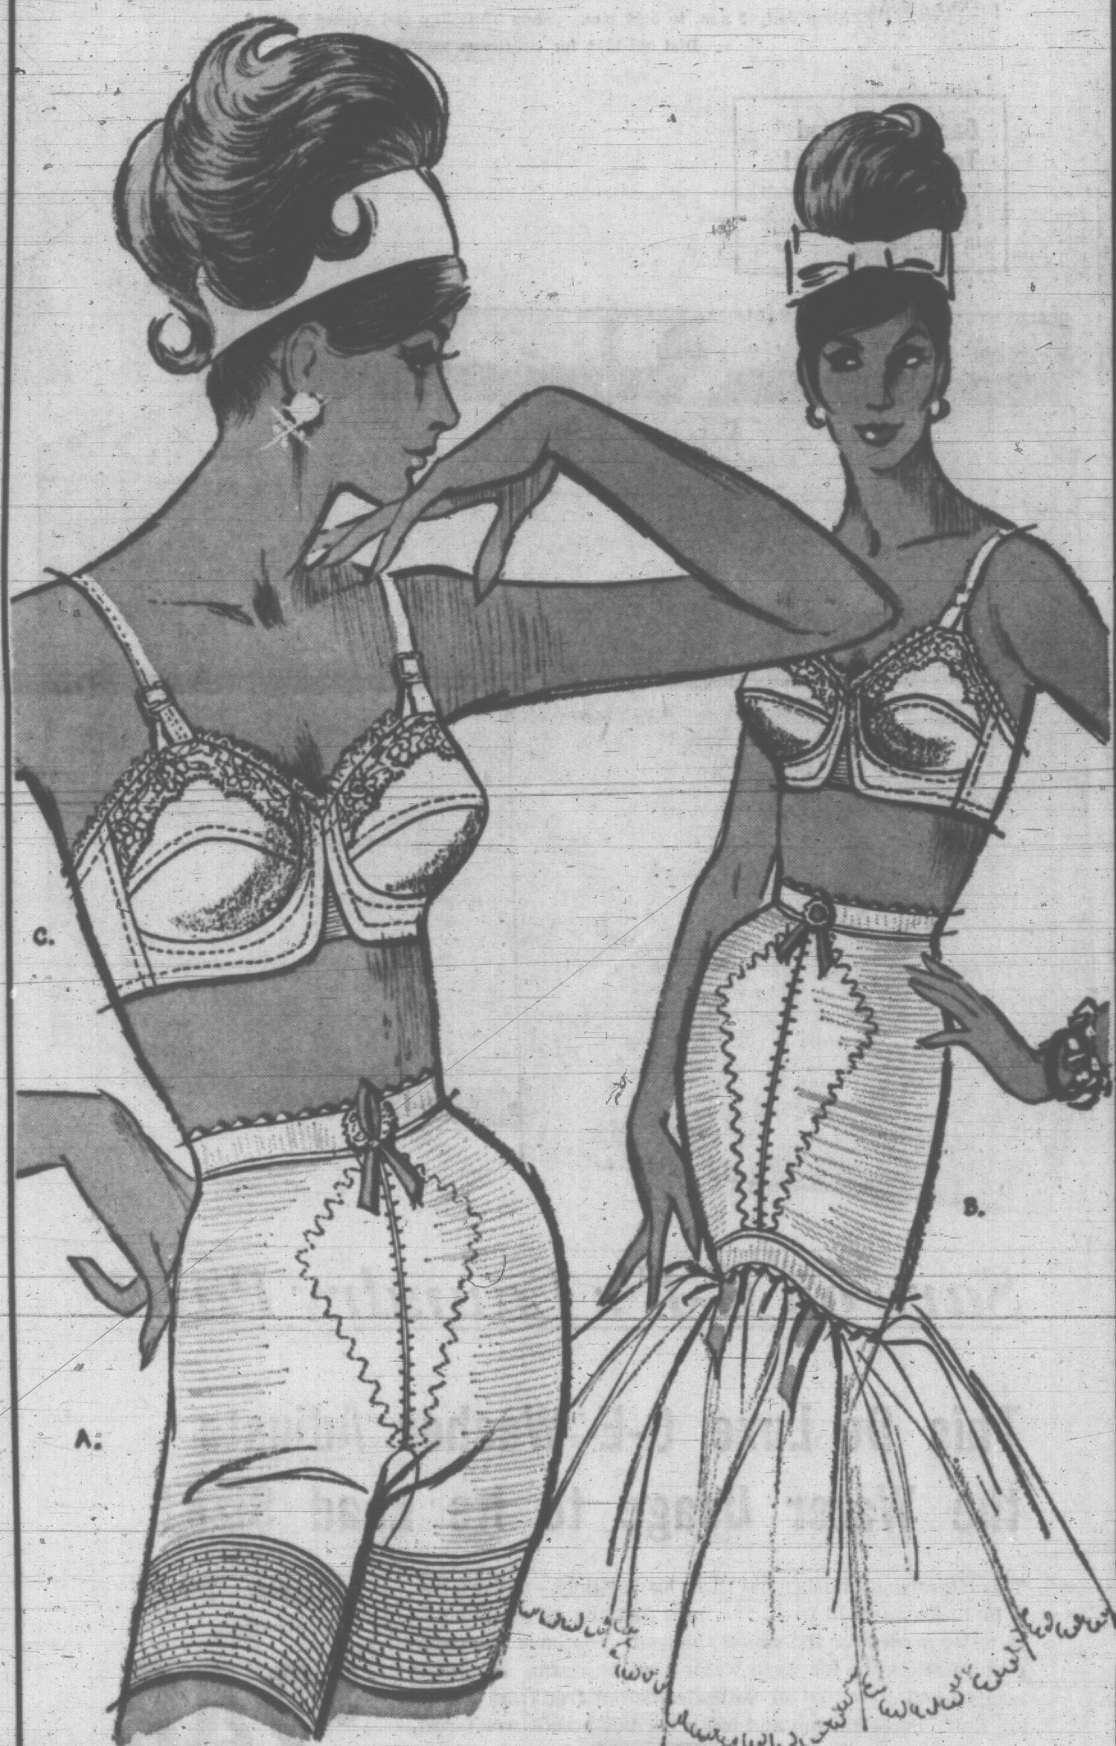

Mr. Young replied that many different proposals were favored by various councils in the past but no positive actions to implement any proposal had been taken.

He said the old City Hall's historic associations, the economy of renovating as opposed to new construction, and the other buildings in the precinct concept were vital.

Strachan Wants Committee To Advise on Hospital Care

By FRANK RUTTER
Appointment of a special advisory committee on hospital care in B.C. is advocated by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

The committee would be composed of representatives from

Arthur Mayse

Backward looking is a sport I rarely indulge in. Much better to follow wise Odysseus' example—stop the ears against those voices from the siren rocks of the past, and sail on toward the ever-shifting land-fall of the future.

Anyway, the past wasn't all that good. If I'd tried any such fatmouth, windy lead paragraph when I was a cub reporter, the city editor would have destroyed it with one soft-lead slash of a copy pencil.

Then he'd have suggested I sail the hell off and get him some hard news.

This I'd have done, pausing for nickel coffee and a yeast doughnut at a nearby greasy spoon run by a character we knew, among ourselves, as "Bottlenose."

We didn't pay for the coffee, of course. On salaries of 12 or 15 bucks a week, young reporters rarely paid for anything.

Bottlenose, a good guy, played along with us. Week in, month out, we signed our chits for Bottlenose to spike, secure in the knowledge that no day of reckoning would arrive.

It did, though. A smarty-pants newshen, now a journalist of national repute, let our host's nickname slip off her tongue within his hearing.

Next morning, first edition put to bed, our little band mooched into Bottlenose's joint.

No coffee. No doughnut. Just a wounded stare, and for each penniless reporter, a manila envelope bulging with half a year's IOUs.

In spite of such reverses, life was easy when looking back, to delude myself that life was a ball.

In actual fact, about all we had was youth, and a pride that made us even more clamorous than doctors and policemen. Except to raid a girl from the lowlands, or as an aid to getting a story, we were not inclined to fraternize with the citizenry.

Our uniform was the $20 hat and the dirty trenchcoat with upturned collar. We carried press badges as much like police potpies as the paper could get away with, but it was a point of honor never to flash them. The firemen at the four-alarm blaze and the detectives on the murder scene knew we were reporters.

To the few on the outside who won our confidence, we were loyal. If word reached our newsrooms that a politician who played fair with us was drunk in the wrong spot, we rounded him up and dried him out.

Our acquaintance did not exclude thieves and sporting girls. From one of these last, over coffee in Bottlenose's joint after he forgave us, I heard the most eloquent pitch for chastity ever to tingle my ears.

We also had our enemies, whom we dealt with in ways of our own. Slugging a reporter was held to be unwise, but more than one newsman stopped a set of knuckles. I knew a photographer who was expert at parrying a blow or busting a head with his heavy old Speed Graphic press camera.

Mostly, though, we worked. Our workday, Monday through Saturday, began at eight o'clock. If it lasted later than two the next morning, we were permitted to sign for a taxi home. But at eight, we were expected to be back on deck.

Three evening assignments a week was about average; five not unusual, with a Sunday-afternoon job tossed in for a makeweight. No overtime. That was something printers and pressmen got, not reporters.

Being young, we thrived on this inhumane treatment. Even when the last edition was away and we had no night assignments, we hung around the shop. Something might break, and anyway, the big, horse-shoe shaped news desk made an excellent crap table.

What happened, of course, was that we grew older. We married our girls. We learned that to feather a nest costs money, and began to beef about night assignments.

Some stayed on the papers. Others drifted to new fields. A few, like me, came back. It's a different game now, the changes all for the good. Only I do get a touch lonely for the bad old days.

Except for me, the only Times' hand who owns a trenchcoat is reporter Marge Gilroy.

Here is very clean, and she doesn't wear the collar up.

the B.C. medical, hospital and nurses' associations and the provincial government's Hospital Insurance Service.

It would be a continuous group.

"It would settle all problems that came up and give guidance all the time," Mr. Strachan said.

He got the idea from Claude Green, chairman of the board of King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan, he said.

Mr. Strachan said this was the only way to deal with such issues as the current inquiry on baby deaths.

This was triggered last week by Dr. R. E. Adams of St. Joseph's Hospital, who charged that too many babies are dying in B.C. hospitals and blamed insufficient staff on lack of government funds.

SIDE ISSUE

Mr. Strachan said this inquiry, being made by the deputy minister of hospital insurance, was really only "a side issue."

The main issue, he said, is the general standard of hospital care and a long record of crises and controversies over government aid.

He cited last year's trouble at Vernon, where a hospital was unable to meet its payroll; the resignation of hospital directors at Lillooet and the threat to close Vancouver General Hospital's outpatients' department for lack of funds.

Talks Asked In Dispute Over Garage

University District Ratepayers' Association today claimed "about 70" local residents have agreed to turn in their Standard Oil credit cards in a protest movement.

Mrs. Leah Brown, spokeswoman for the group opposing a new service station at University of Victoria gates, also announced a new attempt to win support of Oak Bay council.

She said the credit card boycott list includes members of her group as well as a number of people from other districts. She said the list grows daily.

And she added, "we have just asked council for an audience Monday night."

"There has been no response to our request. We have asked that a spokesman be allowed to address council while the meeting is open to the public."

NO COMMENT

She added that ratepayers group members "probably will fill the place."

Meanwhile in Vancouver, D. R. Baker, president of Standard Oil of B.C., refused to comment on the local uproar over the new service station.

Weekend Royalty

JUMPED RED LIGHT

Fleeing Driver Causes Accident

An 18-year-old university student who drove through a red light early this morning trying to escape police caused an accident which sent two persons to hospital.

In city magistrate's court later Peter Moore, of Duncan, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving, disobeying a police officer and going through a stop sign.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded him to Nov. 8 for probation report and sentence.

The magistrate asked him: "Do you realize how narrowly you came to killing these people? I don't really think you do."

"I don't know what is going to be done in this community about irresponsible driving such as this."

Constable John Rickerby testified he saw Moore drive through a stop sign at Quadra and Broughton about 1:15 this morning. Const. Rickerby said he shouted to Moore to pull over and stop.

Moore slowed his car and then, when the officer approached him, speeded up and drove off, going through a red light at Port and Quadra.

He hit a car driven by Brian Taylor, 21, of Campbell River, which was proceeding along Port. Moore's vehicle spun around in the intersection out of control and reversed over a curb and sidewalk before coming to a stop on a used car lot.

Taylor was admitted to St.

Joseph's Hospital with cuts over his eye and on his knee. He is reported in good condition. A passenger in his car, Frances Anderson, 20, of Campbell River, was discharged from hospital after treatment for knee cuts.

BLAMED PASSENGERS

Cons. Rickerby said Moore told him he didn't stop when shouted at because "they would not let me," indicating his passengers. A couple of seconds later Moore told the officer he didn't stop because "I was just scared."

Moore told the magistrate he was driving his father's car and is a first-year student at the University of Victoria. He said he had a conviction for speeding two years ago.

MONDAY MEETINGS

CITY SOCREDS ASK CURBS ON TOBACCO, LIQUOR ADS

Curtalement of tobacco and liquor advertising in British Columbia will be proposed at a Social Credit convention next week.

J. Donald Smith, Victoria MLA, today said this is one of several resolutions to be put forward by Victoria delegates.

The convention, at Royal Towers Motor Hotel, New Westminster, Friday and Saturday, will be asked to support a ban on advertising where it might affect B.C. youth.

He said some Victoria delegates believe that radio and TV advertising of these products should be relegated to evening hours. Mr. Smith said he did not believe Victoria delegates were unanimous in this, "but it is bound to get a good airing at the convention."

He said Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay will each send 25 voting delegates plus non-voting members to the two-day meeting.

About 500 people are expected from all B.C. points. The Women's Auxiliary to the Social Credit League meets Thursday at the same hotel. Young Social Crediters meet there Saturday.

National Leader Robert Thompson, Maurice Cote (Chicoutimi) and Alberta Provincial Secretary Ambrose Holowach are invited guests.

Penticton Youth Guilty Of Escape

A 15-year-old Penticton youth pleaded guilty in city magistrate's court this morning to escaping from Brannen Lake Boys' School Sept. 24.

James Dale Bailey also admitted stealing a car near Nanaimo shortly after he escaped from the school.

He was remanded until Nov. 8 for sentence on both charges by Magistrate William Ostler.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said the boy had an extensive police record as a juvenile. Bailey originally appeared in juvenile court on both charges. He was transferred to magistrate's court Friday.

USED OPEN DOOR

Mr. Birkett said Bailey walked out an open door at Brannen Lake about 8 p.m. Sept. 24 "when a guard's back was turned." He walked along the railroad tracks to Nanaimo where, early next morning, he stole a car and drove to Victoria.

Mr. Birkett said Bailey was arrested on Government Street after being seen driving the stolen car in the wrong direction around the Roundabout.

quiet at 6 p.m. Saturday. About 60 resolutions are due for consideration.

The provincial New Democrats convene in Burnaby the following weekend, Nov. 16-17, and the provincial Liberals at Vancouver Jan. 17-18.

292 SIGN PETITION

Action Sought On Creek

Doncaster area residents, 292 strong, called Friday for a showdown with city council on Bowker Creek.

They said it is a hazard to life, health and property, and they want it covered over and sealed underground.

They made their entreaty in a lengthy petition delivered to City Hall.

The petition was followed up today by an invitation by Doncaster Area Committee secretary C. M. Morrison. Through The Times he asked council to visit the creek.

He said his nine-person committee is ready to meet with council at any time to back the petition's demands.

"The first petition like this went to council 17 years ago," he said.

ONE DROWNING

Since then there have been floods, one drowning and numerous complaints of rats and property damage.

"One of our people has kept a scrap book of published complaints. It is a fat one," he said.

The creek winds generally southward from Saanich through east Victoria and into Oak Bay. It has been a constant irritation and hazard. A child was drowned there in 1947. About 10 years later a serious flood resulted.

HOMES DAMAGED

The water was so deep, reporters and policemen toured Edgeware Street in small boats and many homes were severely damaged.

In the petition the area residents say their problems would be solved by covering the creek for six blocks between Hillside and North Dairy Road.

They say in low water the creek is filled with stagnant pools of dormant water. In high water, there is two feet of water in neighborhood basements.

FENCES BROKEN

They say banks are so steep a child could not climb out and protective fences are broken and dilapidated. They say bank erosion is threatening power poles and private yards.

OLDEST WITH MOSTEST is Fred Baker, 80, Sidney-North Saanich United Appeal canvasser who has just gone $3 over area target of $2,400. With only 202 subscriptions received from 1,600 letters mailed, campaign's oldest canvasser expects big excess from remaining residents. Appeal now stands at $269,267. Target is $400,000.

Ask The Times

Q. Did Warren Spahn ever win the Purple Heart? What is his lifetime strikeout total? G.C.

A. Warren Spahn, pitcher for Milwaukee Braves baseball team, was awarded the Purple Heart for being wounded in action in Germany in 1944. During his career he has struck out 2,415 major league batters.

Q. Will you please let me know when Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver was opened? F. W.

A. July 11, 1959.

TOPICS of the DAY

There will be no letter carrier service or rural mail delivery on Remembrance Day, according to Victoria Post Office.

The lobby of the Post Office will be open Nov. 11 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and wickets will be staffed until noon.

Street letter box collections will be in the evening only.

Old Age Pensioners, Branch No. 5, will hold its general meeting in the Naval Veterans' Hall Wednesday.

The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m., for nomination and election of officers.

Weather for the weekend is more of the same—unsettled. Weatherman William Mackie said this morning that today's mild weather should give way to rain and wind tonight, with a wind warning in effect for waters near Victoria.

Gusts of 35 miles an hour should be expected from the southeast, with the wind shifting to the southwest Sunday morning and continuing about 35.

Rain should taper off Sunday, with occasional sunny periods in the afternoon—and then more rain towards Monday.

The Outdoor So-Ed Club of the YM-YWCA will meet Sunday afternoon at 1:30 outside the Y building for a trip to Francis Nature Park.

On Tuesday, it will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Y for a tour of the Victoria weather bureau.

Persons between 18 and 40 wishing to join should contact the president, Edward Lee, at EV 4-7967.

Some 325 members of 26 different churches will distribute 40,000 pieces of literature on the Greater Victoria Crusade for Christ to be held in Central Junior High School Nov. 10-17.

City police are investigating two break-ins that occurred overnight Friday.

The home of A. Szotak, 1148 Mason, was entered through an unlocked window and about $85 stolen. This occurred shortly before 9 p.m.

At Young and Banfield, 794 Fort, a window was broken to gain entry and four transistor radios, each worth $60, were stolen.

Esquimalt Council will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Municipal Hall.

NEW PRESIDENT of the Victoria Highland Games Association is piper Ian T. Duncan, 2506 Wootton Crescent. Other officers elected at the annual meeting this week were vice-president A. H. Bamford, secretary Mrs. Gaby G. Hebdon and treasurer W. H. Brown.

UTILITY PAYROLL REVEALED FOR FIRST TIME

Seven Hydro Executives in $20,000 Bracket

Seven top B.C. Hydro employees are paid more than $20,000 a year, according to records disclosed for the first time by the crown agency.

The Hydro payroll is detailed in a statement now required under B.C.'s Public Bodies Financial Information Act.

The total Hydro payroll is $34,538,800 for the financial year which ended last March 31.

The top paid employees are: Chief engineer John H. Steede, $27,500; Staff services manager John J. Carson, $25,625; Operations manager P. W. Barchard, $24,250;

Transportation manager Sig Sigmundson, $20,987;

Associate manager of engineering R. C. McMordie, $20,918;

Chief civil engineer F. A. Lazenby, $20,460;

Treasurer Thomas Chambers, $20,389;

Highest salaries of all go to the co-chairmen, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside and Dr. Gordon Shrum, $40,000 each.

Directors Einar Gunderson, W. C. Mearns and F. A. Lee, get $27,500.

The statement, 137 pages of details, shows Dr. Keenleyside had expenses totalling $4,173 and Dr. Shrum $7,019. Mr. Mearns' expenses totalled

$4,655; Mr. Lee spent $3,164 and Mr. Gunderson $2,926.

The statement lists all Hydro accounts of over $500.

Among them is an item of $278,888 for moving and commuting expenses involved in the big shift of Hydro personnel from Victoria to Vancouver.

The other accounts include $3,397,604 to Westcoast Transmission Co. and $8,662,284 to Portage Mountain Contractors, the group of companies working on the Peace River Power project.

More than $11,000,000 went to the provincial government in taxes and fees.

The telephone bill was $543,800.

Hydro had previously issued its detailed statement of financial operations, showing a profit for the year of $14,000,000.

Among the small accounts were such apparently odd items as $1,293 to the B.C. Lions Football Club, $1,200 to the B.C. Jockey Club and $1,000 to the Kay Armstrong School of Ballet.

A Hydro official explained that the football money was for program advertising, the Jockey Club was paid admission fees to Vancouver races provided in a special bus service to the public, and the dancing school got $1,000 for putting on a Christmas concert party which travelled around various B.C. centres for employees' children.

Realize $1,100

DUNCAN—A sum of $1,100 was realized at the sixth annual bargain market of Dogwoods Chapter, IODE, held in St. John's Hall recently. The money is earmarked for scholarships, one for a local high school graduate and another for a student at University of British Columbia, and for hospital furnishings to be placed in the proposed new Cowichan district hospital. Mrs. P. N. Gillingham was general convener, assisted by members of the chapter.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Lost 15 Pounds But Just Can't Continue to Lose

(The Question Box)
Q. "I have just lost 15 pounds. Now I am frantic because I have another 10 to lose and for the past week I have not lost one more pound. Believe me, I am truthful when I say that I have dieted just as faithfully and seriously this past week as I did before."
A. I believe you! This is a Lowman usual experience when losing quite a lot of weight. Sooner or later everyone comes to one of those discouraging standstills. So, keep up the calorie counting and you will soon begin to lose again.

Q. "I do not understand why some women can lose weight so easily while others have to diet and diet to lose a pound. Why is this?"
A. There are many reasons. Sometimes the woman who seems to have trouble losing weight is cheating on her diet in many small ways which she does not count. All these small additions count up to a big difference.

Metabolism is another factor. This is the energy required just to keep living, without any physical activity on our part. The woman who has a very low metabolism has more difficulty reducing. However this is true in only a very small percentage of cases.

Physical activity also plays a part because it requires energy and therefore burns up calories. As a woman grows older she is usually less active. She may give up sports and eat more rich food because she indulges in more social life. Her glandular system also slows down.

As my readers know I am publishing my Trick AND Treat Diet in my column this week. This gives you a loss of five pounds in seven days. Here are the menus for Saturday:

BREAKFAST
Six ounces tomato juice.
One poached egg on toast, with a little butter.
Coffee with one teaspoon sugar.

LUNCHEON
One cup vegetable soup (fat skimmed off top).
One medium hamburger (lean meat).
One-half hamburger bun.

DINNER
Three moderate slices of Canadian Bacon.
Three-fourths cup cauliflower, seasoned with dry mustard or marjoram.
Shredded lettuce with sprinkling of crumbled Roquefort cheese and two or three tablespoons tomato reducing dressing.
One-half cup jello with tablespoon whipped cream (cream should be made from non-fat, dry milk crystals).

That famous Empress smorgasbord . . .

We had a fleeting suspicion it was probably immoral to feel as comfortable and superbly well-fed as we did after dining on smorgasbord at the Empress last Thursday night . . . until we noticed the beaming faces of other diners and realized that they too were in that pleasant state of euphoria which comes from satisfying the inner man . . . or woman . . . with delectable fare . . . in gracious surroundings . . .

Chances are you know exactly what we're talking about . . . because the Empress's smorgasbord during the fall and winter months has become something of an institution in Victoria . . . a gay relaxing experience where you can take a party . . . dine en famille . . . or tete a tete . . . be sociable or exclusive as you please . . . For sheer eye appeal, you'd have to go a long way to find the equal of the Empress's smorgasbord spread . . . the big rectangle of tables literally groaning under the weight of gourmet dishes, just begging to be sampled . . . (between 50 and 60 different food items, if you're interested in statistics) . . . It's fun choosing your own . . . and there's deft, unobtrusive service to provide you with coffee and the like when you're ready for it . . . Remember, every Thursday is smorgasbord night at the Empress . . . and it's a good idea to phone for a reservation . . . Empress Hotel, 334-3111 or 385-7322.

A machine that diagnoses cars . . .

No one expects us women to know much about our car's innards . . . except for those few enterprising souls who have taken motor mechanic courses . . . but if we're smart we'll see to it that our cars are kept in tip top condition by someone who does know the score . . . especially now with winter in the offing . . . and speaking of winter, don't forget the changeover and antifreeze . . . What we especially want to tell you about is the terrific service you get at Pacific Chrysler . . . those men act as if they were well, dedicated—the word that springs to mind . . . They want you and your car to be safe . . . and it doesn't matter what make of car you drive, either . . . In line with this, they have a quite amazing piece of equipment called a Cathode Ray Machine . . . which, when hooked up to various vital points in your car, proceeds to tell . . . by means of dials, bells, lights, etc. . . exactly what is wrong, if anything . . . At the end of half an hour a report is handed to you telling you what needs to be done and what it will cost . . . You get this scientific check-up for only $2.95 . . . and we can't think of a better way of spending the money . . . phone for an appointment . . . Pacific Chrysler Products Ltd., 1961 Yates St., EV 6-3411.

Say it with candies . . .

We've been known to pick a fight with our Better Half for the express purpose of having a box of Welch's chocolates bestowed upon us as a peace offering . . . Sneaky thing to do, no doubt . . . but Welch's really are irresistible to anyone whose tooth even inclines to sweetness . . . They're fresher than fruit can be . . . made daily . . . and you don't need to be told that ingredients are of the best . . . because only real butter and pure cream can impart such subtle flavorings to this vast assortment of delectable chocolates and candies . . . (pretty close to 50 different varieties, we'd guess) . . . Did you know that Welch's ship their candy to Europe, all over Canada and to every state in the U.S. including Hawaii? . . . You simply indicate your choice of assortment, give name and address of recipient . . . and Welch's do the rest . . . Does this give you ideas for Christmas giving? . . . It so, put your orders in soon . . . matter of fact, orders for overseas should be on their way this week-end . . . but we've a hunch that if they're sent out in the next few days they'll still be in time to say "Merry Christmas" to a friend or a dear one overseas . . . bring them a taste of home . . . Welch's Ltd., 755 Fort St., 383-6422.

Handsome handbags . . .

It's no secret to anyone that accessories can make . . . or break . . . a costume . . . that an inexpensive dress can look fine given good accoutrements . . . and contrariwise . . . which is just a preamble to telling you that Wilson's have truly handsome purses and handbags . . . If you like a roomy bag, there's a wonderful one in cut velvet in tawny brown and bronze shades . . . almost like tapestry . . . black calf trim and red leather lining . . . While this bag is of Canadian manufacture, the good solid frame is Belgian . . . This is the sort of bag you can use any day and all day . . . with practically any outfit . . . and is well worth its price of $37.50 . . . Newest arrivals are the little fold-over clutch bags from England . . . in black, brown or red snakeskin . . . $17.50 . . . Nice for afternoon . . . as is the black lizard calf with dull gold trim at $10.50 . . . The same price will buy a Spanish bag in black pleated silk . . . small jet trim . . . exquisitely made and finished . . . And while you're in Wilson's looking at bags, do stop and see the costume jewellery . . . about which we'll tell you more when space permits . . . Ankle-length fur coats are being shown for evening.

More taste than money . . .

High styling and good looks are not necessarily expensive . . . If you know what's what . . . and are willing to spend time tracking them down . . . And you can dispense with even this when you shop at Miss Frith Fashions . . . because everything in the place has been chosen with excellent taste . . . is the last word in fashion . . . and realistically priced to fit budgets that don't run to original Dior and Balenciagas . . . or even copies of same . . . Right now they have a wide selection of charming party frocks . . . cocktail and formal . . . in short and long versions . . . Among the latter we particularly like a long evening gown-of-American Beauty satin . . . with interesting black detail and discreet jet trim . . . Short frocks in cut velvet . . . swishy chiffons . . . flecked taffetas . . . as well as versatile black crepes . . . come in sizes from 7 . . . 22 . . . including petites . . . and are priced as low as $19.98 . . . For more mundane occasions, there's a complete assortment of color co-ordinated slacks, skirts, and those well styled Dalkeith sweaters of finest quality English botany wool . . . which hold their shape wonderfully . . . and wash like a dream . . . Miss Frith Fashions, 1617 Douglas St., EV 8-4912.

Use small rugs over broadloom for the new look in floors.

To top it all . . .

The fashion show at the Art Gallery last Monday was a wonderful opportunity to see the magic of artistic hair styling . . . as practiced by the House of Glamour . . . and if you were there, you were probably just as impressed as we were with the ingenious use of switches and postiches to transform a daytime hairdo into a glamorous creation for evening . . . with the deft flick of a brush and addition of a jewel strategically placed . . . Danny Hajnal is a great believer in switches for special occasions . . . and his salon has every kind imaginable . . . from full wigs to little tufts of hair to add that extra something to one's own crowning of glory . . . These mostly come from Europe . . . are all human hair . . . and blend so perfectly with one's own that we defy anyone to distinguish the fake from the real . . . What you might do is make an appointment with the House of Glamour and then get them to show you how the basic hairstyle they create for you can be changed to suit the occasion with a wiglet or postiche . . . Greatest forward step in hairdressing since the invention of the permanent wave, we'd say! . . . House of Glamour, 658 View St., EV 6-6188.

A silver mink jacket has short cuffed sleeves, big satin bow in front.

A mecca for gift ideas . . .

This is the time of year when all our minds start turning to Christmas gift purchasing . . . and sometimes it takes a lot of brain-cudgeling to decide what to get for whom . . . We suggest that at this time a browse around Montague Bridgman's would be a rewarding experience . . . because they have such a wide variety of things . . . in a wide range of prices . . . things you'd probably never think of yourself . . . and new ones arriving practically every day . . . We like the Florentine trays . . . all gilded wood with delicate coloring and intricate patterns . . . They're round . . . come in three sizes . . . 12, 14 and 18 inches in diameter . . . and sell for $9.75, $12.50 and $17.50 respectively . . . just a nice size for serving drinks . . . and a perfect complement to beautiful crystal . . . If you happen to spot some nice ripe green or red peppers . . . cucumbers, carrots, cauliflower and corn on the cob . . . don't give way to temptation and pinch because they're plastic and the most realistic looking vegetables you've ever laid eyes on . . . Fun piled into a wooden bowl . . . and can be bought for $1 up . . . You'll be surprised at all the original items with under-$2 price tags, at . . . Montague Bridgman Ltd., 811 Government St., EV 8-0821.

In Step With Style

San Francisco Goes French For Festival

San Francisco, Calif.

In the past 10 days San Francisco has been celebrating a "Festival of France" and for me it has been like spending a week in Paris. The festival was the culmination of the thinking, planning and the work of many people. The merchants, those interested in international trade, civic officials, the militia, transportation companies, the French colony and the city's cultural leaders co-operated with representatives of the French government in San Francisco.

A hundred-foot replica of the Eiffel Tower, covered with red, white and blue rosettes, was erected in Union Square. Flag standards around the square carried the French flag and a policeman dressed in authentic Paris uniform, with cape fluttering in the breeze, answered questions in French or English.

Fashion aspect of the festival was not forgotten. I attended one showing where original designs by Givenchy, Balenciaga, Chanel and Christian Dior, were presented with co-ordinated foundation garments from a well-known manufacturer.

Lila A. Moren, the commentator, had just returned from Paris where she chose the coats, suits and dresses that would best give the coming season's silhouette.

SHOPPING GUIDE

A Little Thought Now Will Make You a Big Hit Later

By PENNY SAVER

You'll be able to give Santa stiff competition if, when shopping for friends, you keep in mind their favorite hobbies.

Even when searching under the Christmas tree, ardent gardeners are probably still dreaming of their favorite flower beds and rose plots. Pamper those dreams by packaging a rose clipper to such a friend. Clippers are six inches in length, light and easy to handle. Made in Switzerland, the blades are of the finest Swedish steel. And, to help the gardener get his or her pruning chores finished in jig time there's an extra ridge attached to the blade that pinches the rose stem at the same time.

You can make a gardener's dream come true with these clippers that sell at $2.95.

For that gal who has "itchy feet" and loves to travel, tuck in her Christmas stocking one of the inflatable clothes hangers that will keep her clothes looking as if their owner never travels without a personal maid!

Dainty flowered plastic cover is easily inflated by means of the attached valve—just as easily deflated when suitcase-packing time arrives. They're easy on the pocket book at 38 cents each.

What can you give the fishermen in your family and circle of friends? That's a cinch! Surprise them with a handy gadget to weigh and measure their prize catch.

Those that come packaged in a box are priced at $3.95 while, for an extra dollar, you can present your gift in a smart leather case. Fish can be measured up to 36 inches and weighed up to 28 pounds. The fisherman's family will also benefit—they'll be able to check those often-maligned statistics for themselves!

If your aim is to be Santa's personalized shopper this year, phone Penny at 382-3131. She'll help you head the popularity poll.

Two models posed, each time, on the podium, one in the correct foundation and the other in the completed costume.

There were 10 haute couture models from leading Paris houses of fashion in San Francisco during the festival and many shows took place in various parts of the city.

The stores were a joy to behold with French telephones on counters and French automobiles crowding main floors. Floor directories at the elevators were printed in French. There were French paintings on the walls and everyone was greeting you with "bon jour" and bidding you "au revoir."

DEAR ABBY . . .

The 'Drop-In' Problem Again!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Since most of our friends are very close, we've made it a habit to drop in on each other at any old time, and overlook the surroundings. As a result of this casual attitude, I'm afraid I have become a very poor hostess. The fact was realized when my doctor's wife called on me two days ago with a small gift for my new baby. Of all times for company to come! The weather was damp, so I kept all five children inside, and my living room was utter chaos. My daughter was ill, and I had pillows piled up at one end of the couch. The other end was piled high with clean laundry to be folded. The chairs were stacked with diapers to be folded. The carpet was out of sight under magazines, newspapers and toys. If I had been in the midst of straightening up the mess, it wouldn't have been so bad. But I was cutting out costumes for the children's Thanksgiving play as if I had nothing else to do. I was so embarrassed when this woman appeared at my door that I didn't even offer her a chair. I thanked her for the gift and also wrote her a thank-you note. Should I call and apologize? I can't forget how rude I must have appeared to her. I got up at 5 o'clock this morning worrying about what she must have thought of me. What should I do?

SQ ASHAMED.

DEAR ASHAMED: Here we go again! Your home is your place, and if you want to stack your laundry to the ceiling in your living room, it's your privilege. A caller who could have thrown you into such a tizzy is not "close" enough for a drop-in visit. She was thoughtless, not to have given you at least an hour's notice. Call her when your house is in order some afternoon and invite her for coffee, for All Occasions."

At the last moment Mrs. George R. Pearkes was stopped by a 'flu bug from attending the Trafalgar Ball, held by the Navy Officers' Association of Victoria in the Wardroom of HMCS Naden, Friday evening. But His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor attended the annual affair. Seen greeting him is Cmdr. R. Barrett, Port Alberni, associa-

Boy Choristers Sing at Wedding

Christ Church Cathedral boys' choir added to color of ceremony held at the high altar when Dawn Eleanor Shipton exchanged vows with Joseph Urban-Dohm Easingwood. Solist was Stanley Martin and the organist, Richard Proudman.

Pink chrysanthemums were at the altar and pink dahlias flanked the chancel steps. Pews were marked with pink orchids, edged with white satin ribbons.

Dean Brian Whitlow officiated at the service which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Shipton, 4119 Elwood Avenue, and the son of Mrs. A. Easingwood, 2266 Tinto Street, and the late A. E. Easingwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor-length gown of white satin brocade, slightly en-train. Tiny self roses were tucked in the folds of the bouffant hipline. A bustle bodice featured a V panel and lily point sleeves. A bouffant chapel-length veil of English silk illusion net misted from a coronet of white organza roses. Only jewelry was a culture pearl pendant, gift of the groom. For "something old" she carried her great-grandmother's handkerchief. Pink cymbidium orchids and white stephanotis topped her white prayer book, also a gift of the groom.

Exquisite self roses enhanced the ballerina-length gown of royal blue peau de soie worn by matron of honor, Mrs. L. Caviness and bridesmaids, Miss Jo-Anne Halfhide, cousin of the bride; Miss Lynn Shipton, the bride's sister and Miss Lynn Aikenhead, the groom's niece.

Matron of honor's headpiece was a chignon, band-skirted with a tiny veil. Her bouquet was pink roses and carnations. Tiny pill box hats were worn by the other attendants. Ivy edged their bouquets of smoky pink carnations. All wore single strands of culture pearls, gifts from the bride. Seward Easingwood was best man for his brother and ushering guests were Murray Dale, James Yakabuski and Nevin Gilmer.

R. O. Stewart proposed the toast to his niece's happiness at the reception in Olde England Inn. Tiny roses and chrysanthemums completed decorations.

Leaving on a honeymoon motoring trip to Carmel, Calif., the bride wore a natural silk jacket dress in cherry red shade, an imported hat and black accessories. Her mink stole was a gift of the groom, and her corsage was Johanna Hill roses.

Wed Today At Oak Bay

St. Mary's Anglican Church, Oak Bay, was decorated with white chrysanthemums for the marriage of Margaret Holland Longridge and Harold Edward Sankinson which took place this afternoon.

Canon Hywel J. Jones officiated and organ music was played by Charles Palmer.

Parents of the principals are Lt.-Col. Robert B. Longridge and Mrs. Longridge, 1903 Hampshire Road, and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Sankinson of La Fleche, Saskatchewan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an afternoon-length gown of white brocade with matching jacket, styled with elbow-length sleeves and portrait neckline. Her tiny hat was feathered. For "something old and borrowed" she chose a paste pendant which her mother had worn at her own wedding. Roses, shaded from golden pink to off-white were in her bouquet.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Mary Longridge, and the groom's sister, Miss Phyllis Sankinson. Former was gowned in blue and Miss Sankinson, gold.

E. Mitchell, Ladysmith, was best man and ushers were Dr. D. B. Gaddes and N. V. Phillips.

J. Donald, Kelowna, the bride's cousin, proposed a toast to her happiness at a reception held in the Victoria Avenue home of Dr. and Mrs. Gaddes. Mrs. Ralph Chetwynd and Mrs. D. Paterson presided at the refreshment table.

As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a red wool suit with scarf trim and black accessories. Newlyweds will make their home near La Fleche.

BE SMART—

Remember when you bought that patent leather hat a few seasons back? Did it happen to be a slouch? If so, nothing sheds rain as lovely! Or is as smart doing same. Furthermore, the rain can't hurt it... an application of patent leather cream, or plain old vaseline, puts it back in the running again.

Dotograph for Junior Readers

It being Halloween, Snoozer the Pup decided to go out and scare up an old friend. He did just that, too, as can be discovered by adding the following lines to the diagram at right: Begin at dot 1, draw to dot 2, then to dot 3, etc., until you have touched at all of the numbered dots. Where two numbers are beside one dot, use dot for both.

IT'S OVER YOUR HEAD

It is possible for a person with perfectly normal hearing to be deceived by sounds that literally "go over his head." You can prove this to yourself with the following stunt: Blindfold a person and then make a clicking noise in various positions around his head. This may be readily done by taking a couple of pennies, and inserting a finger between them, while with the thumb and finger of the other hand they are pressed together. Every time the finger is withdrawn the pennies come together, and make a clicking noise. The blindfolded person cannot always tell where the clicking noise originates. He is generally deceived when the pennies are in particular positions, and if the performer knows these positions, he can thoroughly confuse his "victim."

IT'S YOUR MOVE

By Millard Hopper
Longtime Checker Star
A man named Jack, playing the Black in this situation, blacked-out. Jack seemed to be doing well until White "boxed" him up. You could enjoy playing around with this Jack-in-the-box puzzle. White had the first move.

OYSTER MULTIPLICATION

Let us suppose that oysters multiply so fast that they double in volume every 24 hours. With that much understood, let us further suppose that 10 oysters in an empty vessel at the bottom of the sea double in volume day after day until at the end of 40 days the vessel is full. At that rate of progress how long did it take to half fill the vessel?

MATCH THE MOOD?

- Colors are often associated with moods or feelings. How quickly can you match hues and "views" suggested below?
1. Red - Cowardice
  2. Blue - Jealousy
  3. Green - Resplendence
  4. Yellow - Anger
  5. Gold - Depression

Dear Henry:
During the summer I was employed at a gas station. My boss seemed OK at the beginning but after he turned out to be a real Simon Legree.
For a very small wage he kept me busy every second of every hour and gave me only 15 minutes for lunch. The thought that kept me going through all this was the thought of writing him a rude letter when I start school. Do you think I should tell Scrooge what I think of him.
DAVID J.
Dear David J.:
The thought that really kept you was the very small salary you were getting. Why didn't you just quit? Because there were no other jobs and you needed money. Next year you may be in the same predicament and a rude letter is not a recommendation.
HENRY.
Dear Henry:
Why do we have to take Shakespeare? He doesn't even write proper English and I never know what he is talking about.
CRITIC.
Dear Critic:
Oh, why doth thou frown?
On literature's crown.
Beauty is in Willie's text.
Comedy, drama, as well as sex!
Willie and English
Are as much a match
As, "Hip, dad-eo!"
Where's the scratch?"
HENRY.
Dear Henry:
I am only in Grade 8, but I like school. I want to know which university you think is best. Which university will give me the most?
SCHOLAR.
Dear Scholar:
If you are smart and work hard Yale, Harvard, McGill, Stanford or Little Bend will give you as much as any other knowledge college!
HENRY.
Dear Henry:
I have recently broken my relationship with my girl friend, whom I have accused of having too many "friends." We had been going together for almost six months before this happened.
I like her very much but I don't trust her. I have asked her out many times but she always finds an excuse. Last Friday (when she told me she was doing her homework) I saw her skating with some friends (boys) and she had told me she didn't like skating.
However, I am anxious to see her again. Could you please mend our "puppy love."
HEARTBROKEN.
Dear Heartbroken:
The girl at the other end of your "puppy love" is just a sly fox. I think she is picking you up every time there is a lull in business.
Show that you are under your own management and unless she makes a steady favorable change of course forget her. Look around for a girl who is more faithful and considerate of your feelings.

Which Birds of a Feather?

Pet shop owner C. M. Moulit has received a call for a pair of rare phroodile birds. But the caller has specified that he wants two birds that are exactly alike. Moulit's Phroodile bird supply is down to eight birds caged as above. Can he meet the caller's demands? That is to say, is there a pair of exact duplicates among the birds shown?

CATCH TO THIS ONE

Ask someone to write down in figures ten thousand ten hundred and ten. Chances are he will write 10, then stop to think hard before proceeding and wind up, confused. The number should, of course, be written as 11,010. Try it on several persons and see how many react as described.

Dogs to Join City Police

A bark and bite will be added to the long arm of the law in Victoria next year.

That seems sure because of Chief J. F. Gregory's conviction that dogs will be useful to

U.S. Ships Drop Rate

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the American Maritime Association confirmed this week reports that a group of American-flag tramp shipowners have dropped by $5 a ton their proposed freight rate on U.S. wheat movements to the Soviet Union.

his department. He was pleased with the "absolutely successful" results when a trained dog and handler were first used by the department during a current three-month experiment.

That incident took place Oct. 19 when police were stymied in efforts to trace the hiding place of a cache of drugs in some bush outside Victoria following a theft from a city pharmacy.

"The dog and handler were brought in and within a matter of minutes the cache was unearthed and is now being used as evidence in a case," said the chief.

"I'm convinced that dogs have a very important part to play in crime detection and prevention as well as in finding lost persons and articles," he said.

His strong feelings point directly at a recommendation that dogs become a permanent feature in police work when the trial period is finished.

But which of three courses will be chosen for the recommendation is still to be decided:

Establish a canine patrol within the police department and train officers as handlers, contract for private dogs and handlers on a flat annual fee basis; or contract for the outside service on a usage basis.

J. F. GREGORY
... shows ignorance

Chief of Police Doesn't Like 'Cops'

Police Chief J. F. Gregory is again the use of the word "cop".

He said Friday that only a cop hater—oops—a police hater would use such a term.

This week the chief of Saskatoon's police force, J. G. Kettles, also criticized references to police as cops. He said it is an insult.

Chief Gregory said anyone who uses the word only shows their own rudeness and ignorance.

How did police even get that name anyway? Said Chief Gregory: "I think it is made up of the first initials of 'chief of police'."

Space Sweethearts To Be Wed Sunday

MOSCOW (UPI)—Cosmonette Valentina Tereshkova and her sweetheart in space, Andrian Nikolayev, will be married in Moscow Sunday, it was announced officially today.

The foreign ministry, confirming a story that has been an open secret here for days, said the nuptials will be followed by a party in the official House of Receptions in Lenin Hills.

Western reporters were invited to the celebration but the wedding, in one of Moscow's two "palaces of marriage," was declared off-limits to them. However, the ceremony was expected to be televised throughout the Soviet Union.

LABOR LEADERS EDITORS FOR DAY

Just about a year ago, leading Victoria businessmen took over The Times as "Editors for a Day."

The experience proved such a valuable exchange of ideas—both for the businessmen and Times staffers—that it was decided to repeat the performance.

This year, 13 labor leaders have been invited to do the job. Headed by Ald. Alf. Toone, who is also secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council, they have all accepted.

Here is the "Toone Team" for next Tuesday, Nov. 5:

Managing Editor—Alf Toone.
Guest Editorial—Alf. Toone.
News Editor—William Richardson.
City Editor—Murray Drew.
Wire Editor—J. A. Driscoll.
Sports Editor—Vince Butler.
Women's Editor—Mrs. E. Ritchie.
City Hall Reporter—W. G. Gauld.
Police Reporter—J. Moffat.
Legislative Reporter—T. H. Smith.
TV Columnist—J. Galloway.
Movie Columnist—R. Milliken.
Cartoonist—J. Burt.
Photographer—J. Nicol.

News editor Bill Richardson and wire editor J. A. Driscoll have been instructed to report for duty at 6:30 a.m., the regular starting time for Times staffers in checking the early wires. Richardson starts with a slight edge over his colleagues—as an officer of the Victoria Typographical Union, he is a senior employee of Victoria Press Ltd., and thoroughly familiar with the routine.

Special writers have been given complete freedom to "say their piece" in signed columns. Reporters on legislative, city hall and police "beats" will be accompanied by Times writers, who will "show them the ropes" and be available for assistance, if needed.

The Labor team will work right up to copy deadline of 12:30, when they will be hosted at a luncheon by Times publisher Stuart Keate, returning to the plant in time to start the press for regular editions at 2 p.m.

Watch Tuesday night's Times—when Victoria's top labor officials become "Editors for a Day!"

New Craft Forerunner Of Platforms in Space

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said today that the new space ship Polyot-1 is the forerunner of vehicles which may be used for building a moon-shot launching platform in space.

Tass news agency quoted Professor Vladimir Dobronravov, a mechanical engineer, as saying that with the perfection of the Polyot space ships "it will be possible to create such space-ships which will solve the task of cosmonauts meeting in outer space."

Five Sighted

EDMONTON (CP)—An RCAF search plane and a dog team set out today to check whether five persons spotted south of the Arctic community of Cambridge Bay are Eskimos who have been missing for a month.

"Such meetings will be necessary in the future, for building big orbital space stations and for manned flights to the moon and other planets," he added. "The new Soviet spacecraft was launched Friday. It is unmanned."

Compared with the Polyot-1, the manoeuvrability of earlier Sputniks and manned space-ships was limited, he said.

STUDY RADIATION

A Tass science commentator said the Polyot-1 would be used to study radiation belts at various distances from the earth. He said the space craft could be guided to the same altitude and location several times to provide checks on information gathered.

"The fact that the vehicle is given the number one indicates that Soviet scientists intend to make a series of similar launches," the commentator wrote.

U.S. REACTION TO COUP

New Gov't Expected To Heal Buddhist Rift

UN PROBE EXPECTED TO STOP

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Diplomatic sources indicated today the UN fact-finding mission that was sent to South Viet Nam will drop its investigations.

The seven-nation mission was sent to Saigon 12 days ago, after it was invited to the southeast Asian nation by President Ngo Dinh Diem to investigate charges of discrimination against Buddhists.

Canadians Safe

LONDON (Reuters)—The British embassy in Saigon has informed the foreign office here that all Canadian and British subjects in Saigon are safe, an authoritative source said today.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expects the new government in South Viet Nam to heal the rift with the country's Buddhist majority and speedily resume the war against the Communist guerrillas.

Officials here believe the revolutionary committee of generals that ousted the Diem regime has the widespread popular support necessary for success of the U.S.-backed war effort.

They contend the removal of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, resulted from a conclusion by the Vietnamese army leadership that the Viet Cong could not be defeated under the Roman Catholic-oriented Diem government.

It was noted here that political prisoners, students and Buddhist monks and nuns, imprisoned under Diem and Nhu, were quickly released by the military leaders. This is expected to go far in winning public support for the military regime.

Russians Blame U.S.

LONDON (Reuters)—Moscow radio said today the coup in South Viet Nam showed the bankruptcy of Washington's policy aimed at using its puppet to make the South Vietnamese people submit to American rule.

It said the U.S. wanted to get rid of President Ngo Dinh Diem "to give them the chance to

Fled Palace Through Tunnel

By NEIL SHEEHAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Highly reliable military sources said today rebel troops assassinated President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu shortly after a perfectly executed military coup ended their eight-year rule in a 17-hour revolution.

End of the Diem regime touched off celebrations by joyous mobs who surged through the streets carrying rebel troops on their shoulders.

Students freed by the military roamed the city in an orgy of hatred, burning, looting and pillaging buildings and business establishments owned by the Ngo family.

Saigon Radio said Diem and his brother, husband of outspoken Madame Nhu, committed suicide while being transported to jail in an armored personnel carrier.

But highly reliable informants said they were slain by the men who captured them in a Roman Catholic church in the suburb of Cholon across the Saigon River.

It was believed both Ngo brothers escaped from the besieged presidential palace in Saigon in the pre-dawn hours today through a secret tunnel shortly before assaulting marines overran and captured the building.

The informants said leaders of the coup received information late in the morning that Diem was in the church in Cholon. The coup leaders did not know that Nhu was with him but dispatched armored personnel carriers and a company of troops.

'Coup In Classic Military Style'

The troops found the Ngo brothers sitting in the church and ordered them into one of the armored carriers. On the way to military headquarters in Saigon an order was given and the soldiers inside the armored vehicle shot them to death.

When the troop carrier reached military headquarters the men were found inside dead.

The coup executed in classic military style was led by pro-Western Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, a widely respected military leader described by American officials as "someone we could get along with." Former Vice-President Nguyen Ngoc Tho was named provisional president.

The military group is expected to announce the participation of other civilians who are not only anti-Communist but pro-Western in their thinking. One is Vu Van Mau, who resigned as foreign minister last August when the Diem government cracked down on Buddhist monks and nuns and has been living in exile in India.

Mau is a Buddhist, as is Gen. Duong Van Minh. The new government in a series of communiques pledged itself to devote its energies to prosecuting the war against the communist Viet Cong alongside the U.S. military advisers. It promised freedom of religion and a return to civilian rule "when the situation permits."

Although Saigon swarmed with troops and the presidential palace was a shattered ruin, the city appeared to be returning to normal.

Saigon Radio began playing Benny Goodman, rock 'n' roll, hula music and twist songs banned by Mme. Nhu as unpatriotic. A mixed chorus gave forth with a rousing new song which began with the words: "Destroy dictatorship and feudalism."

International airlines said they were resuming operations.

Climaxed Six Months of Crises

The coup against Diem followed six months of religious and political crises marked by wholesale arrests of Buddhists and students by the predominantly Roman Catholic Diem regime and highlighted by the ritual protest suicides of seven Buddhists by fire.

It began shortly after noon Friday when three battalions of marines aided by army units from the nearby Quang Trung military camp seized key points in Saigon, overpowered some of the special forces troops loyal to Diem and captured navy headquarters.

It ended at 6:42 a.m. today after a four-hour siege of the palace where Diem and Nhu were reported hiding out in bunkers in the basement.

The series of events leading up to Diem and Nhu's capitulation was swift and carried out with precision. The marines seized the key points and leaders of the coup broadcast an appeal to Diem to step down and avoid bloodshed.

The appeal went unheeded. As military leaders throughout the country swung over to the side of the insurgents Minh began the task of systematically wiping out the last resistance—mostly members of the special forces group trained by the Central Intelligence Agency.

The rebels brought up 10 M24 tanks and razed the presidential guard barracks, and the guard quickly surrendered. At 3 a.m. the marines attacked the palace itself with the attackers facing the defenders at a distance of only 80 yards.

The defenders had armor but the rebels had more. Artillery and mortar fire rained on the palace grounds from 3 a.m. till 4 a.m. as the fighting gradually intensified. At 4:15 the rebels cut loose with all they had.

Stay In U.S? 'Never'

(Times News Service)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu said today that assassination of her husband and brother-in-law was a "dirty crime and nothing less than murder." She promised to return to South Viet Nam.

Mme. Nhu attacked the United States in a prepared statement read as she sat in the lobby of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel before attending mass on All Souls Day.

"If those reports of the treasonable death of the Nhu family are true," she said, "it will only be the beginning of the story in Viet Nam." Friday, she snapped "never!" to a reporter's question as to whether she would seek asylum in the United States if the coup was successful.

"I cannot stay in a country whose government stabbed me in the back," she said.

BLAMES U.S.

She blamed the coup on U.S. intervention.

Messages of condolence on the overthrow of her brother-in-law's government poured into the hotel switchboard all day.

Her original travel plans were to leave Los Angeles early next week for Tokyo, Hong Kong and Saigon, the final leg of her five-week round-the-world tour.

Amid early reports of the coup, an aide said she would probably stick to her travel plans, at least as far as Tokyo.

But when the report of the deaths reached her, the aide said, "this changes the picture entirely."

Eye Surgery

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu secretly underwent plastic surgery Thursday to remove eye wrinkles, The Evening Outlook says.

Another source said, however, the surgery was to remove a cyst from an eyelid.

No Surprise to Envoy

BOSTON (AP)—Former ambassador Tran Van Chuong of Viet Nam said Friday reports of an attempt to overthrow the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem came as "no surprise to me."

"I have known for a long time of the deep discontent of the whole population of Viet Nam," Chuong told The Associated Press.

Chuong, father of Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, controversial first lady of the bachelor president, resigned last August as Vietnamese ambassador to the United States in a protest against government policy toward Buddhists.

'Knocking' Heard From Disaster Mine

LENDEGE (Reuters)—A faint "knocking" sound was heard today near a shaft being drilled for drainage work at the flooded Mathilde mine, where three West German miners were rescued Friday.

Mine officials said there was practically no chance that more miners had survived the disaster, which killed 40 men.

But microphones and torches would be lowered as a precaution, they added.

The knocking was heard when the shaft, which is being drilled about 900 yards from the spot where the three miners were rescued Friday, was about 296 feet deep. Experts said the knocking could have been caused by falling stones or a cable coming in touch with the drill.

Youths Stabbed

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Five youths—three Negroes and two whites—were stabbed early today in a fight at Kiel Auditorium as a rock 'n' roll show was ending.

MOTORIST GETS OWN BACK

BURTON - ON - TRENT, England (AP)—Police Constable Edward Routledge told a motorist he would be reported for parking on the wrong side of the highway at night without lights.

As the policeman rode away on his bicycle, the motorist, Norman Loff, noticed that the policeman's rear light wasn't working. So he reported the cop.

Both turned up in court Friday.

The motorist was fined £5 ($15) the policeman £2.

Loss Confirmed

TAIPEH (Reuters)—The Chinese Nationalist Air Force today confirmed the loss of a "high altitude reconnaissance aircraft" in Communist China Friday but refused to disclose any details.

'Useful' Documents

MONTREAL (UPI)—Police have found "some very useful" documents in their raid at offices of the Senegalese International Union, federal prosecutor Jean Marchais said today.

Saigon: History has a very tough way o' catchin' up with folks.

In the SIU case, d' y' s'pose Banks got flooded out or jst caved in?

Th' city hall project's reached th' point o' no return. Thank goodness.

Strachan Wants Committee To Advise on Hospital Care

By FRANK RUTTER
Appointment of a special advisory committee on hospital care in B.C. is advocated by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan. The committee would be composed of representatives from the B.C. medical, hospital and nurses' associations and the provincial government's Hospital Insurance Service.

It would be a continuous group. "It would settle all problems that came up and give guidance all the time," Mr. Strachan said.

He got the idea from Claude Green, chairman of the board of King's Daughters' Hospital at Duncan, he said.

Mr. Strachan said this was the only way to deal with such issues as the current inquiry on baby deaths.

This was triggered last week by Dr. R. E. Adams of St. Joseph's Hospital, who charged that too many babies are dying in B.C. hospitals and blamed insufficient staff on lack of government funds.

SIDE ISSUE

Mr. Strachan said this inquiry, being made by the deputy minister of hospital insurance, was really only "a side issue."

The main issue, he said, is the general standard of hospital care and a long record of crises and controversies over government aid.

He cited last year's trouble at Vernon, where a hospital was unable to meet its payroll; the resignation of hospital directors at Lillooet and the threat to close Vancouver General Hospital's outpatients' department for lack of funds.

Arthur Mayse

Backward looking is a sport I rarely indulge in. Much better to follow wise Odysseus' example—stop the ears against those voices from the siren rocks of the past, and sail on toward the ever-shifting land-fall of the future.

Anyway, the past wasn't all that good. If I'd tried any such fatmouth, windy, lead paragraph when I was a cub reporter, the city editor would have destroyed it with one soft-lead slash of a copy pencil.

Then he'd have suggested I sail the hell off and get him some hard news.

This I'd have done, pausing for nickel coffee and a yeast doughnut at a nearby greasy spoon run by a character we knew, among ourselves, as "Bottlenose."

We didn't pay for the coffee, of course. On salaries of 12 or 15 bucks a week, young reporters rarely paid for anything.

Bottlenose, a good guy, played along with us. Week in, month out, we signed our chits for Bottlenose to spike, secure in the knowledge that no day of reckoning would arrive.

It did, though. A smarty-pants newshen, now a journalist of national repute, let our host's nickname slip, let our host's tongue within his hearing.

Next morning, first edition put to bed, our little band mooched into Bottlenose's joint.

No coffee. No doughnut. Just a wounded stare, and for each penniless reporter, a manila envelope bulging with half a year's IOUs.

In spite of such reverses, it was easy when looking back, to delude myself that life was a ball.

In actual fact, about all we had was youth, and a pride that made us even more clamorous than doctors and policemen. Except to raid a girl from the lowlands, or as an aid to getting a story, we were not inclined to fraternize with the citizenry.

Our uniform was the $20 hat and the dirty trenchcoat with upturned collar. We carried press badges as much like police poties as the paper could get away with, but it was a point of honor never to flash them. The firemen at the four-alarm blaze and the detectives on the murder scene knew we were reporters.

To the few on the outside who won our confidence, we were loyal. If word reached our newsrooms that a politician who played fair with us was drunk in the wrong spot, we rounded him up and dried him out.

Our acquaintance did not exclude thieves and sporting girls. From one of these last, over coffee in Bottlenose's joint after he forgave us, I heard the most eloquent pitch for chastity ever to tingle my ears.

We also had our enemies, whom we dealt with in ways of our own. Slugging a reporter was held to be unwise, but more than one newsman stopped a set of knuckles. I knew a photographer who was expert at parrying a blow or busting a head with his heavy old Speed Graphic press camera.

Mostly, though, we worked. Our workday, Monday through Saturday, began at eight o'clock. If it lasted later than two the next morning, we were permitted to sign for a taxi home. But at eight, we were expected to be back on deck.

Three evening assignments a week was about average; five not unusual, with a Sunday afternoon job tossed in for a makeweight. No overtime. That was something printers and pressmen got, not reporters.

Being young, we thrived on this inhumane treatment. Even when the last edition was away and we had no night assignments, we hung around the shop. Something might break, and anyway, the big, horse-shoe shaped news desk made an excellent nap table.

What happened, of course, was that we grew older. We married our girls. We learned that to feather a nest costs money, and began to beef about night assignments.

Some stayed on the papers. Others drifted to new fields. A few, like me, came back. It's a different game now, the changes all for the good. Only I do get a touch lonely for the bad old days.

Except for me, the only Times' hand who owns a trenchcoat is reporter Marge Gilroy.

Hers is very clean, and she doesn't wear the collar up.

Talks Asked In Dispute Over Garage

University District Ratepayers' Association today claimed "about 70" local residents have agreed to turn in their Standard Oil credit cards in a protest movement.

Mrs. Leah Brown, spokesman for the group opposing a new service station at University of Victoria gates, also announced a new attempt to win support of Oak Bay council.

She said the credit card boycott list includes members of her group as well as a number of people from other districts. She said the list grows daily.

And she added, "we have just asked council for an audience Monday night."

"There has been no response to our request. We have asked that a spokesman be allowed to address council while the meeting is open to the public."

NO COMMENT

She added that ratepayers group members "probably will fill the place."

Meanwhile in Vancouver, D. R. Baker, president of Standard Oil of B.C., refused to comment on the local uproar over the new service station.

Weekend Royalty

Fleeing Driver Causes Accident

An 18-year-old university student who drove through a red light early this morning trying to escape police caused an accident which sent two persons to hospital.

In city magistrate's court later Peter Moore, of Duncan, pleaded guilty to dangerous driving, disobeying a police officer and going through a stop sign.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded him to Nov. 8 for probation report and sentence.

The magistrate asked him: "Do you realize how narrowly you came to killing these people? I don't really think you do."

"I don't know what is going to be done in this community about irresponsible driving such as this."

Constable John Rickerby testified he saw Moore drive through a stop sign at Quadra and Broughton about 1:15 this morning. Const. Rickerby said he shouted to Moore to pull over and stop.

Moore slowed his car and then, when the officer approached him, speeded up and drove off, going through a red light at Fort and Quadra.

He hit a car driven by Brian Taylor, 21, of Campbell River, which was proceeding along Fort. Moore's vehicle spun around in the intersection out of control and reversed over a curb and sidewalk before coming to a stop on a used car lot.

Taylor was admitted to St.

CITY SOCREDS ASK CURBS ON TOBACCO, LIQUOR ADS

Curtalement of tobacco and liquor advertising in British Columbia will be proposed at a Social Credit convention next week.

J. Donald Smith, Victoria MEA, today said this is one of several resolutions to be put forward by Victoria delegates.

The convention, at Royal Towers Motor Hotel, New Westminster, Friday and Saturday, will be asked to support a ban on advertising where it might affect B.C. youth.

He said some Victoria delegates believe that radio and TV advertising of these products should be relegated to evening hours. Mr. Smith said he did not believe Victoria delegates were unanimous in this, "but it is bound to get a good airing at the convention."

He said Victoria, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay will each send 25 voting delegates plus non-voting members to the two-day meeting.

About 500 people are expected from all B.C. points. The Women's Auxiliary to the Social Credit League meets Thursday at the same hotel. Young Social Crediters meet there Saturday.

National Leader Robert Thompson, Maurice Cote (Chicoutimi) and Alberta Provincial Secretary Ambrose Holowach are invited guests.

Penticton Youth Guilty Of Escape

A 15-year-old Penticton youth pleaded guilty in city magistrate's court this morning to escaping from Brannan Lake Boys' School Sept. 24.

James Dale Bailey also admitted stealing a car near Nanaimo shortly after he escaped from the school.

He was remanded until Nov. 8 for sentence on both charges by Magistrate William Ostler.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkett said the boy had an extensive police record as a juvenile. Bailey originally appeared in juvenile court on both charges. He was transferred to magistrate's court Friday.

USED OPEN DOOR

Mr. Birkett said Bailey walked out an open door at Brannan Lake about 8 p.m. Sept. 24 "when a guard's back was turned." He walked along the railroad tracks to Nanaimo where, early next morning, he stole a car and drove to Victoria.

Mr. Birkett said Bailey was arrested on Government Street after being seen driving the stolen car in the wrong direction around the Roundabout.

quiet at 6 p.m. Saturday. About 60 resolutions are due for consideration.

The provincial New Democrats convene in Burnaby the following weekend, Nov. 16-17, and the provincial Liberals at Vancouver Jan. 17-18.

292 SIGN PETITION

Action Sought On Creek

Doncaster area residents, 292 strong, called Friday for a showdown with city council on Bowker Creek.

They said it is a hazard to life, health and property, and they want it covered over and sealed underground.

They made their entreaty in a lengthy petition delivered to City Hall.

The petition was followed up today by an invitation by Doncaster Area Committee secretary C. M. Morrison. Through The Times he asked council to visit the creek.

He said his nine-person committee is ready to meet with council at any time to back the petition's demands.

"The first petition like this went to council 17 years ago," he said.

ONE DROWNING

Since then there have been floods, one drowning and numerous complaints of rats and property damage.

"One of our people has kept a scrap book of published complaints. It is a fat one," he said.

The creek winds generally southward from Saanich through east Victoria and into Oak Bay. It has been a constant irritation and hazard. A child was drowned there in 1947. About 10 years later a serious flood resulted.

HOMES DAMAGED

The water was so deep, reporters and policemen toured Edgeware Street in small boats and many homes were severely damaged.

In the petition the area residents say their problems would be solved by covering the creek for six blocks between Hillside and North Dairy Road.

They say in low water the creek is filled with stagnant pools of dormant water. In high water, there is two feet of water in neighborhood basements.

FENCES BROKEN

They say banks are so steep a child could not climb, and protective fences are broken and dilapidated. They say bank erosion is threatening power poles and private yards.

OLDEST WITH MOSTEST is Fred Baker, 80, Sidney-North Saanich United Appeal canvasser who has just gone $3 over area target of $2,400. With only 202 subscriptions received from 1,600 letters mailed, campaign's oldest canvasser expects big excess from remaining residents. Appeal now stands at $269,267. Target is $400,000.

Ask The Times

Q. Did Warren Spahn ever win the Purple Heart? What is his lifetime strikeout total? G.C.

A. Warren Spahn, pitcher for Milwaukee Braves baseball team, was awarded the Purple Heart for being wounded in action in Germany in 1944. During his career he has struck out 2,415 major league batters.

Q. Will you please let me know when Queen Elizabeth Theatre in Vancouver was opened? F. W.

A. July 11, 1938.

TOPICS of the DAY

There will be no letter carrier service or rural mail delivery on Remembrance Day, according to Victoria Post Office.

The lobby of the Post Office will be open Nov. 11 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and wickets will be staffed until noon.

Street letter box collections will be in the evening only.

Old Age Pensioners, Branch No. 5, will hold its general meeting in the Naval Veterans' Hall Wednesday.

The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m., for nomination and election of officers.

Weather for the weekend is more of the same—unsettled. Weatherman William Mackie said this morning that today's mild weather should give way to rain and wind tonight, with a wind warning in effect for waters near Victoria.

Gusts of 35 miles an hour should be expected from the southeast, with the wind shifting to the southwest Sunday morning and continuing about 35.

Rain should taper off Sunday, with occasional sunny periods in the afternoon—and then more rain towards Monday.

Esquimalt Council will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Municipal Hall.

The Outdoor So-Ed Club of the Y.M.W.C.A. will meet Sunday afternoon at 1:30 outside the Y-building for a trip to Francis Nature Park.

On Tuesday, it will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Y for a tour of the Victoria weather bureau. Persons between 18 and 40 wishing to join should contact the president, Edward Lee, at EV 4-7967.

Some 325 members of 26 different churches will distribute 40,000 pieces of literature on the Greater Victoria Crusade for Christ to be held in Central Junior High School Nov. 10-17.

City police are investigating two break-ins that occurred overnight Friday.

The home of A. Szotak, 1148 Mason, was entered through an unlocked window and about $85 stolen. This occurred shortly before 9 p.m.

At Young and Banfield, 794 Fort, a window was broken to gain entry and four transistor radios, each worth $60, were stolen.

NEW PRESIDENT of the Victoria Highland Games Association is piper Ian T. Duncan, 2506 Wootton Crescent. Other officers elected at the annual meeting this week were vice-president A. H. Bamford, secretary Mrs. Gaby G. Hebdon, and treasurer W. H. Brown.

UTILITY PAYROLL REVEALED FOR FIRST TIME

Seven Hydro Executives in $20,000 Bracket

Seven top B.C. Hydro employees are getting more than $20,000 a year, according to records disclosed for the first time by the crown agency.

The Hydro payroll is detailed in a statement now required under B.C.'s Public Bodies Financial Information Act.

The total Hydro payroll is $34,538,800 for the financial year which ended last March 31.

The top paid employees are: Chief engineer John H. Steele, $27,500; Staff services manager John J. Carson, $25,625; Operations manager P. W. Barchard, $24,250;

Transportation manager Sig Sigmundson, $20,987; Associate manager of engineering R. C. McMordie, $20,948;

Chief civil engineer F. A. Lazenby, $20,460;

Treasurer Thomas Chambers, $20,389.

Highest salaries of all go to the co-chairmen, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside and Dr. Gordon Shrum, $40,000 each.

Directors Einar Gunderson, W. C. Mearns and F. A. Lee, get $27,500.

The statement, 157 pages of details, shows Dr. Keenleyside had expenses totalling $4,173 and Dr. Shrum $7,019. Mr. Mearns' expenses totalled

$4,653; Mr. Lee spent $3,164 and Mr. Gunderson $2,925.

The statement lists all Hydro accounts of over $500.

Among them is an item of $278,888 for moving and commuting expenses involved in the big shift of Hydro personnel from Victoria to Vancouver.

The other accounts include $8,897,604 to Westcoast Transmission Co. and $5,652,284 to Portage Mountain Contractors, the group of companies working on the Peace River Power project.

More than $11,000,000 went to the provincial government in taxes and fees.

The telephone bill was $543,800.

Hydro had previously issued its detailed statement of financial operations, showing a profit for the year of $14,000,000.

Among the small accounts were such apparently odd items as $1,293 to the B.C. Lions Football Club, $1,200 to the B.C. Jockey Club and $1,000 to the Kay Armstrong School of Ballet.

A Hydro official explained that the football money was for program advertising, the Jockey Club was paid admission fees to Vancouver races provided in a special bus service to the public, and the dancing school got $1,000 for putting on a Christmas concert party which travelled around various B.C. centres for employees' children.

Smoke Fells Man In Apartment Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—David Droppe, about 60, was treated for smoke inhalation early today when fire damaged a two-storey apartment building in the West End. Six persons fled the building.

River Contaminated By Cyanide

NEWTON, Ill. (UPI)—Deadly cyanide contaminated the Embarras River in southeastern Illinois today and shut off the water supply to this farming community of 3,000 persons. City officials filled the town's storage tanks to capacity while the poison was still upstream and authorities warned farmers along the winding stream.

Five Bags of Registered Mail Stolen

CALGARY (CP)—Five bags of registered mail were stolen Friday night when a postal driver left his truck to make a delivery, police said today. Police said value of the mail was not determined, but the bags contained 26 parcels and registered letters.

Missing Eskimos Spotted By Plane

WINNIPEG (CP)—RCAF officials today confirmed that four of five Eskimos missing for a month in the Northwest Territories are safe at Perry Island, 1,100 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The pilot of the RCAF search plane, that started combing the area Thursday, today dropped a radio to the Hudson Bay post at Perry Island and was assured the Eskimos spotted there Friday were those being sought.

Ottawa Clips Argos In EFC Windup

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Ottawa Roughriders scored touchdowns on their first two plays from scrimmage today and went on to thump the Toronto Argonauts, 30-21, in their windup game of the Eastern Football Conference.

LABOR LEADERS EDITORS FOR DAY

Just about a year ago, leading Victoria businessmen took over The Times as "Editors for a Day." The experience proved such a valuable exchange of ideas—both for the businessmen and Times staffers—that it was decided to repeat the performance.

This year, 13 labor leaders have been invited to do the job. Headed by Ald. Alf Toone, who is also secretary-treasurer of Victoria Labor Council, they have all accepted.

Here is the "Toone Team" for next Tuesday, Nov. 5:

Managing Editor—Alf Toone.
Guest Editor—Alf Toone.
News Editor—William Richardson.
City Editor—Murray Drew.
Wire Editor—J. A. Driscoll.
Sports Editor—Vince Butler.
Women's Editor—Mrs. E. Ritchie.
City Hall Reporter—W. G. Gauld.
Police Reporter—J. Moffat.
Legislative Reporter—T. H. Smith.
TV Columnist—J. Galloway.
Movie Columnist—R. Milliken.
Cartoonist—J. Burt.
Photographer—J. Nicol.

News editor Bill Richardson and wire editor J. A. Driscoll have been instructed to report for duty at 6:30 a.m., the regular starting time for Times staffers in checking the early wires. Richardson starts with a slight edge over his colleagues—as an officer of the Victoria Typographical Union, he is a senior employee of Victoria Press Ltd., and thoroughly familiar with the routine.

Special writers have been given complete freedom to "say their piece" in signed columns. Reporters on legislative, city hall and police "beats" will be accompanied by Times writers, who will "show them the ropes" and be available for assistance, if needed.

The Labor team will work right up to copy deadline of 12:30, when they will be hosted at a luncheon by Times publisher Stuart Keate, returning to the plant in time to start the press for regular editions at 2 p.m.

Watch Tuesday night's Times—when Victoria's top labor officials become "Editors for a Day!"

New Craft Forerunner Of Platforms in Space

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said today that the new space ship Polyot-1 is the forerunner of vehicles which may be used for building a moon-ship launching platform in space.

Tass news agency quoted Professor Vladimir Dobrovolsky, a mechanical engineer, as saying that with the perfection of the Polyot space ships "it will be possible to create such spaceships which will solve the task of cosmonauts meeting in outer space."

"Such meetings will be necessary in the future, for building orbital space stations and for manned flights to the moon and other planets," he added.

The new Soviet spacecraft was launched Friday. It is unmanned.

Compared with the Polyot-1,

Stay In U.S.? 'Never'

(Times News Service)

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—Mme. Nho Dinh Nhu said today that assassination of her husband and brother-in-law was a "dirty crime and nothing less than murder." She promised to return to South Viet Nam.

Mme. Nhu attacked the United States in a prepared statement read as she sat in the lobby of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel before attending mass on All Souls Day.

"If those reports of the treasonable death of the Nhu family are true," she said, "it will only be the beginning of the story in Viet Nam."

Friday, she snapped "never!" to a reporter's question as to whether she would seek asylum in the United States if the coup was successful.

"I cannot stay in a country whose government stabbed me in the back," she said.

She blamed the coup on U.S. intervention.

Messages of condolence on the overthrow of her brother-in-law's government poured into the hotel switchboard all day.

Her original travel plans were to leave Los Angeles early next week for Tokyo, Hong Kong and Saigon, the final leg of her five-week round-the-world tour.

Amid early reports of the coup, an aide said she would probably stick to her travel plans, at least as far as Tokyo.

But when the report of the deaths reached her, the aide said, "this changes the picture entirely."

Three Hurt In Car Accident

Three persons were thrown out of their car when it hit the guard rail of Black Creek Bridge, one-half mile east of Jordan River, shortly after 10 this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Van Hemert of Jordan River and their five-year-old daughter Kim were thrown 50 feet down an embankment.

The Van Hemert vehicle apparently went out of control but was stopped from going over the side by the guard rail.

Part of the rail was knocked out, the door of the car opened and the occupants tumbled out.

New Gov't Expected To Heal Buddhist Rift

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States expects the new government in South Viet Nam to heal the rift with the country's Buddhist majority and speedily resume the war against the Communist guerrillas.

Officials here believe the revolutionary committee of generals that ousted the Diem regime has the widespread popular support necessary for success of the U.S.-backed war effort.

They contend the removal of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, resulted from a conclusion by the Vietnamese army leadership that the Viet Cong could not be defeated under the Roman Catholic-oriented Diem government.

It was noted here that political prisoners, students and Buddhist monks and nuns, imprisoned under Diem and Nhu, were quickly released by the military leaders. This is expected to go far in winning public support for the military regime.

Russians Blame U.S.

LONDON (Reuters)—Moscow radio said today the coup in South Viet Nam showed the bankruptcy of Washington's policy aimed at using its puppet to make the South Vietnamese people submit to American rule.

It said the U.S. wanted to rid of President Ngo Dinh Diem "to give them the chance, to blame him for the crimes he committed in South Viet Nam at their orders and with their direct complicity."

"There are grounds for believing that the Central Intelligence Agency has had a hand in the Saigon coup," it added.

"The handwriting is too familiar."

'Knocking' Heard From Disaster Mine

LENGEDE (Reuters)—A faint "knocking" sound was heard today near a shaft being drilled for drainage work at the flooded Mathilde mine, where three West German miners were rescued Friday.

Mine officials said there was practically no chance that more miners had survived the disaster, which killed 40 men.

But microphones and torches would be lowered as a precaution, they added.

The knocking was heard when the shaft, which is being drilled about 900 yards from the spot where the three miners were rescued Friday, was about 290 feet deep.

Experts said the knocking could have been caused by falling stones or a cable coming in touch with the drill.

Fled Palace Through Tunnel

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI)—Highly reliable military sources said today rebel troops assassinated President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu shortly after a perfectly executed military coup ended their eight-year rule in a 17-hour revolution.

End of the Diem regime touched off celebrations by joyous mobs who surged through the streets carrying rebel troops on their shoulders.

Students freed by the military roamed the city in an orgy of hatred, burning, looting and pillaging buildings and business establishments owned by the Ngo family.

Saigon Radio said Diem and his brother, husband of outspoken Madame Nhu, committed suicide while being transported to jail in an armored personnel carrier.

But highly reliable informants said they were slain by the men who captured them.

'Coup In Classic Military Style'

The troops found the Ngo government cranked down on Buddhist monks and nuns and has been living in exile in India.

Mau is a Buddhist, as is Gen. Duong Van Minh.

The new government in a series of communiques pledged itself to devote its energies to prosecuting the war against the communist Viet Cong alongside the U.S. military advisers. It promised freedom of religion and a return to civilian rule "when the situation permits."

Although Saigon swarmed with troops and the presidential palace was a shattered ruin, the city appeared to be returning to normal.

Saigon Radio began playing Benny Goodman, rock 'n' roll, hula music and twist songs banned by Mme. Nhu as unpatriotic. A mixed chorus gave forth with a rousing new song which began with the words: "Destroy dictatorship and feudalism."

International airlines said they were resuming operations.

Climaxed Six Months of Crises

The coup against Diem followed six months of religious and political crisis marked by wholesale arrests of Buddhists and students by the predominantly Roman Catholic Diem regime and highlighted by the ritual protest suicides of seven Buddhists by fire.

It began shortly after noon Friday when three battalions of marines aided by army units from the nearby Quang Trung military camp seized key points in Saigon, overpowered some of the special forces troops loyal to Diem and captured navy headquarters.

It ended at 6:42 a.m. today after a four-hour siege of the palace where Diem and Nhu were reported hiding out in bunkers in the basement.

The series of events leading up to Diem and Nhu's capitulation was swift and carried out with precision. The marines seized the key points and leaders of the coup broadcast an appeal to Diem to step down and avoid bloodshed.

The appeal went unheeded. As military leaders throughout the country swung over to the side of the insurgents, Minh began the task of systematically wiping out the last remnants of Diem's regime.

The rebels brought up 10 M24 tanks and razed the presidential guard barracks, and the guard quickly surrendered. At 3 a.m. the marines attacked the palace itself with the attackers facing the defenders at a distance of only 80 yards.

The defenders had armor but the rebels had more. Artillery and mortar fire rained on the palace grounds from 3 a.m. till 4 a.m. as the fighting gradually intensified. At 4:15 the rebels cut loose with all they had.

Tanks rolled forward and fired shells into the palace at a furious rate. Marines followed.

MOTORIST GETS OWN BACK

BURTON, ON - TRENT, England (AP)—Police Constable Edward Routledge told a motorist he would be reported for parking on the wrong side of the highway at night without lights.

As the policeman rode away on his bicycle, the motorist, Norman Long, noticed that the policeman's rear light wasn't working. So he reported the officer.

Both turned up in court Friday.

Space Sweethearts To Be Wed Sunday

MOSCOW (UPI)—Cosmonette Valentina Tereshkova and her sweetheart in space, Andrian Nikolayev, will be married in Moscow Sunday. It was announced officially today.

The foreign ministry, confirming a story that has been an open secret here for days, said the nuptials will be followed by a party in the official House of Receptions in Lenin Hills.

Western reporters were invited to the celebration but the wedding, in one of Moscow's two "palaces of marriage," was declared off-limits to them. However, the ceremony was expected to be televised throughout the Soviet Union.

Eye Surgery

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu secretly underwent plastic surgery Thursday to remove eye-wrinkles. The Evening Outlook says.

Another source said, however, the surgery was to remove a cyst from an eyelid.
